

October
Thirty-first 1921.

Sir Ernest Rutherford, University of Cambridge,
Cambridge, England.

Dear Sir Ernest:-

This will serve to introduce to you Mr. F. Howard Rosher of Victoria, British Columbia.

I have known Mr. Rosher for the last dozen years. He is engaged in the Mining Industry and is of the opinion that the ore in one of his mines contains Uranium, or, at least, possesses radio-active properties. I know that you will be interested in this.

With pleasant recollections of our meeting last July, and with all good wishes, I am,

Ever yours faithfully,

Principal.
