Ald. Ashplant took the ground that Ald. Palmer was not entitled to a seat, and he wanted Mr. Meredith to quote his authority for saying that he could sit in the council. Aid. Wilson seconded the motion, and in doing so paid his respects to Ald. Palmer.

"He attacked me at the last meeting of the council when I was not present," declared Ald. Wilson. "He referred to some letters written by me as "lousy letters." I tell you that it was a cowardly attack. No man would use such language behind a man's back unless he was a coward. I know he is, for I have seen him abuse other men.
