Death Came Peacefully Early Sunday Morning to the Greatest Russian Writer of Modern Times-The Countess Was With Him When the End Came.

"Every man ought to do enough work each day to pay for the food he eats and the clothes he wears. Unless he does that, he is sponging and living on the labor of other people, and is thus doing an injus-ice to his fellow men. Some days i mow, on others I sow grain, plow, dig in the garden, pick berries or apples, or, like Gladstone, fell a tree. I live simply. I make my own boots, and, if my women would let me, would also make all my own clothes. I do not have to work long hours to pay for what I con-sume, and so I find plenty of time to study and write. My only con-cern is that life may prove too hort to enable me to finish all I wish to do."

His Assailant Was Kicked and Beaten by the Crowd, and Might Have Been Killed, if He Had Not Been Rescued by Republican Guards-The Premier Not Seriously Hurt.

PARIS, Nov. 20 .- Imposing national eremonies in the Tuilleries Garden today, in connection with the dedication of a statue erected to the memory of Jules Ferry, the French statesman, were marred by an assault upon Pre-mier Briant, who, while walking with President Fallieres, was struck twice n the face by a Royalist. The premier was not seriously hurt.

The premier was not sentuary hills The vast crowd in the garden set upon the premier's assailant, and only de-termined intervention by thte Republi-can Guards saved him from being beaten to death.

The incident occurred at the end of the exercises, which were attended by thousands. President Fallieres, B. Bri-and and other ministers were walking toward the gateway, when a man broke thru the Republican Guards that lined the road, leaped to M. Briand's lined the road, leaped to M. Nationalist Leader Will, If Plans Work Out, Beard the Premier in His Own Constituency of Quebec East-Talk of New Liberal Paper for the Ancient Capital.

MONTREAL, Nov. 20.-(Special.)-The Nationalistists, at the coming federal election, will carry the war into Africa, and, if the plans now entertained by the frineds of Henri Bourassa, come to a fruition, the leader in person will oppose Sir Wilfrid Laurier in Quebec East, which, up to the present year of great happenings, has vied with Drummond and Arthabaska as being the most pronounced Liberal stronghold in the Province of Quebec. This then is the present program. Mr. Bourassa will run in two constitiencies, as he would never burn his bridges by accepting nomination in one county, with so formidable an advercounty, with so formidable an adver-sary as the prime minister, and it is also quite likely that the leader of the administration will also run for two constituencies. The latter supposition has, however, been denied in certain quarters, where the assertion is made that Laurier will stake all in his old constituency, and should Quebec East, which has never elected anything else but a Liberal since confederation, with-draw its confidence from the one-time idol of his race. Sir Wilfrid Laurier will bid adieu to public life. Not in a Hurry. Altho Bourassa is by no means in a

Not in a Hurry. Not in a Hurry. Altho Bourassa is by no means in a hurry to get back to Ottawa, if a va-cancy were to occur in the Montreal district, the pressure will be too great, and no doubt he would have to enter the federal arena, almost immediately. Supposing, for instance, there were a shuffle at Ottawa, and H. Gervais should be called to the cabinet, the pressure would be tremendous to have Mr. Bourassa run against the new min-ister in St. James, but, altho believed in by some, it is an unlooked for al-ternative. Awaiting Bourassa's return to the house of commons, it is said that an attempt will be made by the Quebec members to force another vote upon the Liberal members from this province,
