Sir Edward Grey Declares Effects Would Demoralize -Budget Protest Meeting.

LONDON. June 23.—(C.A.P).—Sir Edward Grey, speaking at the National Edward Grey, speaking at the National Liberal Club in reference to tariff reform as an alternative to the budget, said the former would be ruin to the country industrially and imperially. He saw something of the proceedings of the last imperial conference, and he could imagine nothing more unfor-tunate than that the imperial govern-ment should establish for itself—as under the colonial preference it must do-the claim to say to the dominions what duties they were to impose under their own fiscal systems. Sir Edward added that at no time had there been greater harmony, confidence and sympathy between the overseas and the home government than at present.
Supporting the letter protesting against the provisions of the budget signed by nearly forty London bankers and merchants and sent to Premier and merchants and sent to Premier and present to premier a great a great a great a great and sent to premier and premie Asquith May 14, there was a great meeting in the city this afternoon, at which it was resolved that the "Main proposals of the budget weaken security in all private property, discourage enterprise and thrift, and would prove seriously injurious to the commerce and industry of the country."

The gathering, which numbered nearly 1000 persons, was thoroly representative of all phases of city life. It was also wholly non-political, and many of the most prominent men present Lord Rothschild presided. He said
