If your present glasses fail to give ease and comfort, there's something wrong. Glasses are either good or bad—there's no middle station. See D. Boyaner, the optician, 651 Main street.

A few days ago Daniel Treacy of New York, while in Chatham, donated $1,000 to the cathedral building fund, and since that John McKane, who once lived at Newcastle, but recently became a millionaire through mining ventures in the western states, contributed the same amount to the same fund.

A shooting accident which almost resulted fatally occurred at Chatham Sunday morning. Martin Crisp and Ed. Arsenau were in the woods with a gun, and when the boys were returning some Arsenau pointed the gun at Crisp and it went off.

THE WEDDING WAS DELAYED

Groom Was Thrown From Carriage and Badly Hurt but He Arrived and Ceremony Went On.

William Southard of St. George, was married to Miss J. Lake, at the Episcopal church St. George last week. The ceremony was to have taken place at 7 o'clock in the evening but on account of an accident to the groom it did not take place until after 11. Mr. Southard was obliged to drive 3 miles to the church and on his way was thrown from his carriage. He was quite seriously injured and he still in a critical condition. Mr. Southard being unable to stand up the ceremony was performed while he was seated on a chair.

TO TAKE POWER FROM THE FALLS

Board of Trade Council Still at Work on Idea of Developing Power Held in Reversible Falls.

If the plans of the council of the Board of Trade, St. John, which may yet see the falls harnessed and utilized for supplying power to various industries, are carried out, the city will be able to generate its own power.

The members of the board have been working quietly in the matter for some time, and have secured reports and estimates from a number of engineers that indicate that the plan of securing power from the great volume of water that pours beneath the bridge is quite feasible, and the are encouraged to go on with the scheme until they arrive at a definite idea of what can be done.

POLICE COURT

James Cunningham Fined $25 for Stabbing a Dog.

The case of James Cunningham, charged with stabbing a dog owned by George Livingstone, on October 31, came up at 12:30 in the police court today.

William Lann stated that he saw the complainant and the defendant's dog fighting together on Monday evening, a young lad, residing on Princess street, was struck on the back by a potato thrown by one of the boys, and a window in the rear of a house in that locality was broken.

Frank Saunders corroborated the other witnesses' testimony, and the dog was then exhibited in court and the wounds inspected by the court. Cunningham expressed his disapproval of the witnesses' testimony in various manners, and at the conclusion of the case was fined $25. J. K. Kelly appeared for the S.P.C.A. and conducted the prosecution.

Frederic Saunders, complained that Daniel Spears and son were on Tuesday evening near the corner of St. Patrick and Union streets. The young fellow said that he was standing outside of his sister's shop, watching the potatoes when one of the boys standing nearby threw a potato and struck the defendant in the face. Young McCarthy was mentioned as the boy who threw the vegetable. After Spears got hit he came back and struck the boy on the face. The defendant did not deny slapping him once but said he was under the impression that the complainant was the youth who threw the potato. He expressed his regret as to the boy's father did not wish to press the charge he was allowed to go.

NEW YORK'S BLUE COATS STAND GUARD OVER EIGHT THOUSAND BALLOT BOXES

William R. Hearst Commences the Fight Against the Return of George B. McClellan, the Tammany Mayor---Ballot Boxes Taken to Board of Elections Office, but President Refuses to Receive Them and They Go Back to Police Headquarters.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Aided by an array of talents, in which are lawyers of great prominence, not only as masters of their profession, but also as leaders in more than one movement for good government in this city, Wm. R. Hearst has begun his fight in the courts for the majority, which he believes he won in Tuesday's election, and his first step has been a situation apparently without precedent.

It was said this morning that the sudden move made by Mr. Hearst last night followed a report received by him that an insurance company had been at work Tuesday night buying ballots. The report was further to the effect that the ballots were to be opened while in the hands of the police and stuffed. Mr. Hearst decided to act at once. The order secured from Judge Gaynor directed the police commissioner and all his subordinates in the five boroughs to turn over to the Board of Elections, forthwith, all the boxes containing ballots and stubs of ballot, and also to file with the county clerk before noon today all envelopes containing tally sheets, inspectors' returns, defective ballots and ballots made on Tuesday night.

Plot to Stuff Boxes It was said this morning that the sudden move made by Mr. Hearst last night followed a report received by him that an insurance company had been at work Tuesday night buying ballots. The report was further to the effect that the ballots were to be opened while in the hands of the police and stuffed. Mr. Hearst decided to act at once. Would Not Receive Them John R. Voorhis, president of the Board of Elections, refused early today to receive the official ballot boxes. Before refusing he consulted Police Commissioner McAdoo, Attorney-General Mayer, Corporation Counsel Delaney, and Sup. of Elections Morgan were notified of the situation, and the boxes were kept in the police wagons in front of the office of the Board of Elections pending a decision of the corporation counsel. Mr. Voorhis said that the United States Supreme Court had held in a recent decision that the Board of Elections is not the proper custodian of the boxes, but that the police are.

Blocked the Streets At 5 o'clock this morning, wagons and automobiles filled with ballot boxes, police officers and Hearst waiters began to arrive at the office of the Board of Elections and an hour after West 41st St. of the vicinity was fairly impassable. Unable to get rid of their charges, there was nothing for the police to do but to wait until the boxes had been removed from the various precincts station houses.

Mr. Hearst's order was obtained from Judge Gaynor after the circulation of a story that a printing firm had been turning out large numbers of falsified copies of the official ballot, and that these were to be marked for McClellan and placed in the ballot-boxes in place of Hearst's. The order was issued at 11 o'clock, and the boxes were taken to the station house, and the application to Justice Gaynor was made as quickly as the papers could be drawn up.

Among the attorneys aiding Hearst is William H. Travis, the Republican candidate for mayor in Tuesday's election. Mr. Travis volunteered his services to Mr. Hearst, and the other was accepted. He is Judge John F. Dillon who was at one time judge of the Supreme Court of New York.

REPORTS TELL OF A FEW OUTRAGES PRACTISED ON JEWS BY RUSSIAN MOBS

Kishineff Again the Scene of Awful Horrors---Eleven Jews Burned to Death in a Hayrick---Russian Sailors and Troops Mutiny at Cronstadt.

ODESSA, Nov. 9.—Authentic accounts received here from various points in Bessarabia show that the anti-Jewish outbreaks there followed the same lines as at Odessa, varying only in the number of victims.

At Kishineff the disturbances were preceded by inflammatory speeches, general arrests and city officials near the governor's house asserting that the Jews at Odessa, and intended to loot the town. Seventy Jews were killed and one hundred and twenty were wounded. Order is now restored.

At Cronstadt, Russian sailors, burned eleven Jews who had hidden in a hayrick. The town of Kalanach, Bessarabia, was entirely devastated and burned. Fifty nine Jews were killed or perished in the flames, and two hundred fled to neighboring villages where the peasants beat a number of them to death with cudgels and burned three Jews after drenching them with petroleum.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—A despatch to a news agency from St. Petersburg says that the Russian squadron on Cronstadt mutinied last night, overpowered their officers and landed and attacked the shops and public buildings and wounded. In addition a number of houses were set on fire. The fighting lasted all night long.

SENT HIM UP FOR THEFT

George Stephens Committed for Trial for Stealing from William McAllister.

A theft case occupied much of the time of the police court session this morning. George Stephens, foreman of J. S. Gibson & Co., was yesterday afternoon arrested by Detective Killen, charged by William McAllister with stealing $26 from the store.

Detective Killen, the first witness, stated that yesterday afternoon the complainant came to him and reported his loss and as a result of the story the witness went with McAllister to Stephens' workshop. Detective Killen told the accused that McAllister accused him of taking his money and refusing to give it back to him. He further told him that McAllister did not wish to prosecute him if he received his money. Stephens denied having the money and asked him to come out with him to the engineer who he stated was the last person he saw having it.

At the Brazilian legation there is no news of the outbreak, but Brazilian residents say that a revolution would not surprise them as the changes in recent years have made it most liable.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The Rothschild banking house this morning received a despatch from Rio de Janeiro as follows: "The garrison of the fortress of Santa Cruz has revolted. So far the rebellion is without political motive. The Brazilian government is acting energetically. Public feeling is calm. Exchange 16 1/2. Lord Rothschild says there have been no disturbances at Rio de Janeiro."

The Times New Reporter. IN FEAR AND TREMBLING. Supt. Glasgow has a new and fearsome prospect for the new ferry steamer. Nothing has been said about it, but the Ludlow some days ago solved a problem so quickly that some of the ferry employees are not quite sure yet just what the thing happened. It appears that as usual with civic work the worst side floats were not made to fit the bow of the ferry steamer when she entered the dock. The end of the floats should be formed in a sort of semi-circle so that when the boat entered the slip her bow would exactly fit against the floats. This was not done. The fit at each side was perfect, but just at the middle there was a space where boat and floats did not touch. As a result the floats were made to remedy this defect, but as is usual with civic work there was no hurry, and the Ludlow grew tired of waiting. So one day when she entered the slip she slipped on one of her frequent trial trips and observed that the necessary change had not been made, she lost her temper, rumbled the floats full till, split them, and closed up the original gap by means another one in an opposite direction. And now whenever Supt. Glasgow goes near the Ludlow he deeply cautions, call her names, and implores her to be calm. If she asserts at him, he calls her "ludicrous," and gets away as quickly as possible. Everybody connected with the ferry management in the wilderness, the new re- ject, awaiting the next freak of temper on the part of this awful female. WHO'S YER POET? The Times new reporter has received a poem from the Maine lumber woods, and has been chewing gum over it. There are 22 stanzas in the poem. The poet tells of slaying the lofty pine, grinding the logs, eating mince pie, mince cake and doughnuts, moose meat, deer meat, partridge and other delicacies, prepared by the cook and cooky, singing and whistling; and various other pastimes which have their stage the little old log cabin in the wilderness. The new reporter asked the editor's permission to publish the poem in full, but the editor said it would never do to let the staff know about it.
