BRITISH SUB.
MET U-BOATEnemy Vessel Waiting to Pounce on Prey Was Blown to Bottom

London, Aug. 21.—Recently a British and a German submarine met. The enemy had crossed the North Sea, penetrated British waters and was lurking to pounce upon any ship that might cross its track. The British boat was returning to its base after an arduous cruise.

Both boats were on the surface, but the British boat picked up the enemy and dived before she herself was sighted. She fired two torpedoes and through her periscope the resulting explosion was observed. Coming to the surface five minutes later the British crew found one survivor swimming among the wreckage. He was the captain of the German submarine. The other officers and the crew had all gone down in their boat.

CANADIAN CAVALRY IN
THE FIGHTDaring Exploits Recorded in Opening Days of the Somme Battle

(By J. F. B. Livesey, Canadian Press Correspondent.)

With the Canadian Forces, Aug. 20.—Via London, Aug. 22.—It is now possible to record some of the exploits of the Canadian cavalry on three opening days of the Somme battle. None is more tragic and wonderful than the ride to death of some men of a well known western regiment. The cavalry was set the task of breaking through the enemy lines and destroying his back organization.

It undertook some desperate adventures in this quest over a country serrated with trenches and wire and containing hidden nests of enemy machine guns.

On the right of our line lay the open Amiens-Roy road. Great strategic results might be gained by a sudden dash down toward Roye, but it was impossible to get off the road owing to the wire and deep trenches. Information was to hand that our infantry had captured Demery, and that the French had occupied Andechy. Unfortunately it developed that this was erroneous. The enemy held on to both these strong points on either side of the road as well as the woods between, while the trenches and the road itself were lined with machine guns.

Under this misapprehension a small body of cavalry attempted to gallop the Z wood down the road, a strong hold that did not fall into the hands of the French until nearly a week later. Straight down the road they rode through the ranks of the advancing infantry, but they were wiped out long before they reached their objective. One trooper alone got within a half mile of the objective, the empty saddles returned, and at night half a dozen wounded men crawled back into our lines.

More success came to another squadron of the same regiment whose captain holds both the V.C. and the M.C. Advancing along this fatal road the squadron met very heavy machine gun fire west of Le Quesnoy, coming from the direction of Dammy. It swung south of the road and crossed the French infantry line and then, galloping over trenches and wire, captured the village of Andechy, and with it a very large enemy supply depot and a considerable number of prisoners.

The squadron held the village in face of enemy attacks until it was taken over by the French infantry. Another famous cavalry regiment whose deeds in the South African war are a matter of Canadian history, made on the opening day an attack on Quesnoy, but the charge was stopped by the enemy's machine guns in a sunken road. The squadron swung to the right and left, and here, the major leading it, got in advance of his men, and with one corporal defended himself in a scrub for 11 hours against the attacking boches, finally rejoining his command under cover of night.

In the meantime one troop galloped into Fresnoy, on the right, surprising the garrison and rounding up 150 prisoners. The enemy came back in force and the troops were obliged to withdraw, rejoicing the remarkable spectacle of a trooper leading a pack of ammunition mules galloping with his reins over his arm and emptying his carbine at the enemy.

These are but a few incidents out of many in which the Canadian cavalry has distinguished itself, dashing in and rounding up villages and prisoners before the enemy was aware we were on him. Their fine work did much to complete his demoralization during the first days of the battle.

SEVERAL HUNDRED
OFFICERS SHOT
1,500 Arrested in Moscow,
And Many of Them
Executed

By Courier Leased Wire
Several hundred of fifteen thousand officers arrested in Moscow have been shot, according to a letter written in Moscow on August 14 by Dr. Alfonso Paquet and published in the "Frankfort Zeitung." Some of the officers who denounced Russian citizenship and acquired German or Polish passes, were released at the request of the German consul-general. The remainder were sent to a concentration camp surrounded by artillery. The officers, it is added, were subjected to conditions "begging all descriptions." Those imprisoned included a number of former generals and colonels.

Dr. Paquet says that several hundred British and French business men have been arrested in Moscow and adds that further arrests of representatives of the bourgeois are expected. If this proves inadequate to maintain order, he continues, a reign of terror, with public executions, is unavoidable.

ON TRACK OF RAIDER.

By Courier Leased Wire.
Washington, Aug. 21.—Strong forces of swift naval boats and destroyers sped to-day to the north Atlantic, fishing banks where the trawler Triumph, captured yesterday by a German submarine, armed and manned, is reported to be raiding fishing fleets. Naval officials here think the recapture of the trawler or the enforced destruction by the German crew is a certainty.

ALLIES HOLD KEY
TO TOWN OF NOYONNow Outflanked on Southeast and Dominated by French Guns

New York, Aug. 21.—The Associated Press issued the following: Numerous additional villages have been liberated by the French north-west of Soissons, and positions have been captured on both sides of the Oise River, which seemingly make untenable for occupation by the enemy the important town of Noyon, which is now outflanked on the south-east and dominated by the French guns from the south and west. On the south the French are standing in Sempigny, a mile and a half distant, while on the west they have captured the important pivotal town of Lassigny, the key position to Noyon and the plains to the north.

With the latest advances by the French east of the Oise there has come under the range of General Mangin's guns the broad-gauge railway line leading from Noyon eastward to La Fere—the sole remaining line, except for two narrow-gauge roads, over which the enemy may transport his men and supplies beyond the range of the French artillery.

What is to be the effect of the Allied drives along the 120-mile battle-line from Ypres to Soissons cannot be foretold at present, but it seems highly probable that this entire front soon must be realigned. The particular menace to the Germans, aside from that in the territory between the Somme and the Oise, appears to be on the sector along the Vesle River from Soissons to Rheims, which from the war maps looks to be untenable. Even the Aisne and the Chemin-des-Dames do not appear to be any too safe for the defence line, if General Mangin presses much further northwest of Soissons.

FUSE FACTORY IS NOW MAKING SHELLSUntil Fuses Were Not Needed
it Had Turned Out
35,000 a Day

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—The fuse is a delicate piece of mechanism of 57 parts which explodes a shell either by time or percussion, and sends its fragments on their mission of killing Germans. To manufacture fuses a plant was set up in Canada by the Imperial Munitions Board, which developed into the largest plant of its kind in allied territory, probably in the world.

The work on the plant began in February, 1916, and 19 weeks after the building operations commenced the first fuse was loaded and assembled. The average output of this factory reached over 35,000 fuses each day. The factory has a floor space of seven acres. The greatest number of fuses assembled in any one day was 40,246, which necessitated the handling of 4,160,000 component parts by the munition workers. The total number of fuses completed up to date is over 8,000,000.

As fuses were no longer required from Canada after the early part of this year, this plant has now been converted to the manufacturing of 18-pounder shrapnel forgings.
