While here in this portion of New Brunswick a favorable haying season such as was never known blessed the farmers, less than a hundred miles away, in Washington county, Me., and westward, hay is still uncut, and what was cut has rotted in the fields because of the excessive rains. On Sunday A. Plummer and H. N. Boyer, with their wives, started in Mr. Plummer's auto for Robinson camp-meetings. Rain came on and they turned back. A portion of the railing was broken away and the stronger timbers prevented a tragedy. Had the accident occurred a few feet further on the result would have been far different.

A good story is on Sheriff Frost of Mars Hill, but he is foxy and until now has kept the joke to himself. When a few weeks ago he was scoured Carleton county for a witness necessity compelled him to cross the river with his car on one of the up-river ferries. He ran the car on to the boat, which rocked considerably under the unusual load. The genial officer became a bit rattled and put on a little more speed with the result that he ran off the boat at the further end, going with his car into the river. The water was not deep but it was very wet. A team of horses was used to tow the auto to shore.
