

Midwestern Items.

Our apple buyers who shipped to the English market have had their first lot with disappointing results. In every instance the result was a pretty heavy loss.

A. J. Morrison's new house in this week received the finishing touches. It is a Queen Ann cottage, fitted with furnace, bath-room, and other modern conveniences, and will rank among the very handsome in the country.

Mullah's cannery factory has just closed down for the season. During the eight weeks it has been in operation over two thousand barrels of apples have been canned. Some 700 cases, worth about $1800, have been already shipped.

Mr. Mullah intends putting up all the different fruits in their season. The Auburn Cannery Co., of which he is manager, not long ago shipped a car load of cranberries to Montreal, which netted over $1000. He has just received an order from the same firm for a second car load, but was unable to fill it as he had not the berries. His difficulty in this instance is not to find a market, but to raise enough berries to fill orders.

Parents and others interested in educational work, who have a half hour or so of spare time, will find the principal's room of our school a very pleasant place to spend it.

Mr. McCall is much pleased with his pupils and speaks highly of the order observed, and diligence during school hours and in preparing work at home. The school is now in its splendid working order, and will compare favorably with the best in the country.

Principal McCall is always glad to welcome visitors, especially ladies. Just pay him a visit and see what a pleasant smile he has when he greets you on entering.

Miscellaneous.

Mrs. Agnes Whitman, of Albany, is visiting friends here, and is at present the guest of Mrs. Elizabeth H. Brown.

Thomas Conard has returned from the United States, where he has been laboring during the past year.

The pupils left vacant by the departure of the Rev. Mr. Bradshaw to other fields of usefulness, was occupied on Sunday by the Rev. Maynard Brown, of Oakley.

Special services, conducted by the Rev. Geo. H. Foster, of the Baptist church, of Farmington and others, will begin at this place Tuesday evening the 28th. All are cordially invited.

In the store of our young merchant, T. M. Smith, Boy, may be seen a very fine display of holiday wares, embracing a variety of the beautiful, from which fathers, mothers, brothers and lovers may select suitable Xmas gifts.

A few hundred loaves, left on the shelves at the end of the mill, have been driven to the mill and are being saved with all possible speed, the mill being worked from early morning till late in the evening. Two or three weeks of open weather will suffice to make a finish of them.

The shivers took possession of us when, on Friday morning, we looked out upon the landscape shrouded in her fleecy robes, ten days of nearly two inches of snow, naturally proved to be only a reminder of the winter season.

The thrashing machine is around and is kept busy. Miss Rita M. Baker, our dressmaker, has abundance of work.

Mrs. Zealous Elliott, who has had a very sore throat, a little better now. Mr. C. Miller, our stockbroker, has been to St. John, and has his winter goods now on hand.

The weather is very fine at present. The farmers are taking advantage of it and getting their fall work done up.

Mr. Francis Miller, of our oldest citizens, is very sick at present. We are in hopes he will get around once more.

Mr. S. W. Armstrong, who has been to Boston for a few weeks, has returned to his home in New Scotland.

Our school has begun, and is under the supervision of Miss Elizabeth B. Brown, who is a very capable teacher.

Mrs. John Brown, an old and respected citizen of Port George, is visiting her sister, Mrs. William Armstrong, of this place.

Mr. John McCall is a very busy man. He has been practicing some of them on the road, and was highly pleased at the results obtained.

One of the busiest places in town on Saturday was J. R. Elliott's auction room. Mr. John Hall proves an inimitable auctioneer.

On Tuesday, at two o'clock, Mr. Isaac Darling was married to Miss Mary E. Darling, daughter of Mr. J. R. Elliott, of this place.

We wish them much joy. Mr. James H. Whitman has added largely to his stock of horses this fall. He has been practicing some of them on the road, and was highly pleased at the results obtained.

Incidents of the Presidential Campaign.

S. M. P. FURNISHES OUR READERS WITH A

LITERARY DISCUSSION OF HIS LATE

AMERICAN VICE.

Mr. E. B. Foster, a vacation

in the United States, I decided to arrange matters so as to be in New York during the Presidential Election. So on the 20th of October we took train for New York. After an uneventful trip we reached our destination, and having spent a couple of days there, proceeded to Fall River by train, connecting at that city with the Atlantic for New York. One needs to travel

on one of these magnificent ships to get an idea of a floating palace. Landing in the metropolitan city of America on the 1st of November, we found the campaign in full blast; but unlike previous presidential elections, being conducted very quietly—

the result being almost at hand by appeal to the reason rather than the emotions. A strong, revision against the late

McKinley Bill was apparent, and that leading republicans were abandoning their party on that account was evident. Hearing that Hon. Wayne MacVay, of Pennsylvania, and Ex-Gov. Campbell of Ohio

were to speak in Brooklyn in behalf of the democracy, I resolved to be present, and accordingly I proceeded to be present, and thoroughly with eager listeners, to the impression of some fine music as a prelude to the oratorical display now to follow. A number of prominent public men of Brooklyn

were on the platform, and soon Mr. MacVay

took the floor. This gentleman was a distinguishingly successful man, a staunch democratic ally. He is a spare man, over medium height, smooth shaven, and very active nervous temperament. As a speaker he begins somewhat slowly, but soon he becomes more fluent, and his

eloquence, waiting more and more eloquent
