County Councilor Collins, of Dundas, has some criticism of the speed displayed by a few wagonloads of Hamilton constables in getting out to the locality where they expected a cockfight, though they could not spare the time or expense for prompt action at the time of the Barton murder, which also occurred outside the city limits. Well, perhaps the cops thought they phia might be in time for the main if they hurried.

Prof. Giles, of Cambridge, an interesting gentleman who has made a profound study of the Chinese and their history, tells us, says the Chicago Post, that football in China is as old as Julius Caesar, and almost as venerable as the gentle doctrine of Tao. In fact, it was quite a chestnut when Caesar went to Britain, and long before that interesting event Chinese poets wrote football verse that was not bad as poetry goes. But Prof. Giles does not say-possibly he does not know-whether the Chinese kicked football out of poetry or eventually kicked the poetry out of football.

As a game Chinese football was a pleasant affair. The goal was thirty feet high, with an opening one foot in diameter, and the object of the sport was to kick the ball through this opening.
