THE REV. HUNTER BOYD TALKS ON BRITISH AFFAIRS

(Montreal Witness)
The Rev. Hunter Boyd, of Wawoo, Charlotte Co. N. B., arrived in Montreal yesterday by the R. M. S. Victoria, after a three months' trip through Great Britain. He called at the Witness office and had much of interest to tell regarding the great changes which that country had undergone since his last visit four years ago.

Mr. Boyd is an agriculturist of considerable experience and in his journey through England and Scotland he took occasion to note the increasingly progressive spirit among the farmers. The various agricultural colleges, and especially Wye College, which came under his observation, are being more largely attended than at any other stage of their history, while many of the farms were particularly notable for their beautiful and splendidly arranged exhibits.

In his travels Mr. Boyd paid a visit to the extensive nurseries of the Drummonds, at Stirling, and studied the methods and processes by which forests are raised from the seedling. He also visited what is known as the Sir Walter Scott distillery.

From his study of the tariff question, and especially his observations on this trip, Mr. Boyd does not believe that the protection of any kind will ever effect closer relations between Canada and the mother land. It is his opinion that both the Canadian farmer and the manufacturer should strive after the production of such a perfect commodity, that it could compete successfully in any market on its own merits without being given a preference.

Imperialism was unlikely to receive any lasting impetus from new sentiment; in this material age modernized sentiment was against it. A cheaper rate of postage between Canada and Great Britain, the removal of protective tariffs, as far as possible, and the frequent interchange of professors and students would, in Mr. Boyd's opinion accomplish greater things in binding Canada and the mother country more closely together.

London had made many progressive strides since Mr. Boyd's former visit. Thoroughfares had been widened, and the trolley system of railways, with their cheaper fares, introduced. The increasing noise in the city, however, and the great nervous excitement, and it seemed unlikely that some practical steps would be taken with a view to lessening the noise. The problem of the poor continued to occupy no small share of the attention of the people, all of whom regarded the prospect of winter with considerable apprehension. To this problem John Burns, M. P., and his associates were addressing themselves with great enthusiasm, and in many cases had already afforded temporary relief.

This year above all others, British cabinet ministers were spending their vacations not in pleasure alone but in investigation of those problems which attracted the greater part of their attention in the Commons. Percy Ashken, M. P., and other members, during their vacation, made a study of conditions in Ireland; Mr. Haldane, M. P., took a trip to Germany for the avowed purpose of learning all he could concerning the Kaiser's army, while other members followed up problems concerning the situation in a similar manner.

Mr. Boyd visited the House of Commons, when the great debate on the education bill was in progress, and listened to the speech of Augustine Birrell. The question, he believes, occupies a peculiar position. Since the house had concluded its session of the British Church and the Non-Conformists, he believes that the Non-Conformists have taught the colonial spirit, and that whatever the outcome may be the discussion will have a highly educative effect.

With respect to the Chamberlain scheme it was having a remarkably stirring effect on the minds of all the people. In many places Mr. Boyd found it to be gaining ground, but he was especially struck by the fact that the people were deeply interested in the new Macdonald College at St. Anne de Bellevue, and expected that it would prove a landmark in the history of the province.

A noticeable feature in the Old Country this summer was the unusually large number of colonial preachers. They could be found in almost every pulpit, and the greatest utility to Canada. One of the largest audiences that he had ever witnessed was listening with absorbing interest to a body of journalists, Miss Marvotte, lecturing on Canada and its possibilities. The Britishers consider that the Canadian people have a great deal to learn from the progressiveness. Everywhere he went the people were interested in the progressiveness of Canada, and on many occasions he was besieged with enquiries.

DR. R. C. WELDON OPPOSES FIELDING

Conservatives Declare by Resolution in Favor of a Clean Campaign.

Halifax, Oct. 12.—A Conservative convention in Shelburne-Queens today unanimously decided to contest the bye-election and Dr. R. C. Weldon, K. C., dean of the Dalhousie College Law School, Halifax, was selected as candidate to oppose Hon. W. S. Fielding. Dr. Weldon was sent for and accepted the nomination.

The following resolution of thanks was tendered to J. J. Ritchie, K. C.: "Resolved, that the thanks of this convention be extended to J. J. Ritchie, K. C., for his splendid services to the party in this constituency, both as a candidate and as a member of the executive committee, and as counsel in exposing the corrupt methods by which the election was won from us in 1904."

The convention decided that so far as the liberal conservative party was concerned this election would be run on perfectly clean methods, and the following resolution was adopted: "Resolved, that the liberal conservative party of Shelburne-Queens in convention assembled, does hereby place itself on record as unshakably opposed to the use of corrupt practices in elections and pledges itself in the ensuing election in this constituency to a strict observance of the provisions of the election law."

BUSY SEASON FOR THE MILLS
A Number of Them May Run All Winter --- Large Cut of Logs.

The quantity of lumber rafted on the St. John river near Fredericton this year will be greatly in excess of that of previous years. It is estimated that over 1,000,000 feet of lumber will be gathered together. The rafting operations at the Mitchell boom will be completed the latter part of this month.

All the St. John mills have been kept busy this season and the market has been very favorable. The millmen expect to keep their plants running as long as possible this winter, and some of them will likely operate all winter, while others will keep at it as long as they conveniently can and then shut down and resume in the early spring.

A considerable quantity of lumber is being made up into cribs, so as to be available for the mills after the ice has souled up the river.

Stetson & Outler's Pleasant Point mill will likely be operated all winter as usual and it is thought that John E. Moore's and Miller Bros' mills may also be run all through the winter season. This would no doubt be welcome news to the hands employed in the several big establishments, as it would mean steady work for the whole year.

It is as yet too early to figure on the probable cost this winter, but it is thought that it will be fully as large as last season and another big year is looked for in 1907. The rafting water in the river is expected to bring out quite a number of logs that it was thought a while back would be held up until next year.

WANTS $10,000 FROM HOSPITAL
Mrs. Annie McCrackin, widow of Harry McCrackin, the typhoid fever patient who leaped from a window in the General Public Hospital, and whose death resulted from an attack of typhoid fever, is asking $10,000 from the hospital commissioners for her husband's death, which, it is alleged, was due to negligence on the part of the attendants of the hospital, by their failure to prevent his leaping through the window.

The coroner's jury found a verdict of death from typhoid fever and other causes. Also, that due precaution was not taken to keep the patient from leaving the room, and that being in a critical condition he should have had a special nurse in constant attendance on him.

Hon. H. A. McKewen is acting for Mrs. McCrackin.

PORT NATIONALIZATION
The financial side of the question of the nationalization of the port was considered last night in the city hall, when a joint committee, consisting of representatives appointed by the common council and the council of the board of trade held a preliminary meeting.

W. H. Thorne, assistant secretary of the board of trade, and Ald. Baxter and Bullock, with the chamberlain, represented the common council.

The city's representatives are commissioned to prepare data on the values of the present harbor properties owned by the city, the estimated expenditure on improvements requisite during the coming decade and the sum spent on the port during the past few years.

The board of trade committee will consider the improvements to the harbor, such as wharf extension and harbor improvement.

It is expected that the committee will meet several times before a report is submitted to the city fathers.

Methodist Notes
Rev. H. D. Marr, pastor of Carleton Methodist church, has notified Alderman Bullock of his acceptance of the call to Queen square church. Mr. Marr has been stationed at Carleton for three years.

Rev. G. M. Campbell will remain pastor of Queen square church till conference meets in June.

On March 1, he will take up the duties of directing the Bible Society work for the district covered by his appointment, but at the same time he will carry along his church duties.

Knights of Columbus
The members of the St. John Council of the Knights of Columbus, who went to Charlottetown last Wednesday to confer degrees, returned home last night. State Deputy Mahoney expressed himself as particularly well pleased with the large attendance from Halifax. The important feature of the gathering was the appointment of Joseph F. Gallagher, of Charlottetown, as district deputy for P. E. Island, and J. P. Hayden, of Halifax, as district deputy for Nova Scotia.

John D. Purdy, who went to England with his daughter, arrived home yesterday. He came by the C. P. R. steamer Empress of Britain to Rimouski.
