

E. Conclusion

At some point an international meeting must take place, not to go over the consensus that exists, but rather to get down to some serious organizing. Priority activities include developing media materials, especially videos, which graphically describe the humanitarian crisis caused by these weapons. It is not too early to begin discussing the components of a treaty and setting out a phased approach to the campaign.