Mr. Blake of trying to make a corrupt compact with the French Tories. The Mail denounced the leader of the Opposition as a traitor to his province and called him all the unpleasant names it could think of—and the list is by no means a short one—while the Gazette declared that by offering a direct bribe for the French vote M. Blake was guilty of rank hypocrisy, corruption, treachery, and several other sins of a like kind. The result, it is intimated, "was to strip Mr. Blake of every claim to hoacesty in political life, of every shred of principle, and to expose him as a miserable trick.

The Blake of every claim to honesty in political life, of every shred of principle, and to expose him as a miserable trick-ster, willing to sacrifice every consider at mise and consistency to the stain and extent with the statement of office." All this is very beroic and very grand, but at the same time it is very stupid. Mr. Blake has intimated that he made no propositions to the French Tories, nor did he send any body else to make them. In addition to this, there can be no misapprehending the meaning of the remarks made by Mr. Ouimet, a prominent supporter of Sir John, from Quebec, This gentleman intimated in the plainest terms that the charges made against the leader of the Opposition were entirely in the plainest terms that the charges made against the leader of the Opposition were entirely in the plainest terms that the charges made against the leader of the Opposition were entirely in the plainest terms that the charges made against the leader of the Opposition were entirely in the plainest terms that the charges made against the leader of the Opposition were entirely in the plainest terms that the charges made against the leader of the Opposition were entirely in the plainest term midate members of the House was an attempt at blackmail." This is pretty strong language for one of Sir John's followers to use in speaking of two of Sir John's organs. But it is probably in the Kidneys and Bladder, and Inflam no stronger than the occasion warranted.
The question may very properly be asked what reliance can be placed upon the utterances of partizan journals when they do not hesitate to misrepresent their political opponents in the way that these two journals have done. But there is another question to be considered, and it is this. If Mr. Blake is the traitor and the miscreant that these journals and travel continually, and would traitor and the miscreant that these jour-nals declared him to be for merely being

EVERYONE WHO TAKES DR. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisays remarks how constantly and quickly excitement of the appetite and facilicy of digestion result from its use. Such is the uniform effect of this preparation, which explains why it is so extraordinary in restoring the feeble constitution, and augmenting the vital powers. By securing the perfect assimilation of food and formation of pure blood, the nutrition of the organs and tissues is maintained, the gaps, made by disease repaired, the waste resulting from mental and physical exertion supplied, and all the functions of the body sustained in a vigorous condition, The action of the Elixir is to aid nature permanently, and it is incapable of perverting her laws by over stimulating or depressing the organism.
