PRIDAY MORN NG. MARCH 16, 1883

The Mail and the gang of stock jubbers now busy trying to unload their burdens on the public, are beginning to go through the squirmings that invariably precede the action known to the stock markets as "going down on their knees." Their abuse of The World and belittling epithets will not help them cut of the hole. Neither will they help to remove the well-founded suspicion that the Mail is "used" by interested stock had had a pane-of glass put in a broken window.

"Who put that new pane in?"

She responded that Mr. Lauderbach, the glazier across the street, had put in the new pane. The official sunk into a chair. He turned as pale as a piece of old tripe, and tearing out his hair by the roots, he exclaimed in an agonized tone of voice: "We are a ruined family. Don't you know that the glazier Lauderbach is suspected of disloyalty. If the police hear of it, I shall lose my position," and once more the official groaned in his spirit like an old horse with the colic.

WHAT A BOWMANVILLE EDITOR HAS TO SAY REGARDIN DIXON'S CATARRII REMEDY. BOWMANVILLE, Canada, Jan. 2 1983.

To the Editor of the Stateman.

DEAR SHE,—Perhaps some of your readers are afficied with that dreadful disease—Catar h. If 80, I ask permi sion to say through the Statesman that I have been a subject of Catarth for the last twenty years and for the last eight years no one can tell the pains I have endured. At tim s I had a dull, heavy headache, dischar, e talling into the threat of a thick tenacious mucus. My eyes were weak and watery, ringle g in the e-rs, deafness, hacking and coughing to dear the throat, and at times I was almost softened. I consulted a me of the best physicians of the day, but to no effect. I have tried every kind of patent medicines, washes and snuffs, that I could hear of, but did not receive the least benefit until I tried Dixon's Catarris Remeny. On the 5th August last I procured the remody and started its use immediately, and by the use of only three treatments I consider myself permanently cured. Its beneficial action was immediate and the cure speedy. Judging from the effects of this treatment on myself, I am satisfied that Dixon's is the only known treatment for Catarrh which will effect a permanent cure. To all who are suff-ring from Catarrh I must conscientiously say: Give Dixon & Son's Catarrh Remedy a fair trial; it is "worth its weight in gold," sincerely yours.

Note by the Publisher.—The Publisher of the Statesman has had an instinate acquaintance with Mr Oke for about thirty years, and on, with scores of others, vouch for the correctness of the above statement. We have never known so bad a case of Catarrh as Mr. Oke's was, and the use of Dixou's Catarrh fremedy has effected a perfect cure, so that no symptoms whatever of the disonse remain. We gladly sive space to Mr. Oke's letter in the hope that it may be of benefit to some victim of Catarrh Messrs. A. H. Dixon & Son will send a treatise on Catarrh free on receipt of stamp.
