The Lizzie Annandale Grand Opera Company, which played here recently, had a full house at Stratford on Wednesday night. Having no engagement for Thursday night, they entertained a number of their friends in the dining hall of the Windsor Hotel. Among those present were Justice Falconbridge, Judge and Miss Woods, Sheriff Hossie and Mrs. Hossie and Mr. and Mrs. O'Loane. An improvished programme of selections from the various operas in their repertoire was rendered most enjoyably, after which the party sat down to an excellent lurch. Saturdaynight's train on the Grand Trunk brought to the city several members of the recent Methodist Council at Washington. They were the Rev. F. W. Bourne and Rev. W. H. Horwill, M.A., of England, and Chief Justice Way, of Australia, the latter representing the Bible Christian Church in that colony, and the former two a part of the delegation representing the same denomination in England. Chief Justice Way is making a tour of the world. Though only 54 years of age he has been fifteen years in his present position. He is one of the most distinguished jurists in the world, and has quite recently received the degree of D. C. L. from Oxford University, and is the only Methodist that has ever received such honor at Oxford. Mr. Way is the son of one of the first missionaries sent from England by the Bible Christian Church to Australia. The convention resumed business on Friday.

Mr. Houston discussed the teaching of composition. He urged greater attention to spoken composition, more practice, more solf-criticism. He examined the different sorts of error and different methods of correcting them. Many so-called errors are merely departures from accepted usage for such, the dictum of custom or fashion is the only valid reason that can be given for the correction. All these points were sustained by a variety of examples and illustrations. In the teaching of grammar the text-book is unnecessary. The child's own language and the reading book furnish enough examples for the investigation of the laws of the structure of the sentence, the structure of the vocabulary and the criticism of prose and verse structure.

Mr. Dearness briefly described some of the practices and methods of teaching he had witnessed in Col. Parker's Normal Schoel, Chicago, Children in the First Book then are taught to investigate their experiences in the whole range of the sciences. Knowledge gained by the exercise of the senses is expressed under the direction of the teacher in one or several ways—by oral language, written language, painting, modeling, drawing and marking. In the manual dexterity or "sloyd" room the papils make much of the apparatus used in illustrating their lessons. Some of the uses made of the daily weather maps of the Signal Bervice were pointed out, and the methods of Mr. W. S. Jackman's nature studies described.

The convention came to a close at 4 p.m. It has been very instructive and interesting throughout.

Peterboro, Oct. 24.—The success of the sunrise prayer meetings held by the C. E. Convention is surprising. There were over 600 present at 6:30 when the meeting was called to order yesterday.

Among the greetings read to the convention were these:

"Sydney, C. B.—Maritime Endeavor Union sends hearty greetings. Ephesians, iii., 14 to end. John E. Smith, superintendent."

The report of the committee on the revision of the constitution of the Ontario Christian Endeavor Union is simply a crystallization of their present modes of work. It recognizes the Epworth League of Christian Endeavor by providing under the head of "Members" that "any Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor or Epworth League of Christian Endeavor whose constitution, in its aims and in its prayer meeting obligations, conforms substantially in spirit to what is known as the model constitution, may join this union," etc. It also relieves the secretary of part of his present duties by appointing a treasurer and two assistant secretaries to assist him. The report was adopted unanimously. The following nominations for offices for the ensuing year were made:

President—Rev. J. A. R. Dickson, B. D., Ph. D., Galt.

President—Rev. J. A. K. Diesson, B.D., Ph. D., Galt. Vice-presidents—Thomas Morris, jun., Hamilton; Rev. G. B. Sage, B.A., London. Secretary—E. A. Hardy, B.A., Lindsay. Treasurer—A. F. The convention will meet in the drill shed, the floor of which can accommodate 13,000 chairs. They could erect galleries to accommodate another 13,000. They expect to have above 25,000 delegates present.

The thanks of the convention were carried by a standing vote to the officers of the union for their faithful attendance to duties during the year, also to Mr. W. S. Leslie, Toronto, editor of the Endeavor Herald, who is now ill with typhoid fever. W. H. Skitch, Port Hope, presented the report of the Lookout Committee. It was the endeavor of the committee as far as possible to become personally acquainted with all attending their meetings, to create a more social feeling amongst them and at the same time to impress upon them the great necessity for more definite work for Christ.

R. W. Allen, Kingston, presented the report of the Social Committee. While spiritual work must have the first place in all our undertakings, still progress would be hindered to a great extent if the work of this committee were neglected.

The report of the Prayer Meeting Committee was presented by Mr. T. G. King, Orillia. They had found it an excellent plan to appoint two leaders for each meeting, a lady and a gentleman, the joint leadership doing much to overcome the timidity of some to take part in the meetings.

Miss R. J. McBride, St. Thomas, presented the report of the Music Committee. They believed that God has given each one at least one talent to use for him, and found thas very often those who have not yet confidence enough in themselves to conduct a state of the contract and and an accommittee.

At the afternoon session Mr. F. M. Pratt, general secretary Y. M. C. A., Hamilton, took as his subject "How can the Y. P. S.

expenditure of time and money was required to reach men than women. Therefore they required to be terribly in earnest.
Young men must be sought by novel and bright methods. Again, young men must be reached by young men, The meetings must be varied. Special speakers should be secured. To win young men required

Mr. J. W. Baer, Boston, Mass., general secretary for the United States, in the course of his remarks said there were 17,

Other resolutions passed recommending systematic and practical methods of supporting missions; the systematic study of God's Word according to the plan of inductive studies prepared by Dr. Harper, or similar plans, and re-affirming resolutions adopted at the Minneapolis Convention, declaring "That in the united society only societies connected with evangel. only societies connected with evangelical churches be enrolled on the list of State and local unions, that the pledge is essential to a Society of Christian Endeavor, that all societies should adopt the revised pledge, and that we condemn intemperance in every form and stand for total abstinence The convention was brought to a close by the Mizpah benediction.

The work of a flower committee was reported by Miss McIntyre, Stratford. The aim of this committee is to leave as much pleasure, comfort and beauty as possible in the sick room. In the Stratford society one member is detailed to look after the decorating of the Lord's sanctuary on each Saturday evening. The flowers are afterwards sent to the sick. That none may be overlooked, the president asks for the names of sick ones, and the pastor also aids by sending in a list of the sick.

Mrs. Price, Peterboro, presented the report of work done by temperance committees, giving a number of practical suggestions ior furthering the work of temperance, and hoping that a more prominent place would be given to such work at the next convention. If nothing else were done the members could be educated for earnest, aggressive work.
