IN FAIRVILLE CHURCHES

Last evening more than fifty members of the Field Ambulance Depot were entertained in the Fairville Baptist church. An enjoyable programme was rendered by local talent, after which refreshments were served by the Queens of Avalon Young Ladies' Society. The khaki men expressed their keenest appreciation of the kindness extended by the Fairville church.

In the Methodist church last evening the Young Peoples' Society was addressed by Gordon Stevens, president of the Methodist Epworth League societies in St. John city. Mr. Stevens gave a fifteen minute talk on the aims and practical workings of the Epworth League and made a plea for the Fairville Methodist young people to adopt the constitution and send delegates to a rally to be held.

Following the address a musical and literary programme was carried out. The Reds, although winners in the attendance contest, said that the Blues showed better spirit by turning out in better numbers on the two stormiest nights of the month, and so requested their opponents to be their guests at an open night at latter part of last week to round the men up. The party arrived last evening.

Corpora' Harr Adams, D.C.M., Gets Military Medal

LONG TIME IN THE WAR

Nineteen Months in France and Twice Wounded — Tribute by Colonel as Medal is Presented

A letter of March 5, from Lance-Corporal E. A. Adkins, Crowthorne Camp, England, says:

"Yesterday morning, in front of the whole depot, Colonel Bogart pinned the military medal on the breast of Corp. D. C. M. Adams. During this campaign the engineers and signallers have been of much benefit to the other branches of the service, and have received a very high percentage of decorations. It certainly speaks very highly that these young men have each won the much-coveted distinguished conduct medal and the military medal for bravery in the field."

"Colonel Bogart then pinned on the medals. I am sure St. John people will be interested to hear of one of its sons who has won such honors under such circumstances. Twice wounded and nineteen months in France and the D.C.M. and M.M. to his credit."

Corporal Adams and Lance-Corporal Adkins are attached to the Canadian Engineers' Training Depot at Crowborough, and are eager to get back to France, having already several times asked to be transferred.

Corporal Harry M. Adams is a son of David H. Adams, of 2901 Main street. He left St. John with a signalling unit under command of Major T. E. Powers, D.S.O., which was attached to the first Canadian contingent. His conspicuous gallantry on the battlefield not only won him the decorations, but brought him under the eye of his superior officers who recommended him on two occasions for a commission. While training for a commission he was shot through the body and leg by bullets, and these injuries for a time at least hindered his advancement.

He won the D.C.M. for gallant service when communication wires were down. Under heavy fire he worked in the open and kept up communications. Later when the wires were again down he re-routed his brave net and was venturing out to send some signals one night when shot through the body.

BRAY HEAD IS SUNK BY A U BOAT

Cable Received Here From Owners

SOME LIVES ARE LOST

Captain Hoy and Some of Crew Missing — Chief and Eighteen Men Land — Two Dead From Exposure — Vessel Was on Voyage From St. John

The ruthless submarine warfare of the Hun has brought home to shipping men of this port today a forcible reminder of the danger to which they are exposed. The cable received from the owners of the steamer Bray Head, which was sunk by a U-boat on the Atlantic coast, has been received here this morning. Two had died from exposure and the remainder of the crew were in a state of collapse. Captain J. Hoy, who was in command of the steamer, and the remainder of the crew are still missing and there are fears for their safety.

The steamer had a crew of thirty-five men, in addition to the officers. Captain Hoy and some of the crew were all well known in this port and many expressions of regret are heard on all sides. It is estimated that the steamer was within 400 miles of her destination when she fell a victim of a U-boat.

The steamer was owned by the Ulster Steamship Co., Ltd., of Belfast, and was managed by Messrs. Hoy & Sons, of St. John. She was built in 1894 by C. S. Swan & Hunter of Newcastle, and had a registered tonnage of 2844 tons. Since the steamer was built she made regular calls at this port and was one of the best freight carriers in the Head Line service.

Captain Hoy is one of the youngest captains in the service. He was the captain of all with whom he came in contact. It will be recalled that he successfully contested a decision of government officials after his steamer was seized by another in the St. Lawrence river. He had been on the bridge for forty-eight hours during a storm, and while on duty he had his long vigil his steamer collided with another. He proved that it had been no fault of his that the accident happened.

EVIDENCE GIVEN IN THE CAFE CASE

The evidence in the case of alleged assault against Peter School, proprietor of the White City Cafe, was taken this morning in the police court.

Everett Waters, the complainant, said that he went into the cafe on last Friday about noon, and ordered the usual refreshment. Mr. School, he said, was seated at the table with him. He was drinking, he had no idea why he was thrown out. He denied catching hold of the waitress. He was in such a condition that he could remember all that happened. He was never in the cafe before.

Mr. School said that, following the complainant's annoyance in the waitress, he interfered. He told Waters to keep quiet. He had been drinking and was "in a bad way." Finally he was forced to put him out, but the complainant came back three times and told Waters he had better drop the affair. School denied kicking Waters and said that he just forced him out. School told the court that he was an Australian by birth, but that he was a resident of St. John.

Mrs. Lou Bower, a waitress in the restaurant, said that she served the complainant on the day in question. He was under the influence of liquor. She had taken his order when he caught hold of her apron. Waters had been in the restaurant on Thursday as well as on Friday.

The court held that no respectably conducted cafe or restaurant should serve men under the influence of liquor. Mr. Grew was of the opinion that they could be served so long as they acted respectfully. The complainant came in right and was being served when he commenced the alleged disturbance and was thrown out.

The case will be resumed again this afternoon.
