

until after they left Ottawa at 5 P. M. They immediately made arrangements to have hot soup, bread, and fresh fruit at the station, and the appeal to the public for funds was so generous that there was more than sufficient food to supply the six hundred and fifty officers and men who were fed that day. Three ladies of the Detachment supplied the soup, which was made in their own homes, and Colonel D. R. Street lent a field kitchen belonging to the 77th Battalion.

The Detachment has grown enormously, and the members are all very enthusiastic and anxious to help in any way that is possible.

The late Sir Sanford Fleming's residence on Sandyhill has been offered and accepted by the Militia Department to be used as a Convalescent Home for returned wounded soldiers, and members of the V.A.D. hope to be able to serve in relays as probationers under graduated nurses who will be in charge.

In the district of Quebec the Voluntary Aid Detachment at Sherbrooke Centre has been doing a fine work of mercy in looking after the requirements of sick and wounded soldiers from the Front at the Khaki Convalescent Home.

Canadian Army Medical Corps.

A very large number of Canadian St. John men have volunteered for active service with this corps, and are working in Hospitals or right up close to
