Paris, Aug. 20 .- Paris was today the scene of most serious disturbances, recalling some aspects of the Commune. In response to an appeal of the journals, Le Peuple and La Petite Republique, groups of Anarchists and Socialists gathered at 3 o'clock in the afternoon in the Place de la Republique. The police had taken precautions, and there seemed no danger of disorders. Sebastian Faure and Faberot, wellknown revolutionary Anarchists, were the ringleaders. Faure, standing on the pedestal of the statue which rises in the center of the Place de la Republique, addressed the crowd. Among other things, he said that the Anarchists should be masters of the streets. The police then interfered, and dislodged Faure and Faberot, making three arrests. The crowd at this point dispersed, but a column of demonstrators headed by Faure and Henri D'Horr, made for the Place de la Nation. The police broke through the column and a struggle for the mastery followed. Shots were fired, and M. Goullier, commisary of police, was twice stabbed with a knife. This threw the police into momentary confusion. The mob reassembled, and ran toward the Place de la Nation. The police, reinforced by a squad that had been held in reserve, made another attempt to stem the current, and fresh occurred, three constables being wounded. Faure and D'Horr jumped into a passing street car that was going to the Place de la Republique, and the car driver, on arriving there, gave a signal to the police, who immediately arrested them both, together with two other Anarchists, Joseph Ferrier and Jean Perrin. All were conveyed to the Chateau Eau Barracks. Only D'Horr was found in possession of firearms. In the meantime the Anarchist mob retraced its course to the Place de la Republique, smashing the windows of religious edifices on the way. Suddenly , either at the word of command or in obedience to impulse, the column made a loop and surged toward the Church of St. Ambrose, where the rioters smashed the windows. Proceeding thence toward the Faubourg du Temple, which they reached at the corner, Due Darboy, and Eue St. Maur-Popincourt, they formed up into a compact Hatchets were suddenly probody. duced, with long knives stolen from the counters of shops, and a concented rush was made upon the Church of St. Joseph. The aged sacristan, seeing the mob, hastily closed the outer gates, but these

FORCED WITH HATCHETS and bars of iron. The massive oaken doors were then attacked. According to the first account, the wild horde burst into the church, which instantly became a scene of pillage and sacrilege. Altars, fonts and statues were hurled to the floor and smashed; pictures were rent, candlesticks, ornaments and hosts from high altars were thrown down and trampled under foot. The crucifix above was made the target for missiles, and the figure of the Saviour was fractured in several pieces. Then, while raucous voices sang the "Carmagnol," the chairs were carried outside, piled up and set on fire in the center of the square fronting the church. When this stage was reached, the crucifix was pulled down and thrown into the flames. Suddenly a cry was raised that the statue of the Virgin had been forgotten, and the crowd returned and tore this down also Meanwhile the sacristan, who had been captured by the Anarchists, escaped and called the police and Republican Guards, who promptly arrived with Anarchist Faure Precepitates many constables. They were compelled to fall back in order to form up into line of defense, as the Anarchists ATTACKED THEM WITH KNIVES. At length the officers began to gain the mastery. A score of Anarchists took refuge in adjacent houses. Others entrenched themselves in the belfry, and fiercly defended themselves by showering missiles on the Republican Guards, but finally they were dis-lodged. Twenty Anarchists were ar-rested, taken to the police station, searched, and found to be carrying revolvers, loaded sticks and knives. When the police entered the church the Anarchists had just set fire to the pulpit. The interior of the edifice was a complete wreck. Several valuable old pictures that can never be re-placed were ruined. After the mob had been driven away, Abbe Lacour, the incumbent, collected the fragments of the sacrament, and replaced them in the ciborium. As he did so he was heard bitterly lamenting. The people living in the house nearby extinguished the bonfire.

AFFAIRS AT MIDNIGHT. Since 8 o'clock demonstrations as far as Gare De l'Est, have been repeatedly driven back by police charges, the crowd crying: "Vive l'armee," and "Vive la Republique." peatedly The police also dispersed a crowd of gamins, who were burning bundles of newspapers. About 10 o'clock disorders occurred on the Boulevard de Magenta and Boulevard de Strasbourg. Several revolver shots were fired, but nobody was injured. Two newspapers kiosks were burned, and several arrests were made in connection therewith. There is no change in the situation at the building in the Rue de Chabrol, where M. Jules Guerin and his anti-Semite companions are entrenched in a state of siege against the police, who have orders for 20,000 PEOPLE IN THE STREETS. Paris, Aug. 21—2 a.m.—Besides St. Joseph's Church two cafes were wrecked. At a late hour 20,000 people were in the Boulevard De Magenta, which runs past the end of the Rue de Chabrol. They were kept constantly moving by the Republican guards, who made a remarkable display of force. Large bodies of police were constantly operating in and around the Rue de Chabrol, and a large force was held in readiness at the nearest barracks. In the collisions between the Anarchists and Guerinites, the scuffling was serious, and three companies of the Republican guards charged the contestants, several persons being injured.

QUIET RESTORED. Paris, Aug. 21.-Up to the present hour 56 persons have been reported injured, including several policemen. No one, so far as was known, was injured by firearms. Nearly all were hurt by being crushed or trodden underfoot. A body of rioters, who had e in the courtyard of the Gare de l'Est, were expelled by the police, who made 25 arrests. Quiet has now been restored. Shortly after mid-night noisy crowds began demonstra-ting in the Rue de Chabrol, but they were soon dispersed by the police. A PRO-DREYFUS DEMONSTRA-TION. Paris, Aug. 21.-A lamentable feature of the affair is that it will be regarded as a pro-Dreyfus demonstration and react greatly to the detriment of the chances of acquittal. It is much to be feared that yesterday's scenes were due to the weakness the government has displayed over the Guerin affair. The government's toleration and desire to avoid bloodshed has been misinterpreted with the worst results. It appears that the Anarchist demonstration was decided upon at a meeting held Saturday night.

GUERIN BLOCKADED. Paris, Aug. 20.-A strict blockade has been established in the Rue de Chabrol. and the authorities have begun a regular siege of the buildings in which M. Guerin and his anti-Semitic colleagues have entrenched themselves.

FORECAST OF DREYFUS' FATE. New York, Aug. 20.-The special correspondent of the Tribune at Rennes cables as follows, under Saturday's date: "According to impressions just communicated to your correspondent, from such an excellent source as to carry with it unusual presumption of truth the sentence of Dreyfus is already decided upon. He will be found guilty of disciplinary indiscretions, for which he will be sentenced to five years' imprisonment. As he has served this term of sentence, the practical result will be that he will be set free and take his position in the army as captain en reforme without pay or emoluments, and any career in the active army will be closed to him."

Referring to the trial of Capt. Dreyfus, the London correspondent of the New York Tribune says the Dreyfus case is followed with intense interest in England, and every stage of the legal procedure at Rennes is sharply criticised and grossly misunderstood, French and English courts differ so widely in their ideas of evidence and methods of ascertaining facts and dis-criminating between what is relevant and what is immaterial, that writers in each country are always tempted to describe legal processes in the other country as illogical. The continuous speechmaking in the witness box at Rennes astonishes English critics, who are unable to understand how the procedure can be regular, when not a tithe of the evidence would be admissable in the courts here. Yet the military court is acting in full accord with the precedents and habits of mind of French civil courts. English sympathy is solidly with Capt. Dreyfus, and the gloomiest forecasts are made of the result of the trial, which has already discredited the general, as well as the headquarters staff. The commonest idea expressed here, even by reflecting men, is that Capt. Drey-fus cannot be acquitted without a revolutionary catastrophe, when the passions of the French people will have full vent. These prophets of evil forget how their forecasts of a revolution in Paris have gone begging in the last thirty years; they also fail to make full allowance for the fact that there is a strong man in the French

Even quiet-minded Englishmen, as they read their morning's news from Rennes, can find but one explanation, and it is this, that France has gone mad, as she went mad in the revolution days a hundred days ago. But, where-as, her madness then was the sequel of cruel suffering and pent-up longings for justice, liberty and equality, it is now her frenzied contempt for these very qualities that has brought her to delirium. AN ENGLISH JURIST PREDICTS ACQUITTAL.

London, Aug. 20.—Thomas Terrell, Q. C., one of the leading jurists in England, who has attended some of the sessions of the Dreyfus court martial, says: "There is an air of unreality about the whole proceedings. Dreyius glone seems in earnest. No flerce conflicts of intellect occur between counsel, as would be the case in England, and in my opinion the president of the court has already decided the question in favor of acquittal. This appears to be the case from his evident anxiety to preserve an air of complete impartiality, and though on occasions he is unable to conceal his hostility to the defense, his intention plainly is to acquit. The court martial is as fair as a special jury, sitting without legal available base where supplies can be assistance, can be. The opinions it obtained. The Associated Press correspondent then called upon Maitre Labori, who lives within 200 yards of Gen. Mercier, the houses of both being guarded by gendarmes and detectives, who sit in chairs in the roadway in front of the Maitre Labori was taking the air in the garden. He had been suffering severely from insomnia, and today was feverish and excited. The wound itself has not made the progress the doctors hoped for, although there has been no relapse. In view of his general condition his medical advisers oppose his going to court tomorrow, as he had desired. They predict that the exertion would so overtax his strength as to compel him to take to his bed, which he probably would not leave, in that event, for a month. Tuesday or Wednesday, therefore, will more probably see his reappearance in court. He will be provided with a specially-constructed chair that will enable him to conduct the cross-examination at the outset without rising from his seat. Maitre Labori is intensely anxious to return to court, even if he has to be carried there in an ambulance. He is dissatisfied with Maitre Demange's conduct of the case thus far, and on his return, he intends to have Gen. Mercier and the other generals back upon the witness stand. After reading their evidence, he is confident of his ability to crush Mercier, and he expects to use the Schneider and Panizzardi telegrams also to confound Mer-

WHEN THE TRIAL WILL END. Paris, Aug. 20.-The Liberte says that the Dreyfus trial will not finish before the middle of September.

SIR WILLIAM BUTLER. New York, Aug. 20.—The London correspondent of the New York Tribune, referring to the recall of Sir William Butler from South Africa, says: "Sir William Butler, who has been recalled from the chief military command at the Cape, has taken a greater interest in English politics than other generals have done. Born in Tipperary, he sympathized with the home rule government, was once talked of as a Nationalist candidate, and has remained a staunch Radical. Naturally his recall has been sharply criticised by partisans both in England and Ireland, but it was fully justified by the fact that he was not co-operating well with Sir Alfred Mil-Too many cooks spoil the broth in South Africa as everywhere else. ARMS FOR THE BOERS.

Hamburg (July 5) has arrived at Delagoa Bay with 2,000 cases of cartridges. New York, Aug. 20.—The London cor-respondent of the Tribune says: The only new fact in South African affairs is the stoppage of arms and ammunition by the Portuguese officials. This act is denounced at Pretoria as a breach of treaty rights and international law, but the Boers themselves will violate the convention with Engsays: Shall France be boycotted and will violate the convention with Engment to Coventry?" around the Transvaal. Cabling on the same London correspondent of the Sun says: There is considerable astonishment that Portugal, at Great Britain's instance, refused to forward the Boers munitions of war. Two versions of the affair are current. One is that the officials at Lorenzo Marquez are merely waiting for fuller information, and that when they learn the government's desire the consignment will be forwarded immediately. The other version is that the Lisbon government, at the instance of England, has ordered the Lorenzo Marquez officials to hold the supplies until further orders, England maintaining that they will endanger the peace of South Africa, and are unnecessary, as England has not threatened the independence of the Transvaal. It is cer-tain that Mr. Chamberlain will not allow President Kruger to turn the Transvaal into an arsenal, and will rather himself take the aggressive. It is evident, however, that the public at Cape Town does not regard the crisis as becoming worse. The London correspondent of the chief Cape Town paper, who has been exclusively sending the European end of the Transvaal question, including a $1,500 cable message on the night of the big commons debate, received orders this week to include the Dreyfus dispatches in his reports

According to this source of information, Sir Alfred Milner's decision was in full accord with the opinion and intention of the government, and consequently Mr. Chamberlain dispatched an ultimatum to President Kruger, through Sir Alfred Milner, based on the terms already propounded, namely, that of an irreducible minimum of five years' qualification for the franchise. The People also states that the war office is prepared to dis-patch 30,000 troops to the Cape Colony, half of them coming from India.

Mr. Schreiner, in an interview an hour prior to the writing of this dispatch, explained that the incident was five years old. cartridges, he said, were the absolute property of the Orange Free States, the relations of which with England were perfectly friendly. He said that he saw no objection to their removal.
