As Dr. Milligan came forward he was given an enthusiastic reception. He spoke a few words, thanking the assembly for the honor bestowed upon him, and explained that while it was a novelty to him to be placed in the moderator's chair, he appreciated it very much. He believed in special services, but he believed every service should be special. The minister should be a student, and the work could not prosper unless he was a student. He urged that the assembly meeting be one of unity and prayerful consideration.
