Testimony in Regard to the Kindness of Farmers, Railwaymen and Others.

To the Editor of the "Advertiser": We notice in the "Advertiser" this morning a statement from a pasenger on the C. P. R. train snow-bound for about ten hours between Embro and Thamesford on Saturday last to the effect that though the cars were warm, the only thing the passengers longed for was "something to eat." We fail to comprehend how such a statement has been made, because, apart from what the buffet larder contained, Mr. McKay, a farmer living on the north side of the track, sent over before daylight a well-laden basket of provisions, with variety enough to satisfy any reasonable mortal, accompanied with tea to wash the solids down. Next came a supply of milk, with apples for dessert. Not to be outdone in generosity, Mr. Sutherland, another farmer living south of the track, soon after appeared on the scene with a hamper duplicat-ing the former consignment. Furthermore, these kind people invited the passengers over to dinner (if the block-ade were not raised ere that time), and like the Gospel feast, their supplies were without price. Your informant rightly says the cars were comfortable and the officials attentive, but we are at a loss to understand how he failed to become cognizant of all the feasting that was going on about him. We certainly feel assured that we only voice the sentiments of those on board in expressing sincere thanks to Messrs. McKay and Sutherland for their generous treatment to us during the long delay. The trainmen did their utmost under the circumstances to make everybody comfortable.

That Lactated Food is the Baby's Best Nourishment.

When mothers take the trouble to test Lactated Food they are soon con-vinced that it is far ahead of all other prepared foods as a nourisher and lifegiver for the baby. The manufacturers of Lactated Food are anxious that every mother in Can-da should give their food a trial; and, in order to have this done, they offer to send free of charge, by mail, a full-sized tin. It is earnestly hoped that all mothers who have babies and who have not yet given Lactated Food a test, will send in their names and addresses to the Wells & Richardson Co., Mountain street, Montreal.

This Lactated Food is a source of life, ealth and strength for weak and sick-babies, and the free tin offered to others may be the means of saving me little life.

KINDERGARTEN TEACHERS.

the System Getting to be Too Expensive ?- More School Accommodation Wanted.

After assembling during the year at 4:15 on Monday afternoons, No. 1 committee of the Board of Education yesterday decided to hold their meetings on Friday evenings in future. Yesterday afternoon's meeting, as is usual in the first of the year, was very well attended, there being present Trustees Sanders (chairman), Dr. J. B. Campbell, Griffin, Hunt, Logan, Jeffrey, Murphy, Wilkins, Craig, Blackwell, Secretary McElheran, Inspector Carson and Principal Merchant.

Miss Minnie Laidlaw claimed $20, the difference between her pay as a regular and a substitute teacher during the time she was acting as the latter. The committee will recommend the payment of $15. A BOOMERANG.

A letter from Miss McKenzie, super-intendent of the kindergarten, brought up the question of salaries for kindergarten directresses. Under the present system Miss McKenzie's remuneration is $500 a year, including an additional sum for supervising. This additional item grows smaller every year, as the $500 is the maximum and her salary as a directress increases $20 a year. According to the length of her services, Miss McKenzie's regular salary last year amounted to $427 50, leaving $72 50 as extra for the work of supervising. This year her salary as directress would be $447 50, leaving only $52 50 for supervising. Her letter pointed out the constantly decreasing amount for supervising as long as her salary was limited to $500. This suggested the advisability of placing a limit to her salary. Trustee Logan moved that the maximum salary of a kindergarten directress be placed at $425, the supervisor's sal-Kenzie's position as supervisor was superfluous, and that she was only a medium between Mr. Carson and the board. He therefore moved that the position of supervisor be dispensed with-Inspector Carson could supervise—and that Miss McKenzie receive the regular salary of a directress.

On the division the chairman was required to give the casting vote, which he did in favor of the amendment. The recommendation will not affect Miss McKenzie's present salary as a directress, as the salary limit was not mentioned in Dr. Campbell's motion. The whole matter will probably be vigorously threshed out at the board meeting. Several trustes expressed the opinion that the kindergarten system was getting to be very expensive.

APPLICATION FOR INCREASE RE-

FUSED. Mr. G. A. Andrus, second mathematical man at the Collegiate Institute, applied for an increase in his salary from $1,000 to $1,100. Principal Merchant recommended the increase. Mr. Griffin moved that the application be filed, and Mr. Murphy moved that the increase be Trustee Blackwell spoke of the great economy at the present time, and it was recommended that the application be not granted.

Lottle Tyrrell, a teacher at the Rectory street school, asked for the pay-ment of $15 wages deducted while she was ill. The committee favorably con-sidered the proposal and recommended

Miss McKenzie asked that the kindergarten pianos be tuned. Tenders will be called for the tuning of all the school pianos, both public and kindergarten. A number of applications for positions on the teaching staff were referred to the inspector.

A UNIFORM SPELLER. With regard to the introduction of a uniform school spelling book, a reference from the board, Mr. Jeffrey moved that a spelling book containing a list of words which do not appear in the pres-ent reader be prepared, and if the board approve of the idea the Government be asked to authorize the introduction of book along this line. The committee concurred in the board's proposal that a report be obtained from all principals of all pupils who have been placed in one grade and subsequently been placed in a lower one, with the circumstances connected with each case. A rule whereby no scholar shall be placed in a lower grade without the direction of the principal and inspector was adopted, and rules were also laid down regulating the transfer of pupils. The question of estimates was left to special meeting. MORE SCHOOL ACCOMMODATION NEEDED.

The matter of providing school accom-modation for the natural increase in population was delayed until the trustees visit the schools on Thursday after-

Inspector Carson said that with the system of building for the present, instead of the future, four new rooms a year were necessary on the average.

Trustee Griffin wanted to change the time of meeting from Monday afternoon to Friday night. Carried, and the meeting adjourned.

BLACK OUTLOOK. Mothers A $5,000,000 Deficit Staring the Country

in the Face. OTTAWA, Feb. 11.-The condition of the Dominion finances is becoming worse and worse as each monthly statement appears in the Official Gazette. The revenue up to Jan. 1 was $19,254,832, as compared with $21,414,552 for the same period last year, a decrease of $2,159,720 for 1895, the expenditure for the same period is $738,310 in excess of what it was last year, leaving a short-age at both ends and a total deficit for the seven months of nearly $3,000,000. This will mean a deficit for the current fiscal year of $5,000,000. The expenditure for January exceeded the expenditure for January, 1894, by half a million dollars. The startling announcement is made that the public debt increased during the month by $3,743,000, so that the debt is now in round figures $250,000,000. The Government paper here ascribes the increase of debt to payment of half-yearly subsidies to the provinces, but as the provincial subsidies are paid out of the consolidated fund, the explanation is worse than

IN AID OF THE POOR.

A Supervisor Thought to be Un- nteresting Lecture by Rev. S. S. Craig, of Oakville,

On the "Factors in the Determination of Wages."

The second of a series of lectures under the auspices of the Trades and Labor Council and in aid of the poor of the city was given by the Rev. S. S. Craig, of Oakville, in the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church last night. The subject was "Factors and the Determination of Wages," and was dealt with in a very masterly manner by the speaker. Rev. Mr. Stuart assisted with the opening exercises and Mr. Marks acted as chairman.

The reverend gentleman said that he was very much pleased to be able to say a few words on this all-important subject. He wished more particularly to speak to the unemployed than to their friends, who were in the majority in the audience. A large proportion of the ministers of the Gospel came from the working class, for the majority ame from farms, and farmers are the laboring class. He asked what could be a better religion than to aid those who are in need. Religion should not be talked of abstractly. If it is, it loses the true value of religion. He wanted to impress on the laboring class that whatever reverses come, they should not lose faith in God. He would like also to impress on their minds that the fault of their poverty did not lie with God, but in adverse social circumstances. God would like to do better for every individual on the earth, but he cannot owing to the circumstances. It is because we have got away from God's laws that we are suffering.

The cause of the present crisis, he said, is the geographical limitations. If this continent had been larger we could have gone on for some time yet. Again, speculators came in and bought land in the west, realizing that in the westward roll of civilization and advancement, humanity would at last came to the ocean and have to fall back again. Then these men would rent or sell their lands at excessive prices. This is what they are now doing. The number of laboring men should not, under normal conditions, affect wages. All orthodox economists tell us that wages are drawn from capital, and when capital is scarce, labor is correspondingly so. But Henry George has upset this absurd theory. If you imply that the possibilities of labor are limited, you imply that there are limitations to na-

Have we yet exhausted the soil, mines, fisheries or forest? These we cannot exhaust. When a man says that capital produces labor it is absurd, be cause labor produces capital. If a writer uses a pen you cannot say that the pen uses the writer. When we get proper economic conditions there will be abundance of capital. The argument of over-production is absurd nonsense. If the waterworks reservoir should overflow would it follow that we would be able to get no water in the city? The first factor is the price of goods. Then there naturally comes the question as to what are high and low wages. Wages are low when a man cannot get his daily bread, and high when he can provide for himself and family and lay might be high or low wages ac cording to circumstances. We can and ought to have an increase of wages without an increase in the price of goods. Any arbitrary system which increases the price of goods is a disadvantage to the workingman, but natural causes which decrease the prices are an advantage. If in Canada we want $1,000 worth of rice we pay $5,000 before it is delivered, and a workingman who would support a government with such a tariff should suffer. (Hear, hear.) There is no ethical justification for a revenue or a protective tariff.

The cost of house rent is also a large factor. Under-consumption is another great factor. Give all laboring men work and give them the full value of their labor and in a short time all the factories which are shut down will be working. The cause of this depression is the limitation of the purchasing power of the laboring man. Capitalists live on the product of other men's labors. Royalties, combines and monpolies are all against the workingman. Machinery, under present conditions, is a serious factor in the determination of wages. Capital gets machinery, and machinery, under present conditions, is a curse to labor. Another curse is the use made of the annual rental value of land. Miss Gilmour then sang "The Holy City," after which the audience broke

An Admirable Lecture by Rev. Alex. Mc Millan at the First Presbyterian Church.

A large number of Presbyterians and others learned last evening more of the struggle their forefathers had in obtaining the right to worship in the religion which they now profess than they knew before. The Rev. Alex. Mc-Millan, of Mimico, was the lecturer, and it was a treat such as is seldom met with in London. Mr. McMillan has a quiet manner and a delivery which did not fail to hold the attention of his hearers. He commenced with the beginning of the trouble. It was not a struggle of Presbyterians against Episcopalians, but Presbyterians fighting for their religious liberty. King James VII. of Scotland claimed to be head of the Church in Scotland as well as in England. The Covenanters claimed Christ as the head of the Church, and they showed on their banners, which were often in the battle, these words, For Christ's Crown and Covenant. Two books of worship were prepared for the Scotch people, and all were or dered to use these under severe penalties. The crisis came in 1637, when Dean Harly conducted service in the St. Giles Cathedral, Edinburgh, and where that the scene, the story of which we have often heard, was enacted-the old apple seller who threw her stool at the bishop and denounced him for "saying mass." In 1638 a vast concourse of Presbyterians filled the churchyard of St. Giles and favored the Scottish covenant as read by Alex. Henderson.

It was now a fight for personal liberty, spiritual life, and against the possibility of the reintroduction of Popery. Mr. McMillan stated that the Presbyterians were not ideal Christians, as was shown in the murder of Archbishop Sharp, who was brutally stabbed. But the act was looked upon with deep regret by the majority of the Covenant-

The first battle was fought when a large body of the Presbyterians were large body of the Presbyterians were worshiping in the open air, armed with all sorts and styres of weapons. A party of the Life Dragoons, under John Graham, of Claverhouse, suddenly confronted them. The Covenanters challenged the soldiers with a plalm. The fight was fierce, but soon the order was given, "Gentlemen of the Life Guards, fiee for your lives."

Scotch humor here cropped out. An old woman cried out at the retreating cav-alry, "Ye were rale anxious to come to oor morning service; will ye not like to come to our afternoon one?" Several more battles were fought with varying fortunes, but victory was not assured till the landing of William of Orange, who proclaimed religious tolerance for all.

The lecturer dwelt lightly upon the persecutions, the many martyrs who ended their lives on the Gress Market of Edinburgh, and the many more who were shot down on the moors by the common soldiery. "The persecutions will not be a dark page in our history," said Mr. McMillan, "but one of the brightest."

The lecturer then closed with a review of the old Psalms of David, and how appropriate they were to the struggles of the Covenanters.

The choir sang two or three of the Psalms to the tunes to which they used to be given, which lent a beautiful charm to the lecture. Mr. John Cameron moved a vote of thanks, and expressed an earnest wish that the lecture should be repeated in very Presbyterian church in the land. Mr. W. T. McClement, B.A., seconded, and Mr. Clark feelingly expressed the appreciation of the audience.

Dr. Price's Baking Powder is declared by all government chemical experts absolutely pure.
