The Coming Celebration.

The coming celebration of her Majesty's diamond jubilee will be a personal tribute to the worth of her Majesty as a sovereign and a woman, just as the demonstration was ten years ago, when the subjects of the Queen rejoiced over the completion of her 50th year on the throne. But the demonstration will be much more. It will be devoted to the supplying of proofs of the marvelous progress which the British Empire has made in the last 50 years.

There will, of course, be a tinge of sadness in the proceedings on June 22. On Monday next her Majesty enters on her 79th year, and though she yet enjoys very good health, for a person of her age, in the natural order of things the time must soon come when the Victorian era will close. On the eve of her Majesty's natal day we can and all express the fervent hope that she may live to celebrate not a few more. She has already beaten the record of British sovereigns, and when she comes to lay down her scepter few there will be who will not say that she was a model Queen, wife, mother.

Mr. Haycock, M.P.P., leader of the Patrons, who has just returned from a business trip in the Northwest, says: "Prospects were never so bright in Manitoba as they are this spring." This is glad news for us all.

The Proposed New Hospital for London and Middlesex.

The serious question before the people of London and Middlesex today is "Shall the city and county erect a new hospital in celebration of her Majesty's diamond jubilee?"

Many citizens in every walk of life have, according to their means, liberally contributed to the fund for the erection of a new building, and at the present moment there is in sight subscriptions of close on $30,000. But the payment of this sum is made conditional on a total amount of $80,000 being raised.

There are doubts as to the ability of the committees appointed to secure by canvass within the next month the additional sum necessary to make up the $50,000 required to provide a thorough equipped, up-to-date hospital, and it is by many deemed unwise to have the project unsettled after jubilee day. What can be done to facilitate matters? This is the question which will probably be discussed and answered at the mass meeting of the citizens, to be held in the Auditorium on Thursday evening next.

One view that has been advanced is certainly worthy of earnest consideration by the authorities of both city and county, and could fairly be urged upon them at this time.

It is conceded on all hands that a new hospital is a most desirable, a most necessary thing, and that if it is not provided in the manner now contemplated, it will have to be erected by and be entirely through taxation. To avoid this, enable the authorities to have the use of the jubilee memorial fund now subscribed, amounting, in all, there is reason to believe, to at least $35,000, would it not be well for both the city and county authorities to embrace the opportunity to put up the balance needed to make $80,000, and thus secure the subscriptions and the new Jubilee Hospital without further ado? It would certainly be better for the authorities to thus face the question now and avoid the necessity for constantly altering, repairing, and enlarging the present admittedly defective structure.

The time for action is now. In a month it will be too late.

The Premier-elect of Quebec (Hon. Mr. Marchand) is a fluent English speaker, a fact accounted for in part by his descent, which, on his mother's side is English.

Peace in Our Time.

The Canada Presbyterian, in a capital editorial, traverses Mr. Chauncey Depew's prognostication that there may be war between the United States and Great Britain, but that it may not come for 50 years. But, inquires the Presbyterian, may we not expect that the growth of higher intelligence, and especially of riper Christian sentiment, and the tendency, even now hopefully manifest, to a wiser, truer, more faithful application of the spirit of Christianity—true Christianity as embodied in the Sermon on the Mount—will work greater wonders than have yet been seen, within one half of the next 50 years?

An Alleghany, N. Y., milkman was burned to death in his milk wagon the other day. This shows the necessity for milkmen carrying around a supply of water to meet emergencies.

A Friend's Cold Comfort.

The Ontario Telegram, an Independent Conservative paper, does not see much hope for the success of Mr. Whitney as a leader in a crusade in which Mr. W. R. Meredith and Mr. Marter signally failed. Our contemporary says:

"At the present time it is difficult to see what the Conservatives can hope to gain in provincial politics by awakening party enthusiasm. Party enthusiasm is hard to awaken, and when all there is of it is awake it is not strong enough to turn Hon. A. S. Hardy out. The true hope of victory over the Liberal Government would be in the leader who could appeal to public opinion outside the party, and in an Opposition which could point to facts illustrating its fitness for Government. It does not appear that Mr. Whitney is such a leader, nor have his followers yet impressed the province with a sense of their fitness for the responsibilities which now burden the Ontario Government."

This is certainly cold comfort, coming as it does from a professed friend.

The London Spectator thinks that the Victorian age has not been so entirely satisfactory as it might have been. It concedes that there is now more hard cash than there was when her Majesty ascended the throne, but it maintains that there is "no more hard thinking." The writer of this assertion cannot recently have been engaged in initiatory bicycle riding.

The Victorian Order of Nurses.

In the newer settlements of all the provinces, from Prince Edward Island to British Columbia, there are men and women with large concepts of life, founding homes for themselves and their families. They are not the downtrodden, the baffled, the heartless, the faithless of the people. On the contrary, the enterprising, the courageous, the hopeful, have gone out to conquer new fields by their masterful labors. The best types of humanity are often found in those homes. They are sturdy and independent. They would say, "We do not want any doles of charity through the city or any other agency; but we need adequate medical and nursing help brought within our reach, and are willing to pay for it as far as we can." That is what the Victorian Order of Nurses proposes to accomplish.

An improvement of the conditions under which trained nurses follow their devoted and helpful occupation in the cities of Canada is also urgently needed. The sick poor of many families in the cities and towns, and the sick of those of moderate incomes, would be greatly benefited if they could secure even short visits from thoroughly trained nurses. This is what the Victorian Order of Nurses proposes to accomplish.

According to Ballard Smith, the London correspondent of the New York World, there no longer is any doubt as to the identity of the person who gave the check for $125,000 to the jubilee dinner fund which the Princess of Wales is raising for the poor of London. It is stated on the authority of the man who saw the check that it was signed by Thomas I. Lipton, proprietor of numerous provision stores in the principal cities of England and Scotland. Lipton has established an enormous business in a comparatively short time and evidently is rolling in wealth. It is to his credit that he has undertaken to spend a portion of his earnings to aid in giving some poor people enjoyment that would otherwise not be theirs.

The Presbyterian Funds.

At one time it appeared that the various funds in connection with the Presbyterian Church of Canada would be much behind when the General Assembly met at Winnipeg in June. It now looks as if Rev. Dr. Warden, the able agent, or financial and business manager of the church, will be able to meet the assembly with a fair degree of composure. The Presbyterian Church in Canada has a way of rising to its extensive financial responsibilities that redounds greatly to its credit. We may add that the denomination is exceedingly fortunate in having secured the services of a man so uniquely fitted for the important position he holds as Dr. Warden. Western Ontario takes a natural pride in recalling the fact that the worthy D.D. was for some years identified with this section of the province.

Independent Cuba.

Mr. Hitt, chairman of the foreign affairs committee of the United States House of Representatives, who is a close personal friend of President McKinley, says he has reason to believe that the President is taking as active and effective steps as he can to secure the independence of Cuba. Time will tell what those steps are, how Spain looks upon them, and whether or not an international row will ensue. Spain is a weak nation, or she would at once strongly resent the interference of the United States, in what she claims is a domestic struggle. But we must not forget that there is a United States side to the war. Through this conflict many millions of dollars worth of property of United States citizens in Cuba has been destroyed, and a profitable trade between the republic and the island has for two years been prevented. It is not unreasonable that the United States Government and people should tire of the condition of affairs, and despair of Spain's ability to straighten them out.

The Westminster for May.

Rev. J. A. Macdonald, the capable editor of The Westminster, has done a timely thing, in view of the early introduction of a new hymnal in one of the great churches, in making the May issue largely musical. Apart from the predominant feature, all the other departments are well sustained. The touches of Mr. Macdonald's versatility are noticeable from cover to cover.

Saving by New Contracts.

Taxpayers generally will rejoice that the new Government at Ottawa, by judicious management, has saved a large sum on two contracts entered into by them for the performance of public service. By the new contract entered into by them for a fast Canadian-British ocean service, the saving, compared with the terms which the late Government had agreed to, is $350,000 a year. On the contract for printing bank notes for the Dominion, the saving by the present Government is $150,000 in the five years' contract. Then, by prudent management, the estimates for running Kingston Penitentiary are this year less by $40,000 than in the last year of the late Administration. Let the good work go on.

THE RULER OF THE WORLD.

[Philadelphia American.]
"The hand that rocks the cradle," said the poet, "rules the world."

And once, perhaps, the statement had its worth. But today we give the medal to the foot that works the pedal.

A LONDONER'S OPPORTUNITY.

[Hamilton Herald.]
That fine young poet, Arthur J. Stringer, writes thus passionately for the Toronto Mail and Empire: "God grant me the gift of an infinite grief. But why look to heaven for the blessed boon of grief, Arthur? Seek it for yourself. Invest all your spare cash in a wildcat mine. Marry a new woman. Bet on a sure thing. Learn bicycling on a corduroy road. Help yourself to griefs. They're lying around loose."

BETTER HORSES WANTED.

[Hamilton Spectator.]
Attempts have been made by importing suitable hackney and thoroughbred stallions, to induce the Canadian farmer to go in for something in the horse line which will bring the British army agents frequently to this country, and put good money into the pockets of the people; but the average farmer seldom takes advantage of these opportunities, and the importers of good stallions have been discouraged. So long as the millennium remains in the future there will be demand, at the best prices, for horses suitable for the British army, and it is difficult to understand why Canadian farmers will continue to raise unprofitable horses when it would cost no more to raise horses which would bring them good profit.

FITS.

[Toronto Star.]
Mr. Davin says that while Mr. Foster may have moments of weakness, Mr. Fielding has fainting fits. Mr. Davin himself is addicted to talking fits.

A Beautiful Spot.

The foliage this year is remarkably dense, and many people claim it to be more so than for many years. Presuming this statement to be correct, it needs no argument to convince London's population that there is no more beautiful spot in all Canada's fair domain than the pleasant summer resort that has been provided at great expense at Springbank for the people of the Forest City. Here all may enjoy themselves. It is close to the city, and provided with everything that is really necessary to the pleasure seeker, with swings and merry-go-rounds for the children. Springbank is the place to go on Monday.

St. Mary's Hospital, Rademacher is at Grace Hospital, and will recover.

RIDING AN OSTRICH.

"I don't believe the stories told about the natives in Africa and Australia riding ostriches," said L. R. Haney, of Porterville, California. "Americans are the best riders on earth, but they can't ride ostriches. I saw this pretty thoroughly tried on one occasion. A cowboy who had vanquished every pony he ever undertook to break in was induced to try an ostrich. After an hour's hard work, he succeeded in mounting the bird, which at first tried to shake him off, then to get away by running, but these tactics, of course,

One loaf of bread may be light, sweet and digestible. You may use the same materials for another and have it heavy, sour and soggy. The knack is in putting the ingredients together just right. A substitute for Scott's Emulsion may have the same ingredients and yet not be a perfect substitute, for no one knows how to put the parts together as we do. The secret of "how" is our business—twenty-five years of experience has taught us the best way.

Scott & Bown, Ltd., London, Ont.

had no effect upon the cowboy. Then, in spite of all the man could do, the ostrich succeeded in getting its head around and seizing the man by one leg. He doubled his feet under him, and the ostrich reached over its wings and got a good hold of his back, throwing him heavily to the ground and tramping on him. It took three of us to chase the infuriated ostrich away, and we accomplished it barely in time to save the man's life. I don't believe the native Australians ride ostriches." —Washington Star.

"I wish," she said, "that this carpet was velvet."
"I don't," replied her husband unfeelingly. "I wish it was down."

Evidence of the Following Character Is What Has Proven Hobbs Sparagus Kidney Pills to Be Without a Peer as a Kidney and Rheumatic Cure.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 4, 1885.
Hobbs Remedy Company, Chicago:
Gentlemen,—For years I have been suffering from kidney complaint and acute rheumatism in their most aggravated form. The latter disease physicians say, was caused by what they claimed was an extraordinary amount of uric acid in the blood. I have tried every remedy after remedy, all of which were temporary relief. My occupation, that of a traveling salesman, was such a detriment to a cure that all the doctors I consulted said I would have to abandon it if I ever expected permanent relief.

Through the advice of one of my friends who had suffered from a like malady, I was persuaded to try Dr. Hobbs Sparagus Kidney Pills. The first dose gave me relief, and four boxes performed a remarkable and complete cure. In fact, I am, as all my acquaintances say, a new man.
I would be pleased to answer at any time communications from fellow sufferers. Very gratefully yours,
H. G. MILLER,
233 Fifth avenue.

October 20, 1885.
