EXPECT NEW MARKS

The arrangements are complete for the third annual track meet of the secondary schools of the city out at the Queen's park oval Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

When the first inter-collegiate city meet was staged three years ago, it found few of the athletes trained, but now each collegiate and the technical school has been concentrating on training and the competition is getting keener each year.

This year will probably see the largest entry yet recorded for a city track meet and because it is the best indication of hat talent may be coming on in the city, is watched with more than usual interest by those interested in track athletics. The fact that four or five of the members of the Canadian Olympic team were collegiate students has given schoolboy athletics more weight.

HANDICAPPING.

The handicapping brought no loud hand-clapping from the contingent of London pedallers which entered the Dunlop road race Saturday. Western's debut was an exhibition game, but it was against a much heavier team and a team that has had much more experience individually, and it should give the Purple and White plenty of confidence for their break-away with Varsity in Toronto Saturday. Western will be out-weighed by the Newton discards, but coaching was very evident in the result at St. Thomas, and they won't be outsmarted.

The Giants are as pugnacious as ever, kicking on every decision that doesn't go their way. In the second game they mbued the quiet Senators with the idea, and after that the umpires had their troubles. When Klem called Frisch safe at home in the eightn inning, "Muddy" Ruel, the mouse-like catcher of the Senators, just jumped up and down in rage. Harris had to come all the way in from shortstop to pacify him.

The thing that has made this series so dazzling is that the Giants at last have found opponents that play the same sort of a game—the attack with a zip to it, hitting the ball out, and taking every chance on the paths. The Giants' game suits Washington. The Giants in the first two games hit into five of the Senators' famous double-plays. The Senators hit only into one. The infield play has been dazzling.

The infield may has been dazzing, just as everyone expected. Frisch doesn't play as if he had a sore finger. Harris, at second for the Senators, is just as brilliant. Lindstrom, the schoolboy substitute for Groh at hird for the Glants, is one sweet ball player.
