Important to All Women

Readers of This Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or to result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased. You may suffer from all kinds of pain in the back, head, or feet, or from headache and loss of ambition. How healthy are you? Nervous, irritable and may be dependent, makes any one so. But thousands of irritable, nervous, tired and broken-down women have restored their health and strength with the use of Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy. Swamp-Root brings new life and activity to the kidneys, the cause of such troubles. Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy will do for them. Every reader of this paper, who has not already tried it, may address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and receive sample bottle free by mail. You can purchase the regular 75c and $1.25 size bottles at all drug stores in Canada.

La MARQUISE de FONTENOY

Investigation Into Death of Hon. Mrs. Sergeson—Prince Adam Sapieha May Be Cardinal

(Copyright, 1911, By the Brentwood Company)

Lord Sudeley, whose beloved daughter, the Hon. Mrs. Charles Sergeson, has met with death under such mysterious circumstances as to cause a serious inquiry to decline to give any verdict until a much more extensive investigation is made, is a veteran of the Crimean war, served in Victoria as lord in waiting and as captain in command of her bodyguard of gentlemen and estates, he also sat for a short time in the House of Commons.

Considering himself deserted from the carriage by his wife, he was so shocked as to become a member of the House of Lords, he turned his attention to other forms of activity. Organizing huge estates on his estates in England and Wales and in the colonies, he became one of the greatest manufacturers of jam in the United Kingdom, turning out thousands of tons a year, and interested himself in all sorts of other industrial and commercial enterprises. The Marquis's crash followed by the Baring crisis, however, embarrassed him so greatly that he came to grief.

To expect a cure you must therefore store them to healthier activity. The discovery of the active principle of my remedy involved the labor of skillful research chemists. This remedy produces results such as are expected from the best of the best in medicinal tonics, and it is particularly prompt in its results.

I want you to take all Ordesley on my guarantee, and accordingly please to take it as a trial for children. They apparently are very healthy on the nerves and muscles of the bowels, having, it would seem, a neutral action on other organs or glands. They do not purge or cause inconvenience. If they do not positively cure chronic or habitual constipation and thus relieve the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments, your money will be refunded. Try Ordesley at my risk. Three sizes of packages, 10c, 25c, and 50c. Remember you can obtain Retail Remedies in this store from a branch at my store—The Retail Store, Chas. J. R. Wasson, 100 King street.

CONVICTS IN SING SING ARE ON STRIKE

Form a Prisoners' Union and Complain of Warders' Treatment

New York, Nov. 20—One of the most striking strikes on record is now progressing at the state penitentiary at Sing Sing, on the Hudson, in consequence of which 250 convicts who have been locked up in their cells. A sort of prisoners' union has been formed in the penitentiary, and the convicts are demanding precisely in the same manner as the world's workers are outside prison walls.

The convicts complain that the warders of the prison have acted in an offensive and arbitrary manner towards them, and there has been trouble amounting almost to insurrection.

A few days ago two of the convicts who were working in the shoe shop were taken from their benches and sent to their cells for insubordination. Immediately the rest of the convict shoemakers refused to do any work until the two men were brought back. Consequently they were all confined in their cells.

The men in the stock and underwear factory in the precincts of the prison, stood by their comrades and have also declined to do any work until "justice is done," to their fellow-convicts. They also have a grievance of their own, as they say that their foreman works them too hard. The strike will be continued until a new foreman is appointed, and it does not seem possible that any other punishment than idleness and confinement to the cells can be inflicted by the state.

TEACHER CURED OF BARBER'S ITCH

Tells of Cures Among His Pupils That Were Remarkable—Raw, Inflamed, Itching Skin is Soothed and Healed by Dr. Chase's Ointment

Barber's Itch is a form of Ringworm, which, when once started, is most annoying and difficult to cure. Barbers often refuse to treat any one having this disease, for fear of passing it on to others.

But you can cure Barber's Itch and keep the skin soft and healthy by applying Dr. Chase's Ointment. Just read what this teacher has to say about the healing power of Dr. Chase's Ointment:

Mr. Chase, I have used your Ointment, N. B. writes:—"Two years ago while teaching at Shippen I caught Barber's Itch. A friend told me Dr. Chase's Ointment would cure me as it had him. When I went for a box I thought it dear, but when I found how good it was I bought it cheap. "Not only was I cured by that single box, but my wife and two of my pupils and this too quickly to be believed. One of them, a girl, had a running sore on the side of her face and tried in vain to cure it. The other had a sore on the ear, water running out of it all the time. I can testify to the cure of the first one. Wherever there is itching skin or a sore that refuses to heal you can apply Dr. Chase's Ointment. The members of the Y. M. C. of St. Joseph held their fortieth anniversary celebration in their rooms last night. During the evening addresses were given by J. J. Conway, W. Pine and H. Bridges. A musical and literary program was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

ESTERDAY we had the long promised synopsis of my letter-friends' opinions on the kind of a woman a man likes best, and the opinions expressed were so interesting that I had to let them spill over into today's space.

My wife is a description of an ideal of womanhood that sends me to my Stevenson to hunt up his description of the ideal married life—"for the faults of married people continually spur up each other, hour by hour, to do better, to meet and love upon a higher ground. And ever, between the failures, there will come glimpses of kind virtues to cheer and encourage."

"My wife," says this idealist, "should be thoroughly domesticated, intensely fond of children and of the real home life; musical, interested in the best literature, very affectionate and ready to forgive; neat in dress and very exact in her habits; an independent girl and not a flirt or a jolly girl; charitable towards other creeds; fond of and willing to entertain general society, with a knife and fork always ready for strangers unasked. She must be a true life's partner who would tell me of my weaknesses and failures and help me daily with her woman's intuition and prayers to overcome my many faults; who would make me a truer, happier, holier and better for our unity."

"A married woman" yesterday declared that men did not cry to boots and gloves; unselfish, broadly religious, with generous, large hearted, with kind, pleasing personality. She must be one who converses on what she has seen, not what she has heard or read. One whose life and character is unquestioned, one who has traveled and with sufficient vocabulary to express her views intelligently; an independent girl and not a flirt or a jolly girl and last but not least, a good plain cook who would try to please her husband."

"I think this next man ought to get the exceedingly reasonable order that he puts in." Dan's you

"Much depends on a man's nature as to what kind of a girl he likes. I have observed that intellectual men usually admire girls who possess good solid common sense, but not a knowledge of the sciences; girls who can appreciate a serious conversation and still not be serious enough to lack the sense of humor. Furthermore, a sympathetic girl always appeals to a man, especially if her sympathy leans towards his own. Some self-control and not too sternly severe; just a little capricious—that keeps him on the alert. Also one who can keep her spirit sweet and avoid all manner of petty anger. That is an ideal girl and an observant man can find her, I am sure, and he will be glad to be followed by her especially for leaves from personal experience. Here is a rather sad one:

"Up to twenty-five or thirty years of age the vivacious and the chic dresser attracts a man, although not always without his having some feeling for her. Men of this age ignore or are unconscious of the good and enduring qualities which make the woman estimable, companionable and lovable and also the qualities which produce the opposite effect.

"After that age, especially if they have married, a man looks for and likes the woman who is not entirely selfish, who desires to see him happy, whose ideas are practical, who is simply to have him provide substance for her to devour. Then men want a perceptive mind and a woman loyal and not wholly self-sympathetic. As this is a leaf from my experience you will pardon me for not signing my whole name."

Here is an infinitely sadder and yet at the same time infinitely happier experience.

"Judging by my experience, I like what I had—a woman who was gentle, affectionate (not effusive), considerate of everybody, respected during thirteen years of married life and revered now eight years after her death. She was a woman who loved her relatives, acquaintances and servants, loved for her consideration towards others, a woman whom all children held out their arms to with smiles on their faces, a woman who loved every child she saw in spite of having seven of her own, a woman who went through the terrible ordeals of motherhood with a smile on her face and without a whimper—a woman who was always at the door to greet me with a smile, no matter how trying her day had been—a woman for whom I still love such as one generally gives one's mother."

I trust my own sex have noticed that generally has not once been mentioned as a necessary quality, that a sweet temper is generally demanded and that health, love of children and domesticity are common to all.

WHERE WOMEN ARE FARMERS

(Times Special Correspondence.) Brussels, Nov. 11—The number of women engaged in agricultural work in Belgium is 514,000, whereas the numbers engaged in commerce and industry are respectively 28,500 and 32,500. Dairying and poultry-raising are practically the only branches of woman's work, and the first hands of women altogether. According to M. P. de Vuyt, chief inspector-general of agriculture, the annual milk yield of the country amounts to $70,000,000, a sum about equal to the total annual railway receipts, the average output of the coal mines, while the yearly revenue from poultry would more than meet the war expenses of the country.

Efficient instruction in all that pertains to the home and those branches of agriculture which come within the sphere of women's activity is provided by the excellent home-wives schools. These schools, which are greatly needed, are of two types, permanent, and temporary or itinerant. There is an old Alsatian proverb which says that the farmer's wife takes more out of the farm in her apron than the ploughman can put into it with a four-horse team. It is in recognition of this fact that the Belgian government has determined that every girl shall have the opportunity of becoming a really capable helpmate to her husband or father on the land. The result may be seen in the comfort and prosperity of the vast majority of small cultivators of the soil. Squalls and misdeeds of home undoubtedly exist, as they will everywhere, but they are not so numerous as is generally supposed.

In 1906 it was felt that farming women must organize to improve their position and perfect themselves in the knowledge required for their work, and the first "Cercle des Fermieres" was constituted that year. Since then the movement has spread rapidly. The number of such organizations has risen to two, with a membership of 105, in 1906, to twenty-four, with a membership of 622, in 1910.

In many respects the associations resemble the "Woman's Institutes" of Canada. The object is to extend professional instruction to women in country districts by means of lectures, libraries, songs, competitions and the like. Vegetables and flower seeds are sometimes distributed, and several of the societies have started credit banks and old age pension societies.

Every assistance is rendered by the ministry of agriculture, and various medical societies co-operate by maintaining lectures upon such subjects as infant hygiene and the best means of preventing the spread of tuberculosis. Put on butter in little dabs, roll up and pat out again. Do this four times, using one fourth cup in all. Pat it out again and by an inch until chilled. Then roll it an inch larger than the plate and cut out for a rim; put this strip on the edge, first wetting the under paste.

RIVER ABLAZE WITH WHISKEY

Owensboro, Ky., Nov. 21—Twelve thousand barrels of Kentucky whiskey, let loose by fire which destroyed a bonded warehouse of the Davies County Distilling Co., here, were lashed up by the flames or lost when the blazing liquor flowed down the Ohio river, covering the surface of the stream with a sheet of fire. The loss is $400,000.

How to Safely Peel Your Face

(From Beauty Culture.) If you have a muddy, sallow or blotchy complexion, the most sensible thing to do is to remove it—rather than to patch it over or "doctor" it with any cosmetic, cream or lotion. The only way to really remove the complexion is to remove it as you would cold cream, washing off in the morning. This is usually done by the use of a special cream, but you can do it with a little common sense, velvet, healthy-looking complexion, such as you would expect to see on a healthy woman's face.

Surface defects, due to weather, ill health or the ravages of time, of course, disappear with the scarred skin. Ask the druggist for a piece of pure mercerized wax; this is usually sufficient.
