How to Detect Low Breeding.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

Did you ever watch a group of young people chattering to each other while some older person sat silent in their midst, almost as much ignored as if he or she were invisible?

It is a sight I see ever once in a while and it always fills me with a combination of sadness and distaste.

Sadness for the older person who has learned by the bitter experience of snubs or indifference to hold his own counsel.

Distaste because, besides being unkind to the younger people, it is a waste of time for young people to treat their elders that way.

Such Treatment of Age Not The Thing.

It really isn't done among people of breeding, refinement and education. It simply isn't the thing. Even if kindness didn't dictate courtesy to older people and a habit of including them in the conversation, good taste would.

Young people of even superficial breeding are courteous to their friend's elders. Any young person of the slightest pretense to manners is careful to pay graceful attention to the older members of his friends' families; to ask after their health, to converse with them when they answer the telephone instead of immediately asking for the son or daughter, to rise when they enter the room, to say good night to them when leaving the house.

And young people with breeding more than skin deep are courteous to their own elders.

It is Only Underbred Young People

Who Flaunt Their Youth.

It is only underbred young people who contradict their elders freely, snap them up if they dare to express an opinion, ignore them, laugh at their ideas, flaunt their own youth in their faces.

People of breeding don't flaunt their youth any more than they would their money.

That's what true breeding does for people, raises them to a higher level where courtesy and decency to each other are just as natural and indispensable habits as frequent bathing.

Breeding Should Bring Out Good Qualities in Humans.

Breeding in animals is to bring out the desired qualities—in cows a large yield of milk, in a race horse speed, in the dog whatever points are considered most admirable.

Breeding in human beings should strengthen all the most desirable qualities—should make them more intelligent, more altruistic, more open-minded, more healthy and more livable.

Suppose there were a human being show. "Would surely be most interesting to see who would take prizes on such points.

At the Yarmouth Y. M. C. A. Boys' Camp, held at Tusket Falls in August, I found MINARD'S LINIMENT most beneficial for sun burn, an immediate relief for colic and toothache.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Capt. Thos. Dalton, who came home from the United States a few years ago and settled down, has decided to go to the States again. As he expresses it, he is rather too old for the trenches but he is able to carry lots of troops across, and in that way do his bit to put a stop to the war. We wish him much success.

Mr. George Davis, of Woodville Road, passed away at noon yesterday after a rather lengthy illness. Mr. Davis was nearing his 70th year. He leaves a son and two daughters here and one son with the C. E. F. in France. Funeral takes place to-morrow which will be attended by the members of the C. B. S. of which he was an old and very highly respected member.

Pte. J. E. Power of the Forestry Battalion is in town on furlough. He returns to St. John's on Saturday next.

The daylight saving arrangement came into force this morning. It is generally thought that it will be found advantageous for the summer months at least. Congratulations to John Anderson.

Much sympathy is expressed for Mr. Robert Payne and family in the sad news received by them on Saturday night that his son, Pte. Stephen Payne, who had just been reported as a prisoner of war in Germany, had died from wounds.

The very fine sum of $173.00, was raised on Saturday—Tag Day—by the W. P. A. for the Red Cross Fund. The young lady collectors were untiring in their work and few escaped without a tag for the whole day. All concerned are to be congratulated on the success of Tag Day.

A fairly good sign of codfish was in the market this morning, and some very fine salmon.

Caplin in small quantities were seen in the harbor yesterday. No doubt the advance guard of the immense army that visit us every year. Several marriages are spoken of for the next couple of weeks. Particulars in due time.

Ladies' Shoe Parlor.

A Telegram representative visited the up-to-date Shoe Store of F. Smallwood yesterday afternoon, and was kindly shown through the premises by Mr. Walter Smallwood, the genial manager. While the general appearance and exhibition of footwear in all departments is highly creditable, we were surprised at the magnificent display and surroundings of their Ladies' Shoe Parlor that has quite recently been opened up. The department to which we refer has recently been constructed by the well known firm of W. J. Ellis. It is built on to the main building and to secure the space it was necessary to cut away hundreds of cubic feet of solid rock.

The room is bright and airy and is the last word in American architecture of that class. In the centre of the room is a large raised cone-shaped skylight, while the ceiling is of white enameled metal plating, the floor is of hardwood and the framing and mouldings are of mahogany stain. On entering the room one is confronted with an elaborate plate glass shoe case with silver mountings, in which are every class of shoe from the latest fashioning boots to the baby and infant's shoes. Running through the centre of the room is a double row of settees where customers can be seated while being attended to. For the exclusive use of lady customers, especially those accompanied by children, an up-to-date rest room has been provided. The room is gas-heated and well ventilated and by a systematic arrangement can be kept at the desired temperature. The services of an experienced saleslady have been engaged and with an able body of efficient and obliging helpers, the firm are in a position to supply the demand of all classes, from the humble country folk to the daughter of a millionaire.

The Gas Range!

The Gas Range means comfort for the housewife; shorter kitchen hours for her, and a cleaner kitchen. It is a great mistake to think that cooking with gas is expensive.

Whenever a woman becomes used to gas for cooking, thoughts of a coal or wood stove fill her with gloom. A Gas range is so much easier to operate, so efficient for all kinds of cooking, and so much cleaner, that the idea of going back to the old style methods is decidedly unpleasant. Yet in winter many housewives think they must use a coal or wood stove, because there is no other way of heating the kitchen. THERE IS ANOTHER WAY AND IT IS FAR BETTER THAN THE OLD. THE CLOW GAS STEAM RADIATOR WAY. May 23, 17.

To bind soups and purees, melt butter, and when bubbling add an equal quantity of flour, when well mixed, add to the boiling soup, stirring constantly.

With the exception of thirty Foresters, all those who had been given leave have returned to duty.
