FEDERAL EMPLOYEES INVESTIGATING CRIMINAL ACTIVITIES

Question No. 2,165—Mr. Stevens:

As of December 31 (a) 1968 (b) 1976, what was the number of federal employees engaged in investigating criminal activities?

Mr. Ralph E. Goodale (Parliamentary Secretary to President of the Privy Council): In so far as the Department of National Health and Welfare is concerned: (a) During the course of their duties, some 215 employees were involved in investigating violations of the Food and Drugs Act and the Narcotic Control Act. (b) Approximately 350 employees were involved in investigating violations of those acts mentioned in part (a) as well as violations of the Radiation Emitting Devices Act.

In so far as the Department of National Revenue is concerned: (a) General records disposal schedules of the government of Canada require that records be retained for a five-year period only. Therefore, information is not available. (b) 634.

In so far as the Royal Canadian Mounted Police is concerned: (a) 5,341; (b) 8,787.

FEDERAL INSPECTION OF MEAT

Question No. 2,167—Mr. Stevens:

As of December 31 (a) 1968 (b) 1976, what was the number of federal employees engaged in the inspection of meat and poultry for purity?

Mr. Ralph E. Goodale (Parliamentary Secretary to President of the Privy Council): In so far as Agriculture Canada is concerned: (a) 970; (b) 1,381.

In so far as Health and Welfare Canada is concerned: in 1968, the Health Protection Branch (then the Food and Drug Directorate) employed approximately 150 inspectors. By December 31, 1976, the figure had risen to approximately 225. These inspectors undertake activities related to food, drug, cosmetics, medical devices and radiation emitting devices. Slightly more than half of these inspectors spend their time on food safety matters. The inspection organization is involved in a wide variety of food commodities, including meat and poultry, fruits and vegetables, dairy products and beverages. The main responsibility for meat inspection in Canada lies with the
