Dundas Street In Afternoon Proves Fine Ball Ground

Youngsters Try Experiment and Law Passes by

Tuesday afternoon, hale from Missouri.

Local citizens are, as a rule, firm in their convictions, but the scenes of yesterday on the main street have caused their opinion to swerve. It was all caused by two small boys, one of whom grasped in his hands a baseball bat, while his companion tossed a baseball to him, and he bunted the sphere down the road heedless of the traffic.

Fleiding Perfect. It was not a momentary impulse on the part of the youths, the game con-tinuing in full swing for several minutes, with the pavement as an excellent substitute for Tecumseh Park, and Ty Cobb at the bat. The bunts were field-ed perfectly with no errors recorded. However, as a motor car briskly glided witnesses expected to see a hit which would prove a home run, or the which would prove a home run, or the cue for an inquest.

Blind Justice.

Inspector Robert Birrell of the local police force, vamped his way down Dundas street at the time, glancing neither to right or left, hence the ball team escaped unnoticed and the participants unpinched. Perhaps he was afraid to stop lest he be called upon to the grame. It is said that he umpire the game. It is said that he viewed the performance from the corner of his eye, and without hesitating remembered when he was a boy himself.

M. Charlton of the Blue Bonnet taxis service declared that he narrowly escaped running his auto into one of the holes last night. As it was he struck the manhole cover, which was lying on the road and which caused his car to run into the curb. Fortunately the vehicle did not overturn.

There was a report to the effect that two men were seen to alight from an auto, remove a cover and speed away. Persons who declared that they saw these men thought that they were city inspectors and did not pay much attention to their actions.

Committee Smiles On Two Applications, Frowns On

The special grants committee of the city council, consisting of the mayor, city clerk, city treasurer and the chairmen of Nos. 1 and 2 committee, met last evening to consider claims for civic insurance by dependents of soldiers killed in action. The city, it will be remembered, instituted an insurance sinking fund from which grants of $500 were made to dependents of local soldiers not otherwise insured who were to buy direct from the mines and was compelled to deal with a jobber, which meant paying a higher price. Under these circumstances, and in view of the fact that the commission is underselling the dealers by half a dollar a ton, he thought the commission would have to do some pretty close figuring to show a profit on the venture. However, by the fact that the citizens were being benefitted and that the commission's operators probably tendered to keep prices down, he thought that the movement had justified itself.

The Challenge.

In an article entitled "Do Germs Cause Disease," which appeared in Physical Culture for May, 1919, Dr. John B. Fraser of Toronto challenged any board of health in the United States or Canada to test out the danger of typhoid, diphtheria, tuberculosis, meningtils or pneumonia germs in air, food, water or milk. He gave, what Dr. Hill took up the challenge, resulting the goods and asking them to return her money. In this way she took advantage of a loophole in the company's system, for on comparatively small orders it was not deemed worth while to check back on the books and the company merely sent her a mone order for the amount named in her left orders.

Major Baker went overseas as a corporal with the 46th Battalion from 5 Saskatoon, and Sergt. Best joined the same unit in Moose Jaw. The latter's description of the incident which resulted in Major Baker's decoration and his own, was as follows:

On the night of May 9, Major Baker, Sergt. Best and a runner went out from the Canadian lines to try to locate a machine gun which had been doing great a dumage earlier in the day. They knew only its general direction, but after proreceding for some distance the light from a flare disclosed the fact that they were almost on top of it. They stood perfectly still and were undetected by the enemy. Meanwhile they laid their plans and were ready for the next flare.

The sergeant was sent back a short distance, and the runner still farther back. Then Major Baker called out to the sergeant two bring up his men, and shout instructions to bring up the whole and surprised them, ran out with their hands and the surprised them, ran out with their hands as surprised them, ran out with their hands as surprised them, ran out with their hands and the sergeant to such and the sergeant to be some part of the conpany.
