'HE FEAST OF

DEDICATION The Feast of Dedication, sometimes alled the Feast of Lights, or Chanuah in Hebrew, falls due this year on he evening of December 25 and will be obsedver in some cheerful manner in all Jewish homes for a period of eight days.

Chanukah commemorates the eventul triumph of the Maccabees over the control of Syria. This historical occurence happened as a result of the vicories of the Maccabees in their warlare against Antiochus IV., called "Epiphanes," the mad man, in the year 165 B. C. E. The Syrian tryant had reiolved on imperialistic policies in which unification of all his provinces and possessions in respect to language and unification of all his provinces and possessions in respect to language and eligious observances was to be carried out. The religion selected as the established or state religion of his realm was Greek polytheism, with all its sensuous uppeals and immoral practices.

In promulgating this edict Antiochus (V. did not reckon with the stern noralists of Palestine. The idolatrous ites were treated as abominations by the fewish people who instantly opposed lewish people who instantly opposed their enforcement. Coercive measures introduced by the hrone to compel an outward compliance with the edict precipitated a revolt on he part of Mattathias, a priest of Modin, a suburb of Jerusalem. Under he leadership of the aged priest and his ons, of whom Judah is the most famous, he Palestinian Jews threw themselves gainst the powerful armies of Syria. These crude armies of embatticd rarris held the hosts of Syria at bay durfour terrific years of warfare and ally succeeded in driving the invaders at of the country.

The Temple at Jerusalem which had een defiled by pagan practices was redicated on the 25th of Kisley of the ebrew Calender, which corresponds to the month of December. In commemorion of the victory the feast of Chankah is celebrated even unto this day. Coercive measures introduced by the kah is celebrated even unto this day.

Among the old legends recounting he miraculous intervention of Provience in behalf of Israel is the story
