TWO BAY FISHERMEN RESCUED

Over Twenty-four Hours Adrift in Fishing Schooner, at Mercy of the Waves and Suffering from Exposure.

Early on Sunday morning Hon. O. T. Daniels was called upon to communicate with C. H. Harvey of the Marine and Fisheries Department to secure assistance in the search for Roy Longmire and Ernest Sarty, two Bay of Fundy fishermen, who left Digby Saturday morning in a gasoline schooner on a codfishing trip to Parkers Cove, Annapolis Co. Mr. Harvey wired St. John to have the steamer Stanley sent to search for the missing schooner, and late in the afternoon the schooner and men were rescued from their perilous situation. They were caught in the snowstorm of Saturday afternoon with a load of fish and discovered that their supply of gasoline had given out leaving them to drift aimlessly with the tide. The night was very cold and the wind blowing a gale. They decided to anchor for the night but a heavy sea carried away their anchor and left them powerless to prevent the schooner drifting seaward. They had suffered greatly from cold and exposure before they were sighted by the Stanley and taken to St. John, where they were cared for during the night and the next morning returned to their homes. Their families who were greatly alarmed for their safety were notified as soon as possible after the steamer reached St. John.

New Cancer Cure

Dr. Bainbridge's lecture at the New York Skin and Cancer hospital was illustrated by living exhibits from all over the country. Among them was a patient from Nyack, who sat among the physicians and looked healthier than most of them, and another, seventy years old, had come down from Peekskill and seen his daughter off to Bermuda just before going to the hospital. Ligation, a comparatively new method of dealing with cancer consists in shutting off the supply of blood from the seat of trouble by tying up the larger vessels with ligatures. Cancer must have nutrition to grow the surgeon explained and ligation starves it. Dr. Bainbridge told of one woman whom ten physicians had given up. At the Cancer hospital ligation was performed and in six weeks she was out automobiling driving. One of his cases was a police sergeant, who first noticed his affliction a year ago, when seized with pains in the abdomen after eating. The sergeant has gained forty pounds since the operation and is back on the force. Another man was given up as dead when admitted to the hospital, but is now fast recovering. Dr. Bainbridge described his case as the most extensive case of cancer operated on in the history of medicine. In some of the cases presented there had been no indications of a recurrence of the malady. In others the ravages of the disease had been checked and life prolonged perhaps for a period of years.

Parents Should Guard Against Possible Danger to Daughters

In the city of ~~London~~ a few weeks ago an innocent young school girl was decoyed to a man's apartment by an answer to an advertisement, choked into unconsciousness and burned alive. Information gathered by the police indicated that the man suspected of this crime has been connected with the "white slave" traffic.

Officers, working on the mystery, also found that fifteen girls in the city had been missing since January the nineteenth, and is regarded as a possibility that some, at least, of these girls may have been decoyed in a similar way, and come to a fate that is actually worse in a way than the horrible burning alive of poor Ruth Wheeler.

I don't suppose, after presenting these facts, I really need to point the moral.

It is too deadly plain. Don't let there be the slightest iota of an opportunity for your daughter to run into any such danger.

Answering advertisements of this sort is undoubtedly a dangerous business. If your daughter must seek work in that way go with her. The address may be in a respectable part of the city, but that is not sufficient. Some of the most deadly traps have the most alluring exteriors and the fairest bait.

If you live in the country and your daughter wishes to go to the city to seek her fortune, go with her and see that she is placed in a respectable boarding house and has obtained a respectable position before you go back home.

You may have a duty to your family that makes it hard to leave, but surely your duty to the bodily comfort of those at home is no more important than that you owe to your daughter's safety.

And if she wishes to go into a distant city and it is out of the question for you to go with her, do not, under any circumstances, allow her to go alone until you have made careful arrangements for her to go straight to some friend or to some organization such as The Travellers' Aid or the Young Women's Christian Association.

Write to them that she is coming. They will be glad to meet her and to send careful directions in case they should miss her.

And above all, impress the danger that lies in wait, with all the vividness you can, upon your daughter.

If you are letting your girl go out into the world, you cannot guard her and warn her too much against the possibility of getting into the clutches of such creatures.—Ruth Cameron.

Oddfellow's Anniversary

The ninety-first anniversary of the founding of the Independent Order of Oddfellows was celebrated by a religious service in Gordon Memorial Presbyterian church on Sunday afternoon last. The members of Crescent Lodge and associate lodges met at their Hall and preceded by the Bridge town Brass Band in uniform marched in parade to the church. The pulpit was occupied by Rev. G. L. McCain, of Middleton, who gave an eloquent and impressive address. He took for the subject of his address the call of Saul to be King and his reluctance, the text being "And he hid himself among the stuff." Applying his text the preacher said all men are called upon to be rulers, first of their own spirits,—the Kingdoms within. The noble and worthy acts of the brotherhood of Oddfellows gave the order a pre-eminence among their fellowmen, and elevated each member according as he lived up to the precepts of the order. Its noble tenets forbade anything unworthy or base in its members. Although not established as a religious order, in all its underlying principles, it was deeply religious, and had been called "the handmaid of religion." Music was furnished by a selected choir, under the leadership of Mr. G. H. Dixon, and Mrs. A. R. Bishop presided at the organ. The church was filled to its capacity. A delegation from Annapolis arrived by steamer, John Hancock, just before the address.

GREAT COAL STRIKE OVER

Details of Settlement Not Made Public.—Much Rejoicing Among the Miners and Their Families.

The Glace Bay staff correspondent of the Sydney Post on Thursday says:—About four o'clock this afternoon word was passed about Glace Bay that the U. M. W. officials had decided to call the strike off, and that just as soon as they felt like it, members of that organization could apply for work at the different collieries. Immediately there was a ripple of excitement discernible and little knots of miners began to congregate at the street corners to discuss the latest move on the labor board.

GOING BACK TO WORK

The writer was not an eye witness of the following incident, but has it on good authority that before five o'clock this afternoon upwards of one hundred U. M. W. men had applied for their old positions at Caledonia mine. The applicants for work were greeted kindly by the manager of that pit and told that up-to-date he had no official instructions to take on any more men, but he had no doubt if they applied at headquarters, places would be found for them. My informant also said that similar requests for work were made at nearly all the other collieries.

It is estimated that there are at present between fifteen hundred and two thousand United Mine Workers out of work, and it will take some time before they can all be suitably placed.

THE FACT IS ENOUGH

The strike is ended! that is the cry which goes ringing through the streets of the coal town tonight, and a prayer of thankfulness wells up

Important to Some Farmers

The Truro Daily News reports a new device for cleaning stump land. One man recently removed the stumps from sixteen acres of new land at a cost of four cents each and five minutes labor for each stump. His method is as follows: With a two inch auger he bores a hole down into the stump about two feet deep, and pours into this hole one pint of a mixture of equal parts of nitric acid and sulphuric acid. He plugs the hole tightly with a plug previously dipped in paraffine. Thirty days later the stump, roots and all will be a hard mass of rotten pulp, and may be spread over the soil with a shovel.

from the hearts of the people that the great labor war has ended. Particularly do the women and children join in, as on their shoulders rested the greater weight of the burden and sorrow which followed in the wake of the labor difficulty.

It is immaterial who brought the trouble to a close the fact remains that the strike has ended and therein lies cause for general rejoicing.

For nine months the great fight for supremacy has been waged and now that it has finished it is the unanimous wish that the past be buried in deepest oblivion.

WHAT A U. M. W. OFFICIAL SAYS

Discussing the situation with Mr. Hergrove he said that he considered the settlement a fair one and accepted by the locals of the U. M. W. Briefly, it stands that the strikers will be taken back and no discrimination will be made against any mine on account of the strike or because he belongs to the union. The Company will receive committees of the men and any dispute or grievance will be heard, if necessary, by the manager. The Company will not recognize the U. M. W. A. as such, and no dues will be collected by the Company for the union. The available houses will be given to the men and some equitable and perhaps generous settlement of arrears of rent will be made.

CONFIDENCE IN MR. McDOUGALL

The officials of the W. M. A. expressed the fullest confidence in the present management. For three months matters have been slowly broadening down to a point where agreeable friendly discussion of the situation was possible. Under such conditions the way appears open for the termination of the strike in a way that will not leave any root of bitterness to foster and ferment future trouble.

WHAT THE STRIKE COST

Mr. Hargrove further said: "Roughly speaking the U. M. W. have spent about $700,000 in the strike which estimate does not include many incidental outlays. The union has provided food, clothing, houses, medicine, and to a large extent, fuel for the strikers." U. M. W. OFFICIALS WILL LEAVE
The U. M. W. officials will leave next week and matters will then settle into the old routine.
