

A long, vast hall, then up a flight of stairs into an open door, which turned upon its hinge...

A long and narrow choir, with many stalls, brown-oaken; all along the walls were hung pictures, whose sweet faces looked upon...

It hangs within his memory as fresh in tint and touch and look as long ago. There was a power in it, as if the soul of her who painted it had shined to it...

The shadow of the picture, in weak words, was this, or something very like this: "A wild, weird world, Just like the desolation of a heart, Stretched far away into infinity; Above it low, gray skies drooped sadly down, As if their rain would weep, and all was bare..."

As bleached own bleak self; a mountain stood All mantled with the glory of a light That shined from out the heavens, and a cross With such a pale Christ hanging in its arms...

There were two crosses lying on the rocks— One of white rose—Ullaine Was woven into it with buds of red; And one of red rose—Merlin's name Was woven into it with buds of white...

I saw the picture once—it moved me so I never forgot its beauty or its truth; But words as weak as mine can never paint That Crucifixion's picture. Merlin said to me, "Some day—some far-off day when I am dead, You have the simple rhymings of two hearts, And if you think it best, the world may know A love-tale crowned by purest sacrifice."

THE FIFTH OF NOVEMBER.

Editorial: One day last week you gave an extract from the Belleville Intelligencer in which the editor undertook to correct our own Free Press on a point of history, and reminded the latter that the approaching celebration of the Fifth of November was not that of the "electing of the Gates of Derry," but a dual one of the Gunpowder Plot and the Landing of King William. Wonder the Intelligencer did not remember that the fifth is also the anniversary of another remarkable event, the Battle of Inkermann. Wonder again, if he ever heard of the raxody on the Gay Fawkes celebration which the London Punch brought forth on the occasion, commencing: "Remember, remember the fifth of November, Gunpowder, treason and shot, When General Poyntz attacked Pat, John and Sandy, And a jolly good licking he got."

Paris and Protestant bayonets were there, and it would be well if our celebrators of Tuesday next were to remember that the anti-Jesuit one was not one whit more effective than that of the Pro Jesuit.

Ottawa, All Saints Day, 1899.

MR. CURRAN, M.P., CORRECTS THE MAIL.

Mr. Curran replies as follows in the columns of the Mail to an assertion made in that journal concerning Ottawa University:

SIR—In yesterday's issue of your paper, in an article entitled, "The Latest Explosion," referring to an address recently delivered by me at the unveiling of the Tablet statue, you state:

"The Ottawa University, by the way, was merely a college until the Pope by a rescript conferred University powers upon it. Non Catholic colleges have to apply to the Legislature for such powers."

Of course such statements are very palatable to the section of the population you are catering to at the present moment; the only weak point about them is that they are wholly devoid of truth. The Ottawa University was not merely a college until the Pope, by a rescript, conferred University powers upon it. Catholic as well as non Catholic colleges have to apply to the Legislature for such powers, and amongst others the Ottawa University has had to make such application. If you will refer to the statute of the Province of Ontario, 48 Vic. ch. 91, you will find that the law incorporating the original college of Bytown, subsequently the College of Ottawa, was amended and University powers conferred upon that institution by the laws of Ontario. The Head of the Church has been pleased to recognize the University thus established by the law of Ontario as the Catholic centre of education for the Province. Thus another grievance is exploded, and the title of your article, "The Latest Explosion," fully justified. It is too bad that the writer, who is so anxious to enlighten the people of Canada as to what took place in Italy hundreds of years ago, is not aware of what occurred in the Legislature of his own Province in 1885.

Yours, etc., J. J. CURRAN, M. P.

The Best Ever Made.

GENTLEMEN—My trouble was heart disease and dyspepsia, but I took two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters and one of Burdock Pills and got well. I never felt better in my life. My brother has also tried B. B. B. and thinks it a splendid medicine.

USELESS SELF-SACRIFICE.

BY MAURICE FRANCIS EGAN. In this Month of the Rosary these words of Tennyson, which can never become old or hackneyed, recur irresistibly to the mind:

"And so the whole round world Is bound by golden chains about the feet of God."

The whole round world is drawn together by the chaplet. During this month the family is doubly bound together by the sacred chain, and prayer revives and refreshes family life.

Surely in the quietness of the evening, when invocations to Our Lord and His Mother rise from the group gathered around the father and mother, all that is good, pure, and true is strengthened. Surely then the mother is happy; for her happiness on earth may be summed up in the phrase of a Scotchman: "All safe, thank God! and under one roof."

On the mother depends—more than it ought—the future of the children. It is not natural that she should do all for the children except earning the material subsistence. And yet, in the present condition of our society, in which the father takes no leisure for the understanding or cultivation of his children, the most important duties as to them fall on her, and are assumed by her, simply because there is nobody else to take them.

If the modern mother is inclined to make any fatal mistake, it is that of placing herself too much for the supposed benefit of her children. The "dear boys" must sleep a little later after their father goes to his business; and if there be a fire to make and no servant to make it, the mother conceives it her duty to rise at half past five o'clock and see that it blazes merrily. And the girls, fatigued by their practising on the piano, or their researches into the "ologies," must have a little indulgence—and they take it very willingly; for human nature is easily spoiled.

The Southern slaves have been emancipated, though it took a frightful convulsion to do it. It would take a more frightful convulsion to free a certain class of American mothers from their voluntary bonds. If this excessive self-devotion did good, one might rank the devotees of it among the noble army of earthly martyrs. It is not only does no good, but is one of the most potent means of turning ordinarily promising children into selfish and exacting creatures. A mother may think night and day of her children, work for them from dawn till dusk, stand between them and the slightest wind, and yet by this extreme kindness only harden their hearts. These pampered darlings frown at her as they would not dare to frown at any one who did not seem to be their slave both by her natural position and her own will. For whom are better smiles and gentler words? Not for her, they have learned to demand, not to request, of her.

By and by these "dear boys," for whom the tenderest steak and the pleasantest seat at table are always reserved, will take these privileges as rights. Their feelings and wishes will be their guides in all things; for has their mother not taught them that they are beings no superior that they are not to respect her desires or her convenience? She is the dearest of her little savings, that they may have the amusement fitting to such gilded youths; she laces, in fear and trembling, their faults from the head of the household, until they become chronic and past cure. If they take to that vice of the selfish young—the abuse of spirituous liquors—who is to blame? The answer is easy, though it seems cruel: Their mother. She has taught them, by her pampering of their appetites on all occasions, that they are to deny themselves nothing. Who can resist the temptations around him if he has never learned to bear the yoke of self-denial in his youth?

As to her daughters, she makes them as selfish as woman can be; and when she dies, she dies unregretted by them, except as they would regret an untiring servant, with the weight of many of their shortcomings on her head.

OVER TWO MILLION KILLED.

How many people have been killed in the wars of the last forty years? A German statistician, Professor Engel, says the London Universe, has counted them, and given us some very ghastly figures. The Crimean war, he tells us, cost the lives of three quarters of a million people. There were doubtless a great many soldiers killed at Kalafet and Silistria while Turkey fought Russia single-handed, and a good many fell on the Alma, at Sebastopol, and on the Tchernaya, not to speak of the "noble six hundred" of Balaclava; but three quarters of a million is really a very big figure. Both the Italian war of 1859, and the Austro-Prussian war of 1866 cost each 45,000 lives; in the Secession war, which lasted four years, the North lost 250,000 and the South 520,000 combatants. In the Franco-German war of 1870-71 the French lost amounted to 155,000 and the German to 60,000. The Russo-Turkish war represents a butcher's bill of 250,000; both the Bulgarian-Servian war of 1878 and the Bulgarian-Servian war of 1885 cost the lives of 25,000 each, and in Mexico and Cochinchina some 65,000 lives were sacrificed under the second empire. The Danish war of 1864 comes in for 30,000 lives lost. In all the wars of the last forty years have claimed a holocaust of 2,358,000 lives, and if the Paraguayan war and the war between Chili and Peru, besides the Tonquin campaign, be added, we shall not fall far short of two and a half million lives.

Important to Workmen.

THE LITTLE COMPANY OF MARY AT ROME.

Says the Roman correspondent of the London Tablet: A good and most important work, which cannot fail to be very interesting to all English Catholics, has been proposed here, that is, the building in Rome of a hospital for English speaking people. Those who know Rome, with its continual influx of English speaking visitors, understand well the great necessity of such an institution. People of limited means, priests and others, falling sick in a strange land, are often reduced to extreme inconvenience, and it is to supply a long-standing need that the hospital is to be built. The English Sisters of the Little Company of Mary whose work in England is known so well, and who have been for some years past established also in Rome, have had for a long time this project in view. The Holy Father has given the work his special blessing, and His Eminence the Cardinal-Vicar, having given the undertaking the highest sanction and warmest approval, offered for the purpose of building the hospital the piece of ground covering the catacombs of Santa Felicitas. The Sisters have collected so far about £1,000 towards the building, but it has been objected that building over catacombs being more expensive than building on ordinary ground, a larger sum must be raised before the work can commence. It is therefore to be feared that if the good Sisters do not receive some generous aid this admirable project must either be altogether abandoned or at least deferred for an indefinite period. It is impossible to conceive the great benefit which would accrue to an immense majority of travellers of limited means from such an institution, as well as glory to God and the Church as the dedication of a hospital to Calvary. But even apart from this it should be to English Catholics no small matter to have a hospital under the immediate patronage of the Cardinal-Vicar in the charge of English Religious, and guarding one of the most important catacombs of Rome.

CATARRAH.

A NEW HOME TREATMENT FOR THE CURE OF CATARRH, CATARRH OF THE EYES, AND HAY FEVER.

The microscope has proved that these diseases are caused by parasites. It is now known that the presence of living parasites in the internal lining membrane of the upper air passages and conjunctival tubes. The eminent scientists, Tyndall, Huxley and Beale, endorse this, and their authorities cannot be disputed. The regular method of treating these diseases is to apply an irritant remedy locally, and even daily, thus keeping the membrane in a constant state of irritation, accompanied by violent sneezing, allowing it to dry and crust, and thus allowing the entrance of such treatment not only permanent cure has ever been recorded. It is an absolute fact that these diseases cannot be cured by any application made oftener than once in two weeks, for the membrane must get a chance to rest.

Mr. Dixon sends a pamphlet describing his new treatment on the receipt of ten cents in stamp. The address is A. H. Dixon, 301, 303 King Street, West, Toronto, Canada.—Scientific American.

Bronchitis Cured

After spending ten Winters South, was cured by Scott's Emulsion. 146 Centre St., New York, June 25th, 1888.

The Winter after the great fire in Chicago I contracted Bronchitis affections and since then have been obliged to spend nearly every Winter south. Last November was advised to try Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites and to my surprise was relieved at once, and by continuing its use three months was entirely cured, gained flesh and strength and was able to stand over the Blizzard and attend to business every day.

SLEEP ON THE TRACK.

A little child, tired of play, had pillowd his head on a railroad track and fallen asleep. The train was almost upon him when a passer stranger rushed forward and saved him from a horrible death. Perhaps you are asleep on the track, too. If you are neglecting the budding cough, the hoarse cough, the loss of appetite, growing weakness and lassitude, which have unconsciously crept upon you, you are on the track which will bring you to a premature grave. It was therefore necessary that this medicinal fastener should be made in time, if it is to be overcome. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is now curing thousands of cases of this most fatal of maladies. If taken in time, and given a fair trial, it is guaranteed to benefit or cure every case of Consumption, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded.

For Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.

SAVED FROM AN INSANE ASYLUM.

COLUMBIA CITY, IND., OCT. 18, 1887. A lady well known to me and of whose family I am a friend, was afflicted with a nervous disease for a long time and cured at last by Rev. J. J. Pottgeiser, S. J. The lady's sickness started about the year 1870, and was attended by a physician in connection with sleeplessness, which had such an effect on her mind that delusions became prominent. It was therefore necessary to watch her day and night for fear that she might harm herself, and in the month of August she was brought to an insane asylum. After a three-months' trial her condition had not improved in the least, and she was taken home again. About this time the Rev. Pastor Koenig was asked to treat the lady, and in the month of January, '88, she had so much improved by his treatment that she could sleep again, and the excitability and delusions were growing perceptibly less, she had the best of such an attack in the latter part of that month, and to-day she is a healthy person that will always remember the great blessing bestowed upon her by the Rev. Pastor E. Koenig.

She does not wish to have her name made public, and, therefore, asked me to make this statement in her name.

A. M. ELLINGER. Our pamphlet for sufferers of nervous diseases will be sent free to any address, and power granted to obtain this medicine free to those who are afflicted with it.

CHURCH PEWS AND SCHOOL FURNITURE

The Bennett Furnishing Co., of London, Ont., make a specialty of manufacturing the latest designs in Church and School Furniture. The Catholic Clergy of Canada are respectfully invited to send for catalogue and price before awarding contracts. We have lately put in a complete set of Pews in the Brandon Catholic Church, and for many years past have been favored with contracts from a number of the Clergy in other parts of Ontario, in all cases the most judicious selection, having been expressed in regard to quality of work, lowness of price, and quickness of execution. Such has been the increase of business in this special line that we found it necessary some time since to establish a branch office in Ottawa, Scotland, and we are now at good manufacturing Pews for new Churches in that country and Ireland.
