

BALL ROOM

SUPERB Louis XVI room, seventy feet long by forty feet wide by twenty feet in height and admirably adapted for the purpose.

It is divided into bays with double fluted columns which support massive beams that span the room. In the apsidal ends there are wall decorations of large painted panels portraying classical subjects which harmonise beautifully with the tone of the room.

The floor is laid according to the latest improvements in Ball Room floor construction.

Page thirteen

