JOURNAL as much as possible, so that all With one who may understand it. understands the subject thoroughly nature seems to have given them the understanding of putting it in their own words and of making them forget for the moment that there are some who would be totally "at sea" in reading it. Cushman does not use the Iones hive. His remark was intended to apply to any hive, but if we rightly remember he uses a shallow frame; it is probable that he took for granted that the majority of frames were shallow. number of bee-keepers in Ontario use second stories, the size of the Jones To prevent swarming they place the second story above the brood-nest. Mr. McArthur, of Toronto, takes all his surplus honey from the second story similar to that above. You seem too anxious to increase. If you double your colonies you will be doing as well as you should expect, and you will get just that much more housey by keeping them good and strong. Certainly your extracting from the brood-chamber would retard the swarming impulse, as you would thereby be giving them more room.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT.

Up to the present time the only goods on which there has been a delay in shipment are 60 pound tins. Our rush on these has been so tremendous that we entirely ran out. We have a large staff at work, however, and hope to keep none of our customers waiting much longer.

We have just received from the marfufacturers a large lot of cartons for holding the 41x41 section, something similar to the engraving. Our catalogue price at the present time is $14 per thousand, but we have purchased these at a figure that will enable us to make them $9 per thousand, $1 per hundred and 13 cents per ten. When the comb honey labels A. and B. are used on them they make a handsome package for comb honey The illustration shows you label A. None of them have tape handles, and we make the price $1 per thouand less than if they had. A 3 cent stamp will secure you a sample by return mail.

ONE POUND GLASS JARS, SCREW TOP.

We are just advised that these have been shipped from the glass works, and we expect them in a few To save breaking bulk we ap much as we can, of the pend below a table the quantities in which shipment is put up,

In estimating the price we prices per barrel. have calculated the same as for full gross lots, an allowance of 15c. being made per barrel.
