selves personally acquainted with the ministic of questions which have already been the subject of animated discussion in Parliament and the press, and which will be prominent topics of debate when Parliament, meets again and is asked to vote fresh sums for Mr. MACKENKIE's folly and incompetency! One may well wonder that Mr. MACKENKIE, hard driven though he is, should make it a ground of complaint, particularly is such shamseful words, that prominent representatives of the people have taken the trouble to inform themselves by personal observation, of the state of certain public works. If there is nothing wong—if Mr. MACKENKIE has judiciously find correctly spent the millions of dollars whose products cover and cumber the ground between Fort William and Fort Garry—be ought to be glad to find representative men sufficiently interested in affairn to be willing to spend of their own means to examine the works on which he is engaged. But he knows well it's not all right; he knows well that, on the contrary, it's all wrong; and hence those cann. Out of many a difficulty Mr. MACKENKIE has drawn himself by bold answertions.
