"I predict that at the close of this century we are to have three years of such prosperity as the oldest of those here present has not before witnessed."
—Mr. Edward Gurney, ex-President of the Toronto Board of Trade, Sept. 6th, 1897.

That we are on the eve of a genuine business revival, no one who is at all conversant with the condition of affairs throughout the length and breadth of Canada can deny. For some years a depression has existed not only in commercial centres but everywhere throughout the land, permeating all ranks, and making its effects felt by the man of business, the professional man and the husbandman. The financially weak have had to succumb, while even the wealthier portion of the community have suddenly found themselves in a position calling for additional capital and more extended credits. Happily these times appear now to be coming to an end, and a feeling of confidence and hopefulness pervades the community.

For Canada the prospects appear to be particularly bright. Our crops are very abundant, the farmer is receiving higher prices for the products of the farm, which prices are more than likely to be maintained, owing in some part, to the fact that other countries have not been so highly favored, and the influx of foreign capital is making itself felt, not only in the mining districts of Canada, but in all business operations.

This bright outlook is one that should and will gladden the hearts of all, and tend still further to confirm the faith of citizens in the grand future of the Dominion.

The unusual prominence which Canada has attained during the past year, by the announcement of her wonderful mineral wealth, the attaining the foremost place as the leading colony of Great Britain, and the almost universal attention given to our fiscal affairs by foreign nations as well as by the motherland, owing to the bold
