Another Address to Father Clarke.

On Sunday the members of the Torbay Total Abstinence and Benefit Society paraded to the residence of Rev. M. J. Clarke their Spiritual Director, and presented him with a gift and the subjoined address. The address was read by the President, Michael Parsons, and the gift presented by William Goss, Vice-President. Father Clarke in his reply thanked them for their address and gift and told them that the best gift they could possibly give him was the assurance that in the future they would live up to the ideals he had so often set before them. In conclusion he assured them that if they remained true to their society, it would bring down on them in the future the same benefits it had in the past. The following is a copy of the address presented:

ADDRESS.

Very Rev. and Dear Father.—On behalf of the Torbay Total Abstinence & Benefit Society, we beg to express our heartfelt sorrow occasioned by the news of your intended departure.

We fully realize as do all your parishioners, all the good work you have done for the Parish of Torbay. To see how much Torbay has progressed under your guidance, it is only necessary to glance back, and compare Torbay, as it was at your advent amongst us, with what it is now when increasing years force you to leave us.

Your hand and yours alone was it that evolved order out of chaos and in almost miraculous manner changed a settlement which was then perhaps the most backward in the country into a progressive and comfortable village, which can not only compare favourably with any other in Newfoundland but which in many respects stands far ahead of any of them.

And we, the members of this society, have in a special manner been the recipients of your golden advice and better still your never to be forgotten example.

Your addresses to us, on the subject of Total Abstinence have never failed to carry the greatest weight with us, because we knew you felt what you said, that you were not speaking from hearsay, but that you were explaining the benefits accruing from a system of abstemious living which was identical with your own daily life.

Since you first organized it thirty-three years ago, you have never ceased many a time at the greatest personal inconvenience—to promote in every possible manner the best interests of our Society.

During the dark days of adversity that overshadowed the early stages of our journey towards the high road of success along which we are now so rapidly progressing, you have been so much to us that now when we are about to lose you we feel as a blind man would who felt the staff suddenly snatched from his grasp. We have grown so accustomed to your guidance that we feel we can never go on alone.

We know that your departure must have been decreed by the all wise designs of God, but at present we can see no silver lining in the cloud that overshadows us.

Reverend and Dear Father you have left behind you, many works which will stand forth to all time as landmarks of your zeal and monuments of your greatness; but nothing will serve more to perpetuate your memory than this society of which you are so justly proud. For when we and our generation have passed away, the Society will continue to advance along the lines laid down by you and thus permeated with your zeal it will never cease to wage war against the evils of intemperance. In this way perhaps more than in any other, you will have left indelible footprints on the "sands of time."

We ask you, Rev. Father, to accept this little gift as a small token of our esteem and accept with it our sincerest wishes that the sunset of your life in the Land of your birth may be as peaceful as your years of labour amongst us have been fruitful of Good Work.

And rest assured Rev. Father that nowhere have you such loyal well wishers as the ranks of this society contain for well we know you to be:

"An old Friend and a tried Friend, a friend the heart cannot forget, We love all the new who are good and true, Put the old we can never forget."

Signed on behalf of the Society: Michael Parsons, William Goss, James Thorne, James Lacey, Augustine Thorne, James Goss.

Steamer Capsizes

With Laborers for Canadian Northern Construction — 39 Passengers and Crew Believed Lost.

Victoria, B.C., March 25.—With 39 passengers and crew on board the steamer Sechart, a small shelter deck steamer operated between Victoria and Sooke by the British Columbia Shipping Company, capsized off Beach Head late yesterday. It is believed all on board were lost. The Sechart left yesterday afternoon with about 35 passengers, mostly laborers, bound to the Canadian Northern Railway Construction Company at Hedder Bay, and a crew of four men with Capt. H. B. James, manager of the company, in command. This morning a boy arrived at Esquimaux in a gasoline launch from Williams Head quarantine station with news that the steamer had capsized. All that the boy knew was that the Sechart had capsized and he believed all were drowned. He had been sent to get assistance.

Horrors of the Mexican War.

Children Executed in Presence of Their Parents.

Douglas, Arizona, March 24.—Harrowing details of the tragedy of real war are coming out of Mexico. A mining engineer, who arrived here from Montezuma to-day, told of the execution of children before the eyes of their parents. When Jose Chipas, Prefect of Montezuma district, captured General Talamantes, two sons of the General were also captured and condemned to death.

General Talamantes addressed the authorities, saying: "Do not ask anything for myself, but if you will spare the lives of my two young sons I will turn over every penny of my fortune. They are young and have practiced their whole life before them."

"They must be shot," was the stern reply. A detachment of Col. Ojeda's federal soldiers were lined up and the two young men, blindfolded, were led out. Their father covered his face with his hands and wept when the fatal volley rang out and the boys fell, their bodies riddled. General Talamantes was then led out and within a few minutes his dead body lay across those of his sons. The widow of General Talamantes, who is wealthy, has set about forming a company of soldiers, which she threatens to lead in person against Montezuma in order to avenge the death of her husband and sons.

BRUCE'S CREW RETURN.

By the local express which arrived here from Port aux Basques last night, 12 men of the crew of the ill-fated S. S. Bruce arrived here, and most of them will ship on the Invermore when she is put in commission. Among the men were Chief Officer Capt. Taylor, Second Officer, Jeremiah Pynn, Purser Mitchell and the cooks and stewards of the wrecked vessel.

On arrival the men were interviewed by a Telegram reporter, and said that the lee side of the vessel, when they left her to come and join the Gloucester, was torn away, the hull which is submerged is broken in two, and that the ship is a total wreck and cannot be raised. The exact spot where the ship struck is at Man O' War Point, outside of Main a Dieu, and they say the ship struck how on at 10 minutes to 5 in the morning of Friday, March 24th, going over a reef and thumping terribly several times, catching amidstships on the rocks where she lay. Almost immediately she struck the ship listed badly to leeward and for a while it was feared that she would go completely over, but fortunately this catastrophe was averted.

The morning was a fine one with clear weather, but a high sea ran and it was fully two hours before this succeeded in sufficiently enabling the passengers to be taken ashore in the boats with safety. When the ship struck, Capt. Drake was on the bridge, and all the passengers were asleep in their berths below, but the pounding of the ship on the reef awoke them instantly, and they rushed on deck, most of them having seized life buoys which they quickly adjusted to their persons, fearing the worst. There was some confusion for a time, but Capt. Drake and his officers and men kept their heads and succeeded in reassuring the frightened passengers amongst whom were 10 women and 2 children. They saw eventually that there was no immediate danger to their lives and they remained on the deck up near the edge out of reach of the waves which time and again sent sprays flying over the ship. When the order was given to lower away the boats the tackles were found to be frozen in the davits and they had to be cut away. The crew saw that in this work they did not receive any particular assistance from the male passengers on board all of whom had their life belts on and were eagerly awaiting a chance to get ashore. However, "Bosun" John Murphy who was north with Peary, and Mr. F. Connors, brother of Capt. Connors, of the Galatea, gave excellent service with a few others, and Capt. Drake and Taylor, 2nd Officer Pynn and others worked like trojans for the safety of the passengers and crew. The women and children were the first to be considered, and when the weather was moderate enough to leave the ship with safety these were the first to be rowed ashore with Second Officer Pynn in charge of the boat which took them to the land.

Uncle Walt THE POET PHILOSOPHER.

When tireless agents greet me with smiles from ear to ear, and do their best to beat me, just as they did last year, by selling fruit trees fruitless, or cornets that are toothless, or other junk that's bootless, I know that spring is here. When I am tired and bilious, and feeling stale and queer, and doctored supercilious about my door appear, and do me up with potions, and rub me down with lotions that stir up strange emotions, I know that spring is here. When to its pasture fragrant proceeds the lawning steed; when from his lair the vagrant comes forth, intent on beer; when I see neighbors slashing around their gardens, thrashing in idiotic fashion, I know that spring is here. When truant schoolboys, naughty, so fishing at the weir; and women all grow dotty, as in the yester-year, and tear the house to pieces, to scrub where dust or grease is, just like so many geese, I know that spring is here. When flies begin to tickle the victim's nose and ear; when skeeters prod and prickel, with small but poignant spear; when birds come back and brings us the songs they used to sing us, and bees come up and sting us, I know that spring is here.

The four boats on the ship made three trips each before all were safely landed, and risky work it was in piloting them through the surf. The men in charge of the boats, however, were skillful seamen and that none of the boats came to grief was due to their experience, pluck, prudence and skill in handling them. The men say that when the men who were helping launch the boats went into the water many on board thought all would be drowned. Poor Pike who met a watery grave was chilled from his long immersion. He grasped a life buoy thrown him, and some of those on deck grasped him but he could not help himself and sank to rise no more. The other men who were struggling in the water were hauled in on the ship's deck after great exertion. Fourth Engineer Oke had a terrific struggle for his life. Four times in succession he swam to the rail of the ship only to be taken away on the receding waves, his comrades on deck cheered him on to renewed exertions.

when he at last reached the rail he was dragged in on the deck in the last stages of exhaustion. Most of the crew are young chaps but all are good seamen, none of them, however, will forget the experience they had when their good ship met her doom.
