

You Don't Have PLAINTIFF'S COUNSEL To Start A Fire in the Coal Range

When some one wants a bath. It's no longer necessary to hustle around gathering up paper, carrying up wood and coal every time somebody wants to take a bath. You no longer need to heat up your kitchen, in fact, the entire house, every time hot water is desired.

There's An Easier Way---Use a Vulcan Gas Water Heater

This heater occupies but very little space. It is connected to your kitchen boiler and is operated as easily as your gas range. The Vulcan Heater heats water very quickly—enough for a bath in 20 minutes. This heater will not overheat your gitchen. Water Heaters sold on easy payments. Free inspection of the burners every 3 months.

M. K. Cowan Accuses Bystander of Overhearing Confidential Conversation.

acted in the assize court yesterday af-ternoon at the close of the retrial of the case in which Miss Agnes Sheahan is suing the Toronto Railway Com-pany for $50,000 damages, when, af-ter Chief Justice Falconbridge had re-tired, M. K. Cowan, K.C., counsel for the plaintiff, having hastily divested himself of his legal habitiments, and appearing in his shirt sleeves, approached a certain gentleman who had een sitting near Miss Sheahan during the trial, and in stentorian tones ordered the aforesaid gentleman to inform him whether he was a constable, or connected with the court, as he (learned counsel), objected to im listening to what he was saying confidentially to his client.

Court officials, witnesses, reporters and others formed a ring, and it looked as if Mr. Cowan was going to put his pugliistic powers to the test, but at the crucial point the mysterious gentleman, who was none other than Pinkerton detective, smilingly told Mr. Cowan that he was a stranger in the city, and had no interest in the eocial organization were breaking under the stress of change and readjustment, and in the unaccustomed equality of opportunities those who formerly would have had but little chance were acquiring wealth and political power. Abel Revercomb is "the miller" of the story and he is one of the most outstanding and interesting of all the many southern plain-folk characters Miss Glasgow has pictured so vividly. The book tells his love story, the romance of a man who comes into a finer and nobler soul inheritance by the purifying power of the love he thinks he has abandoned.

(Musson Book Co., Toronto). THE TENNESSEE SHAD.

By Owen Johnson. Owen Johnson was published another Lawrenceville story which presents things sorthat the juvenile mind can readily comprehend what is going on in the great world of higher politics and finance. 'The Tennessee Shad' is the narrative of the rise and fall of the firm of Doc Macrooder and the Tennessee Shad, schoolboy exponents of "high finance." Their schemes are as varied as those of the most criminal moropolists and their devices are so Machiavel an that they make the great manipulators of predatory wealth look like puppets. In the person of Macnooder was a mine of undeveloped experience and rascality which needed criy the philosophy of the Tennessee Shad to be molded into a great power that almost brought success. "He represented twenty firms, and piled so thriving a trade in ingeniously useless goods that he was able to refuse a cass offer from the village tradesmen to abandon the field." while "The Tennessee Shad frankly confessed his ambilition to be a philosopher, his idea of the same being that of a g'orlously languid person who resided in a tub and thought out courses of action for other people to toll over." (Musson Bock Co., Toronto).

Mothers Should Realize What Neglect of Skin-Troubles May Mean to Children.

A Retime of disfigurement and suffering often results from the neglect, in infancy or childhood, of minor affections of the skin and scalp. A mother overlooks a little rash or attempts some simple treatment and in a day, perhaps, the little one is covered with severe eczema or a similar distressing eruption. Then the struggle for a cure begins.

A multitude of remedies are tried, doctor after doctor consulted and hospitals visited, but too often the suffering extends, without substantial relief, from days to weeks, weeks to mouths and months to years. Added to this is the ever-present fear that the itching, burning and disfiguration will become chronic, marring future welfare and making life miserable. In the prevention of the simple skin troubles the ever-present fear that the itching, burning and disfiguration will become chronic, marring future welfare and making life miserable.

In the prevention of the simple skin troubles from which all this suffering so often arises and in establishing a condition of skin health that makes eruptions impossible, mothers are assured that nothing is purer, sweeter or more effective than Cuticura Soap and Cuticura. Ointment. And greater still, if possible, is the success of these simple household remedies in the treatment of the severer skin affections themselves. With the first warm bath with Cuticura Soap and gentle application of Cuticura Ointment, the itching and burning of eczema-cease, the child falls into a refreshing sleep, the mother rests and for the first time, possibly, in many weeks peace falls on a distracted household. Frequently a single cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Ointment are sufficient.

Positive as is this statement, it is justified by more than thirty years of pronounced success. To quote but a single instance, Robert Mann, of Proctor, Minnesota, says:

"Our boy was born in Toronto on Oct. 13, 1908, and when three months old a slight rash appeared or, his cheek. What appeared to be a water blister would form. When it broke, matter would run out, starting new blisters until his entire face, head and shoulders were a mass of scabs and you could not see a particle of clear skin. We tried about every advertised remedy without avail, indeed some of them only added to his suffering and one in particular, the Remedy, almost put the infant into convulsions. The family doctor prescribed for him and told us to bathe the baby in buttermilk. This did not do any good, so we took him to a hospital. He was treated as an out-patient twice a week and he got worse, if anything. We decided that it could not be cured and must run its course and so we just kept his arms bandaged to his side to prevent his tearing his flesh. We left Toronto and shortly after our arrival in Duluth, the Cuticura Remedies we
