Touching on the quality of the dairy product, the speaker thought that there was room for improvement, and that encouragement would be given in the future to grade up and produce a better article from the beginning, so that better cheese, better buteer, etc., would result. Upon the question of prices, the speaker said that it was only by organization that the best results could be obtained, and added that the manufacturer set his own price, but that ry much the same all through sion, and that everything had en into account before a pro-could be set. ## Plan of Co-operation.

The Provincial Advisory Committee on Unemployment considered the industrial situation and endorses the following statement of proposals:-

1.-That Manufacturers should be asked to take a price for goods on hand equal to the cost of replacement having regard to decreased cost of raw material and of labor used in manufacture.

2.-That Wholesalers should be asked to sell goods on hand at replacement prices. 3.-That Retailers should be asked to sell at replacement prices.

4.—Knowing that the costs of building at the present time have been considerably reduced, those desiring to build should be encouraged to ask for new tenders on their proposed work; and that building contractors and builders' supply people should make a special effort to reduce prices to a minimum in order to restore this important key industry.

5.-That Banks and financial institutions should be prepared to co-operate to the utmost with all productive enterprise by allowing all reasonable credits and by decreasing rates as rapidly as conditions may allow.

6.—That Farmers should be asked to maintain reasonable production, and in the event of a proportionate reduction being reached in other lines, should be prepared to make needed improvements and betterments.

7.-That Labor shall be asked to take willingly a reduction in wages proportionate to progressive decrease in cost of living, in so far as such a reduction has not already taken place.

The above statement has been submitted to and endorsed by the following interests manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers, building industries, agriculture, financial interests and the veterans

A decline from the abnormal conditions of 1920 has already taken place.

The average cost of food per week per family increased in June, 1920, to 131 per cent. over that of 1913.

Up to October of this year, the percentage of increase over 1913 was 56.

The average cost of clothing increased 160 per cent. by June, 1920, and since then it has declined to 73 per cent. over that of 1913.

You have taken a share in this reduction. You have absorbed certain losses—as many retailers have done.

In a general plan of co-operation in which every section of the community is asked to take part, will you sell your goods at replacement prices, thereby enabling the retailers to buy more of your output? Production by the manufacturers will thereby be stimulated and a condition created whereby labor will find regular employment.

> If this plan is acceptable, tell your customers what you propose to do. Win their absolute confidence now. Give them the best, closest deal you can and thus
