Chicago Gossip.

J. G. Beaty, 21 Melinda-street, received the following from McIntyre & Marshall to-day:

Wheat—Trade has not been large to-day, but the market is strong. A number of fair buyers early, and started prices on upward grade. There was but little May on market at any time, and in absence of immediate demand there was a gradual decline to be heard, but sold very little. On the whole it was a dull holiday market. Some redoubtable late in the afternoon. Trade in corn small, but market strong and highest. There was little liquidation on part of some long holders. The close strong. Trade in December was very small scale, a fair demand, but practically all of it was for the holiday. Provisions—Market strong. Local sentiment is bullish; offerings light, and aside from its strength, there was no feature to market. Hog market weak.
