HELPLESS FOR A YEAR.
Bowed Down With Rheumatism and Sciatica.

From the Post, Sackville, N.B.

Records like the following carry conviction with them, and in a practical sense it might be said that this is still the age of miracles. Mr. Edward Downey, of Maccan, N. B., says:—"I have been a resident of Cumberland Co. some years. I have been a great sufferer for upwards of ten years with sciatic rheumatism. I was tortured with severe pains which at times would become almost unbearable, and I think I suffered almost everything a man can suffer and live. I was so crippled that I could not work and part of the time was not able to even move about. I became so weak, and my system so run down that I despaired of ever getting better. My case was a hopeless one, and as I had abandoned work I was almost helpless for over a year. I heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I was induced to at least give them a trial. In a short time I began to recover, and agonizing pains left my back and limbs, so that I was enabled to walk out of doors. Before I had used more than half a dozen boxes I was almost entirely well and could do a hard day's work. I had a good appetite and began to gain flesh and feel like a new man. I am free from aches and pains and have Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to thank for it all." The reporter could not help feeling that Mr. Downey's case was a striking one, as he now presents a stout well built figure, straight limbed and as smart in his movements as a young man of twenty.

The Reformation and the Reformers.

N. Y. Freeman's Journal.

Canon Littledale was a Ritualist and a bitter enemy of the Catholic Church. His opinions, therefore, of the Reformation and the Reformers ought to have some weight. They are given in a letter to Rev. Dr. Gatty, who criticised some of his writings. He says of the Reformation:

"I have again and again to note, with wonder, the amazing ignorance of the educated classes. The latter of Dr. Gatty is a case in point. He is evidently unaware that the view that the Reformation and the French Revolution are not merely like, but are actually successive scenes in the same historical drama, is now a commonplace in the philosophy of history. That being so, there is nothing very monstrous in finding parallels in the agents of both. If Dr. Gatty had read carefully the history of either event, he would not have been shocked. His words convince me that he is not familiar with either 1550 or 1793. It is quite possible for men to take widely differing views as to the Reformation itself in its character and results. Some may look upon it as a Pentecost. I look upon it as a flood, an act of divine vengeance, not of divine grace; a merited chastisement, not a fresh revelation."

Of the Reformers he says: "gravely assert it to be absolutely impossible for any just, educated and religious men, who have read the history of the time in genuine sources, to hold two opinions about the Reformers. They were such utterly unredeemed villains, for the most part, that the parallel I know for the way in only which half-educated people speak of them among us, is the appearance of Pontius Pilate among the saints of the Abyssinian Kalendar. Robespierre, Danton, Marat, etc., betrayed no trust, were not sharers in the particular liberties they overthrew, crouched to no tyrant, perjured themselves to no man. So far, they stand on a higher moral level than the base traitors who were—and deservedly—executed by Mary—blunder and folly as that execution was."

Of Interest to Artists.

A New and Valuable Invention for Painting on Silks, Satins, etc.

Amongst the exhibits in the fine arts department at the exhibition this week are three elegant panels and some other paintings done by Mrs. M.F. O'Connell of Kansas, and exhibited by that lady's brother-in-law, Mr. Daniel O'Connell of 68 Lusted Street in this city. This lady has invented a new process of painting on satin, silk, tapestry, glass, etc., called "Perpetua Fresco" and the exhibits are splendid samples of her work with this material. The press both of Great Britain and the United States have written in the most flattering terms of this invention which is largely patronized in the old country by ladies of the highest rank and it is used very extensively in numerous convents where it has been incorporated in the curriculum for young lady boarders. Mr. O'Connell has taken the agency for this city, and we are heartily glad to make our readers acquainted with this fact, and would especially recommend it to the heads of convents and other institutions where the art of painting is taught. We have seen a number of highly complimentary notices clipped from British journals, including high art magazines, and in all places where the invention is known it is hailed by artists as something long desired in connection especially with painting on satin, silks, and other material of that description. Those of our readers who are artists should put themselves in connection with Mr. O'Connell who will be glad to call on them and explain the peculiar properties of the "perpetua fresco" and also show them other samples of painting done by his highly gifted sister-in-law.

Three Great Irishmen.

From the London Spectator.
The most prominent and popular figures in the procession, always excepting the Queen herself, were all Irishmen—Lord Wolseley, Lord Charles Beresford and Lord Roberts. The last named, as he rode by himself in the colonial procession on his famous gray Arab—wearing the medals bestowed on it for its services in the field—met with a reception all along the route second only in enthusiasm to that bestowed on the central figure.

BUYING DRUGS

Is entirely a matter of confidence, as in no other business is sophistication easier; nor does any other avenue afford so ready a means of disposing of worthless articles. You can buy a pair of shoes for $1 or $10—it's entirely a matter of quality. There is as much difference in the quality of drugs as there is in shoes, except in purchasing one you can use your own judgment, in buying the other you are entirely dependent upon the honesty and judgment of the Druggist. In one case it is only a matter of comfort and appearance, and in the other frequently of LIFE or DEATH. You can always rely with the utmost confidence on the DRUGS and Medicines which you get at
