The Referendum.

The assertion is made that Concervatives were advised by the party managers in the Province to vote for the Liquor Act with the object of "putting the Government in a hole." The fact that strongly Conservative cities like Toronto and Hamilton gave majorities for the act is adduced in support of the statement, but we think It has very little basis. It is true, however, as the Premier points out, that many who voted for the Liquor Act voted against the Government in support of a party whose leader is He thought the fates had used him ill, hostile to prohibition in any form. No doubt some Conservatives did vote for the act with the idea of embarrassing the Government. The Hamilton Spectator admits there was something of the kind in that city. But we do not the kind in that city. But we do not And in two eyes a duliness crept; think they were numerous enough to He knelt down where his baby lay, be an appreciable factor in the large majority in favor of the act. Doubt- And cried: 'Oh, God. I did not know less such people imagined that a victory for prohibition would injure the Government's chances in the bye-elections because Conservative prohibitionists could be relied upon to vote the party ticket, and the liquor interests would concentrate their forces to defeat the Liberal candidates. There is some logic in this, but if the act had carried and the Government had lost Blupher. "Yes, sir," boldly asserted Colonel the bye-elections, Mr. Whitney's position would be infinitely more difficult then Mr. Ress's. There are two polls to hear from in East Middlesex. These returns give further proof that a by no means impossible mark was set for the prohibitionists, and that the indifferent voter was the obstacle. The argument holds good that while so vast a number of people are not sufficiently interested to go to the polls, it would be unwise to hazard a prohibitory law. although the result of the vote is distinctly encouraging to the temperance cause. The act received the support of many liquor users, who may be called temperance men as distinguished from abstainers or prohibitionists. This suggests that temperance reform should proceed upon practical lines upon which both classes may unite. It is likely the Government will respond to the recent vote by temperance legislation at the ensuing session, as it is well known that a measure of that kind had been prepared, before the Privy Council's decision on the Mani-

The municipal nominations are only three weeks distant. There is vast room for improvement in the council. and citizens will be glad of the opportunity to turn out some of the mediocrities who have been of more use to the corporations than to the city this year. It will be a reproach to the community if any members of this clique squeeze into the council of 1903 There is an excellent chance for men of ability and standing to show some public spirit, and rescue the city from the influences which have made the present council the most notoriously Inefficient in years. We understand the Conservative Club will make an effort to turn down some of its aldermanic proteges and bring out a more creditable ticket. There is no sense in Introducing machine politics into municipal affairs, but if a political organization undertakes to play that role, it should put forward men who are fit for the office. Good men next year will be welcomed regardless of their politics. The abolition of the ward system has smoothed their path: there is no necessity of canvassing and button-holing voters.

7 PERSONS KILLED AND 20 HURT

Accident Caused by Pilot Breaking Loose From Engine-Cars Roll Down Embankment.

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 7 .- One of the worst railway accidents on record in the history of the Maritime Provinces occurred on the I. C. R. on Saturday night, when C. P. R. express No. 25, from Halifax, was derailed at Belmont station, just west of Truro. Seven people were killed and 20 injured-15 of them seriously. The accident was caused by the breaking loose of the pilot, which dropped in front of the engine. The engine plowed up the track, then turning over on its side. The secondclass car, baggage car and postal were telescoped and toppled over the embankment a mass of shattered wood and iron. The colonist car went under the baggage car, and the top was cut off the full length of the car down to
