The Rt Hon Arthur Meighen, P.C, K.C, M.P., OTTAWA,
Canada.

My dear Meighen:

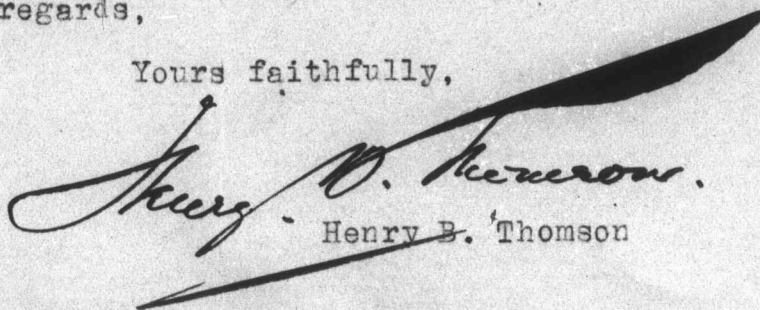

By to-day's mail I am sending you the first issue of the "Conservative Review," which is a new monthly just come out. These people I understand are quite open to take articles on Imperial questions, and I should think you ought to be able to pick up some suitable journalist who might like to get in touch with a magazine of this type early in its career.

I am also sending you a copy of yesterday's "Sunday Times." This paper has been expanding very much lately and, as you will see, always has a weekly communication from Paris and Dublin. If the right man were to take the matter up, I am satisfied they would be glad to entertain a weekly Canadian letter, but it must be well-written and a good size-up of the situation. I should think Tom Blacklock would be about the type of man who might make this communication.

There is nothing further particular to note here.

With kind regards,

Yours faithfully,

Henry B. Thomson
