

Child as that interesting person might have described himself in his own wigwam and to his own grandchildren in the evening of his life. May many White Children read the story and learn therein of our Passing Race!

W. J. MCGEE,
Ethnologist-in-Charge,

Bureau of American Ethnology,
Washington, D. C.,
September 27, 1900.