NEWS FROM IRELAND.

Dublin.

A new move is now being made on the agrarian chees board, by the landlords. The move is this. Seeing the impossibility of getting the twenty years' purchase they have all gone in for, and having the tenants in their power, the landlords are selling the tenants out, and putting in Emergency men in their stead. These Emergency men are usually their bailiffs, or the sons of their bailiffs, and, as matter of course, they have nothing to lose. For "a consideration," these Emergency men are to accommodate their employers so as to meet the requirements of the law, and purchase the tenancies for any sum the employers, in their discretions, may fix upon. The master sells, the servant buys, and the Government pays the price. What a delightful arrangement! The landlord gets twice the price of his land, the Emergency man gets his "consideration," together with the use of the land till the first instalment is demanded by the Government, when he coolly walks off. The tenant and his family are in the workhouse, or scattered to the winds, and the land is left a burden on the hands of the Government.

the land is left a burden on the hands of the Government.

Sir E. C. Guinness has at last been shamed into doing something for Dublin, in which he makes his millions. The exposures of the scandals connected with his boyootting of the National Exhibition, and deportation to London of the Exhibition Palace, have induced him to give £2,500 to the Dublin Technical Schools. In other words, having put the citizens to about £15,000 needless expense, he returns half the price of the Palace, which he sold as old iron to Battersea Park. This is very noble of Sir Edward Guinness, and the workingmen of Dublin will thank him accordingly. If he wanted to compensate for his atrocious meanness in '82-83, he should at least give the citizens a month's income for some worthy purpose, one of the most popular men in all Ireland but if he goes on as he has begun, he bids fair to put the nose of several popular idols out of joint. He not only preaches the abolition of landlordism, but makes substantial reductions of rent to his tenants. A few days ago he allowed an abstement of 60 per cent, to his tenants, near Gorey, and it is admitted that the rents had not been high. The tenants expressed their thanks in a wild outburst of joy. In truth, Sir Thomas is more of a friend of his tenants than their landlord,

A. A. A.

Immediately upon the Templemore tenantry determining to insist upon the reasonable temporary reduction which they saked from their landlord, writs and process ejectments issued by Tom Boyd & Son, began to fall thick as snow-flakes over the estate. How altered are the times, and the spirit of the peeple! Instead of those documents striking terror into the tenants' hearts, as in the days of yore, the only effect they have had is to fill them with firm determination to see the matter out, and to let all whom it may concern know that people are no longer going to submit tamely to the avaricious whim of a worthless absentee nobleman who is unreasonable and unreasonable and unreasoning enough to expect them to pay rents which the exceptional depression nobleman who is unreasonable and unreasoning enough to expect them to pay rents which the exceptional depression of the times have rendered impossible. The tenants had a meeting at Ramsgrange, on Sunday, Jan. 10, Very Rev. Thomas Canon Doyle presiding, at which they resolved to subscribe to a defence fund, which is meant to swell to such proportions as will recoup to the full the losses of those who may be victimized, and eyery penny of which it is determined to take, sooner or later, out of the landlord's pockets. The estate bailiff, one Terry Molloy, a sorry-looking specimen of humanity, is driving around daily on a black donkey, a far more intelligent and respectable-looking animal than its master, dropping the legal documents; but the people put little heed in his visits.

Kildare.

On January 12, two sheriff's bailiffs from Parsontown proceeded to Ferbane for the purpose of taking possession of a holding, the property of Mr. John G. King, D.L., for which he had obtained a decree at petty sessions. The agent, Mr. Thomas Mulcoh, J. P., attended to receive possession, but he and the bailiffs were met at the place by a large number of people of the district who declared their determination to prevent the proceedpeople of the district who declared their determination to prevent the proceedings. The police were stationed near, but did not interfere, and the result was that the agents and bailiffs had to retire without accomplishing their object.

Leuth.

Cork.

On the estate of Lord Masserene, where the tenants have declined paying any rent unless a reduction be given them, no effort at any reconciliation has as yet been made. The land about Collon, on Lord Masserene's estate, is of a damp, wet, cold nature, and not near as productive as the land in other places. The difficulty has been amicably settled by the offer of a reduction on the half-year's rent to the tenants of 15 per cent, which they accepted. This reduction will also take effect in Dunleer and Tenure. The demand of the tenants was for 30 per cent. Two years ago the tenants received a reduction of 12½ per cent, to operate within the coming fifteen years, so that with the reduction just made the tenants may be truly said to have received a reduction of 27½ per cent.

Cork.

Cork. Speaking at Togher, near Cork, on January 10th, Dr. Tanner, M. P., said that within twelve months he and the other Irish Members would return from the Rug

Tyrone.

One of the first landlords to revenge the return of the Nationalist for South Tyrone, is Mr. James Bruce, J. P., the proprietor of Dunville's Distillery, Belfast. This Orange whiskey maker, on Jan. 8, brought a number of ejectment processes at Dungannon Sessions, served on supporters of Mr. Wm. O'Brien, among the recipients being the father of Dean Byrne, P. P., who is doubtless specially obnoxious to the eminent distiller. The rent was only due six weeks, when the ejectments were served; but, tiller. The rent was only due six weeks, when the ejectments were served; but, according to the practice of the estate, it is not yet payable, as from time immemorial the custom has been not to pay the November rent until March or April. Cruel as is the season, Mr. Bruce would grant no abatement whatever, although reductions were given by all the neighboring landlords; and now by these vindictive ejectments he has added heavy costs to the burdens of the tenants.

Leitrim. Leitrim.

On January 11, Mr. Harrison, Sub-Sheriff for Leitrim, accompanied by a large force of constabulary and the usual crow-bar brigade, took to the war path, and have pursued it with a ferocity almost unparalleled in the annals of landlordism. Mr. Jones' property at Tarmon, agented by Mr. Hewson, of Dromahair, was the first place visited. Here three families were thrown out upon the wayside, with nothing to shelter them from the cold denothing rain and the raw blasts of January. Mr. Fox's pro-An unwonted, it may be said an unprecedented, exhibition of the effects of landlordism for the county Kildare was made on the Narraghmore estate of Mr. John LaTouche, of Harristown, on Jan. 9, by the attempted service of some seventeen or eighteen writs upon as many of the tenants for the enforcement of rack-rents into which they were wheedled by the temptation of leases skilfully proffered them in 1870 when prices were at the highest. Nine or ten writs had been served upon as many

Maye.

Lord Arran has obtained ejectment decrees against thirty eight of his Lahardane tenantry. In Glenhest about seventeen of the unfortunate people have also come "under the ban." No reduction I no mercy! The landlord watchword of the hour is being acted on to the letter. The Backs landlords, Mesera. E. H Pery, and U. A. Knox, whose tenants have offered the rent minus a reduction of 40 per cent., will try conclusions with those refractory beings who have failed to solve the problem of extracting blood from a turnip, or paying impossible rents and at the same time keeping themselves and their wives and families out of the poorhouse. Sir Charles Gore has also made a lavish distribution of "Christmas cards" amongst those of his seris who failed to yield the pound of flesh in full. Maye.

The Name of Jesus.

Prolane swearing seems to be as much a part of everyday life as the use of language itself. The adorable Name of Jesus is blasphemed everywhere— by men, women, and even children,—by renegade Catholics no less than by infidels. And what is equally true is that it is not ven erated as it should be by the faithful in general. Who has not observed this lack of reverence for the Name "above all names,"—the Name that is pronounced with ineffable solemnity by the angels of heaven, and that causes the demons of hell to tremble? Few even uncover or bow the head when it is spoken. It falls on the ears of listening congregations of Christians as lightly as if they were Turks; and many utter it as carelessly as the name of a companion.

The recurrence of the Feast of the Holy Name of Jesus reminds us to exhort our readers to cultivate a greater reverence for the name at which, St. Paul say, every knee should bow. Now that blasphemy is so general, we should redouble our efforts to honor, and cause to be honored as much as we can, the name of Our Blessed Saviour. We shall be sure to find in it strength and convolation at the bour of interest the strength and convolation at the bour in the strength and convolation at the bour efforts to honor, and cause to be hon ored as much as we can, the name of Our Blessed Saviour. We shall be sure to find in it strength and convolation at the bour efforts to honor, and cause to be hon ored as much as we can, the name of Our Blessed Saviour. We shall be sure to find in its trength and convolation at the bour efforts.

ored as much as we can, the name of Our Blessed Saviour. We shall be sure to find in it strength and consolation at the hour of death if we honor it during life.

DR C. T. BROMSER, Rochester, N. Y., says: "After having used Scott's Emulsion with decided benefit upon myself, I have taken great pleasure in recommending it since in the various conditions of wasting in which it is indicated."

Mr. Alex. Robinson, of Exeter, in writing about one of the most popular articles, and one that has done more good to the afflicted than any other medicine has during the short time it has been in exisence, says: "I have used four bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Directions."

Between the sea sand and the sea
The yellow feam flakes lightly lie,
A very dross of waves, till free
Quilet-kinning breezes surge and sigh,
And all the learnis on the lea
Bend low to listen as bends the sky
Where spaces throb with melody,
Then foam is wrought to gold, and I,
Silent, find beaven surrounding meIn gilded fringe—in breeze's sigh,
Between the sea sand and the sra
Where spaces throb with melody
Between the skylark and the aky.

Between the skylark and the sky.

Between the sunset and the sun
Night slumbers on the steeping bars,
And through its curtain, one by one.
Gleam tender glances of the stars
Between the sunset and the sun
And so between my love's lips lies
An unteld message meant for me;
Whether 'twill bring me sweet surprise
Or dole or doubt or Paradies
Is known alone to destiny.
Yet, as I wait, a dream of tears
Between her ayelids and her eyes,—
A mystery of mist,—appears,
That hints of hope and flatters fears,
And on her light a shudder of sighs,
And on her light a shudder of sighs,
And on her light a shudder of sighs,
And on her light a find that fall and rise,
Till as I seek some sign to see,
Between her syelids and her eyes
Love lights his lamp and laughs at me,

MARRIAGE.

The young sodalist ought early to give his most earnest thoughts to the subject of his vocation, or choice of a state of life, when he is convinced that God wishes him to enter the married state, he should select from among his Catholic acquaint-ances, a helpmate, industrious, amiable, and wistname. The young man who is when he is convinced that God wishes him to enter the married state, he should begin with: An open fire is number one among house blessings. If it were prectical it should be of wood, it one of those great generous, old fashioned fire places! To supply the draught, the air of the room is rapidly changed. If a small part of the money we spend in foolish fashions were given to the re-introduction of this good old fashioned blessing, how much healthier and happier we as should be! Next to an open wood fire, the open coal grate is the best means of warming and ventilating. And if, with a good draught, the coal be bituminous, it is a good fire. There has been a fearful increase of consumption, bronchitis, head ache, and some other affections, since the general introduction of stoves and furnaces.—Dio Lewis.

EXCITEMENT UNABATED.

PROOF THAT THAT PHYSICIAN'S TERRIBLE Complession is TRUE. Cleveland, O., Herald.

Cleveland, O., Herald.
Yesterday and the day before we copied into our columns from the Rochester, N. Y., Democrat and Chronicle, a remarkable statement, made by J. B. Henion, M. D., a gentleman who is well known in this city. In that article Dr. Henion recounted a wonderful experience which befell him, and the next day we published from the same paper a second article, giving an account of the excitement in Rochester, and elsewhere, caused by Dr. Henion's statement. It is doubtful if any two articles were ever published which caused greater commotion both among two articles were ever published which caused greater commotion both among professionals and laymen.

Since the publication of these two articles, having been besieged with letters of inquiry, we sent a communication to Dr. Henion and also to H. H. Warner & Co., asking if any additional proof could be given, and here it is:

What is This Disease That is Coming Upon Us?

What is This Disease That is Coming Upon Us?

Like a thief at night it steals in upon us unawarea. Many persons have pains about the cheet and sides, and sometimes in the back. They feel dull and aleepy; the mouth has a bad taste, especially in the morning. A sort of sticky slime collects about the teeth. The appetite is poor. There is a feeling like a heavy load on the stomach; sometimes a faint all-gone senaction at the pit of the stomach which food does not satisfy. The eyes are sunken, the hands and feet become cold and feel clammy. After a while a cough sets in, at first dry, but after a few months it is attended with a greenish colored expectoration. The afflicted one feels tired all the while, and sleep does not seem to afford any rest. After a time he becomes nervous, irritable, and gloomy, and has evil forebodings. There is a giddinese, a sort of whirling sensation in the head when rising up suddenly. The bowels become costive; the skin is dry and hot at times; the blood becomes thick and stagnant; the whites of the eyes become tinged with yellow, the urine is scanty and high-colored, depositing a sediment after standing. There is frequently a spitting up of the food, sometimes with a sour taste, and sometimes with a sweetish taste; this is frequently attended with palpitation of the heart; the vision becomes impaired with spots before the eyes; there is a feeling of great prostration and weakness. All of these symptoms are in turn present. It is thought that nearly one-third of our population has this disease in some of its varied forms. It has been found that medical men have mistaken the nature of this disease. Some have treated it for a liter evaluation. population has this disease in some of its varied forms. It has been found that medical men have mistaken the nature of this disease. Some have treated it for a liver complaint, others for kidney disease, etc., etc., but none of the various kinds of treatment have been attended with success, because the remedy should be such as to act harmoniously upon each one of these organs, and upon the stomach as well; for in Dyspepsia (for this is really what the disease is) all of these organs partake of this disease and require a remedy that will act upon all at the same time. Seigel's Curative Syrup acts like a charm in this class of complaints, giving almost immediate relief. The following letters from chemists of standing in the community where they live show in what estimation the article is held.
