

DAIL ADOPTS CONSTITUTION OF FREE STATE

Described as Monument to Collins and Griffiths.

Makes the Irish Free State Member of British Commonwealth of Nations—Absolute Religious Freedom—Bill was Unanimously Adopted.

(Canadian Press Cable)

Dublin, Oct. 26. — The new Irish constitution passed its third and last reading in the Dail Eireann yesterday. Deputy John Milroy described the document as the greatest triumph for Ireland since the battle of Kinsale. It was a monument, he added, to the two great men who had passed away (Michael Collins and Arthur Griffiths), whose names would be blessed by future generations of Irishmen. Mr. Milroy said he did not wish to suggest that the British government would jeopardise a bill won with so much labor and sacrifice, but that the Dail must look beyond the bill to their fellow countrymen in Northeastern Ireland as the next great step that would have to be considered. He hoped the Anglo-Irish treaty and the constitution would bring the northeasterners to realize that their interests were those of Tipperary, Cork and Dublin.

To these people, he said, a message of good-will and reconciliation should go out from the National Assembly. Numerous other deputies spoke, several of them in Gaelic. All of them supported the motion of Kevin O'Higgins, minister of home affairs, for the passage of the third reading of the bill. After some verbal amendments to the bill the motion of passage was carried.

The constitution in its final form is substantially the same as originally framed, in accordance with the treaty negotiated between the Irish delegates, headed by Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins, and the British Cabinet members headed by Premier Lloyd George. The treaty provided for a Constitution, and this was later drawn up in Dublin and given Cabinet approval in London.

A few minor amendments were made in the course of the discussion of the Constitution by the Irish Parliament, but all the essential features of the original pact remain, and particularly the creation of Ireland as the "Irish Free State," its establishment as a member of the British Commonwealth, with its own Parliament and Executive organization; and with the oath of allegiance to the King, which still preserves the tie with the British Commonwealth.

The constitution has not yet received the final sanction of the British Parliament, but as the Irish treaty, on which the constitution is based, was favorably acted upon by the British Parliament, the ratification of the constitution has been looked upon as a formality.

"Within the last week, however, a certain element of uncertainty has entered into the situation because of the fall of the Lloyd George government, which negotiated the treaty, and the fact that a new parliament is to be chosen. Leaders of the new British government, however, have expressed themselves as favorable to the ratification of the constitution by the new parliament, which is expected to be elected and brought into session in time to pass the ratifying act before December 6, when the year's time limit fixed by the Anglo-Irish treaty for completing the legislation under it expires."

The action of the Irish Parliament is final, so that the document is now effective except for the British Parliament's re-affirming with greater formality the favorable action already taken on the treaty.

The document grants political and religious freedom in Ireland, and under it no law favoring any cult may be passed. Opinion and the right of association are untrammelled and untrammelled. There are two elective houses, and all citizens of both sexes enjoy the freedom.

SCHOONER FOR GASPE ARRIVES AT BARBADOS
The four-masted schooner A. Tower arrived at the Barbados safely on Tuesday, thus relieving the fears for her safety, which had been entertained, according to a cablegram received yesterday by her agent, J. Willard Smith. The schooner left New York on September 15 for Gaspe (P. Q.) in ballast, to load a cargo of lumber for New York. It was feared that she had met with disaster. The message yesterday said the vessel had been blown away off her course and had suffered considerable damage to her masts and sails, but it added that she was otherwise intact. The schooner, which is well known in this port, is 625 tons net register and is commanded by Captain John Pratt.

VALCARTIER CHAPTER BRIDGE
The first large bridge of the season was held last night in the G. W. V. A. rooms by Valcartier chapter, I. O. D. E. The bridge is an annual affair with the chapter and this year was even better patronized than formerly, the demand for tickets being greater than the accommodation although there were forty-five tables.

The decorations were in Halloween colors and were very attractive. Large pumpkins were the tea table's central ornament and yellow candles were effectively used. Miss Barbara Jack, the second vice-regent, received the guests. Mrs. Campbell Mackay was the convener for the tea and the bridge committee conveners were Mrs. Leslie Peters and Mrs. Arthur Carter.

The prize winners were as follows: First, Mrs. D. W. Harper; second, Mrs. Malcolm Mackay, Jr.; third, Mrs. McGuire; and fourth, Mrs. T. N. Vincent. The prizes were presented by Mrs. D. L. McLaren. A sale of candy helped augment the proceeds and was in charge of Mrs. H. O. Evans.

IT HAS TO PASS Our Baker First
EVERY "milling" of Quaker Flour must satisfy our baker before it leaves the mills. The wheat is analyzed by our chemists for protein, gluten and ash; the perfect grains are selected and cleaned. The product is tested at every stage of milling. A perfect flour is the result.

But the supreme test takes place in our own bakery. Every day's "milling" of Quaker Flour must receive the O. K. of our expert baker. It must produce bread perfect in size, flavour, colour and texture, before it can leave the mill. Nothing is left to chance in producing Quaker. You will make far better bread and cake with

A simple change in her food made her "look and feel like a different person"

From the borderland of a nervous collapse she found, like thousands of others, that the road back to the joy of real health lay in proper diet and not in drugs.

Health is normal, not exceptional. Failing strength and energy mean just this: something is hindering the body from performing its two vital functions: (1) Building up the worn-down tissues from day to day; (2) Removing daily the poisonous waste.

The fresh, living cells of Fleischmann's Yeast contain a natural food—with the very elements which help the body perform these two vital functions.

Like any other plant or vegetable, yeast produces the best results when fresh and "green"—not dried or "killed." Fleischmann's Yeast is the highest grade living yeast—always fresh. It is not a medicine, it is a natural food. It helps to "tone" up the whole system and assures regular daily elimination. Results cannot be expected unless it is eaten regularly.

Everywhere physicians and hospitals are prescribing Fleischmann's Yeast to correct constipation, skin disorders and to restore appetite and digestion.

"It was all I could do to get through the day, and then—"

"I was secretary to a very busy executive, and it was all I could do to get through the day. I was many pounds underweight and a blood-test showed a seriously anaemic condition. Worst of all, I suffered from an obstinate skin trouble which I couldn't seem to cure. I began eating three cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast every day. That was over a year ago. Today I have regained my normal weight—my complexion has cleared beautifully—and I look and feel like a different person."

Eat it regularly—plain, or spread on crackers, or mixed with water or milk—two or three cakes a day. If you prefer, get six cakes at a time. They will keep in a cool, dry place for two or three days. Begin at once to know what real health means! Be sure you get Fleischmann's Yeast. All grocers have it.
