

TABLE B

CANADA'S EXPORTS IN 1991

*Note: Education exports refer to estimated expenditures of international students in Canada.
Source: Statistics Canada*

Canada has a great deal to offer in the international education marketplace. We have an education system at every level that is recognized internationally for its overall good—and in some cases excellent—quality and accessibility. Canada is a country identified by the United Nations as having one of the highest standards of living in the world, offering students a relatively safe and affordable environment in which to study. Canada also has the lowest tuition fees among its major competitors.

As a bilingual and multicultural nation, Canada has developed quality second-language and cross-cultural training programs that offer students unique learning opportunities and the chance to study in two major international languages.