LORD MAYOR OF CORK SUFFERS GREATLY NOW
Intense Pain About Heart, Says Chaplain
London Newspaper Publishes Rumor of Further Armed Outbreaks Planned for the Closing Days of This Month.

London, Sept. 7.—Terence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, who has been on a hunger strike since August 12 and for several days has been in a critical condition in Brixton prison, was reported appreciably weaker this morning, but conscious and able to speak. Father Dominick, his private chaplain, said the prisoner was suffering intense pain in the left side of his abdomen and heart.

Dublin, Sept. 7.—A band of men disguised as soldiers descended today upon the town of Belleek, County Fermanagh, in motor cars, gained entrance to the police barracks, held up the police with revolvers, locked them in an out-house, captured all their arms and burned the barracks. Several of the police were attending church services at the time and a detachment of the raiders fastened the chapel doors, locking in the congregation so as to prevent assistance from that source.

Cork, Sept. 6.—The deputy lord mayor of Cork today authorized the statement that the eleven hunger strikers in the Cork jail, who are on the 20th day of their abstinence from food had expressed the wish that they be paid no more visits by the prison doctor. They declared they desired to be allowed to die in peace.

Dublin, Sept. 7.—The acting medical officer at Cork prison, it is officially announced, received yesterday a letter signed "One of the First Brigade of the Irish Republican Army," ordering him to leave the jail, forthwith and the country within twenty-four hours as his professional attendance on the hunger strikers "gives a tinge of legality to the slow and deliberate murder of innocent civilians. The escort, however, drove off the assaultants, two of whom were killed and three wounded. The military suffered no casualties.

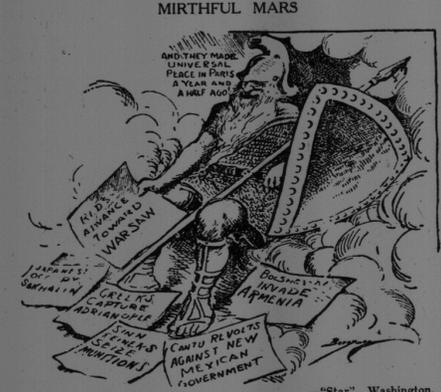

London, Sept. 7.—Miss Annie MacSwiney, sister of the lord mayor of Cork, has addressed the following telegram to Bonar Law, government leader, who on Sunday announced that the government would not release the Irish prisoner: "Your letter reiterating that my brother is to die in an inhuman, to freedom, truth and every democratic principle. Eighty per cent of the Irish people have asserted their right to the freedom of Poland and Czechoslovakia. Do you call the Poles rebels because they are determined to be free? Why then do you call the Irish rebels because they desire likewise? You and the people that elected you are causing the death of Terence MacSwiney and his comrades because they have a belief in and will die for the ideals you pretend you fought for."

More Troubles.
London, Sept. 7.—The Daily Mail says it learns that new activity has been noted among certain organized units of the Sinn Fein republican army. It is believed in official circles, the news adds, that a new series of armed outbreaks has been planned and that it is considered likely these will begin on or about September 25.

As Hiram Sees It PUTS END TO RING CAREER OF BROUSSEAU

How French Pugilist Was Beaten by Bloomfield

Montreal, Sept. 7.—With the initial appearance in Montreal of Corp. Jack Bloomfield, an English fighter now making his home in the United States, came the passing of "Game" Eugene Brousseau. The termination of Brousseau's championship aspirations came in the seventh round of a scheduled ten-round bout, the feature of the Royal Sporting Club's programme at Monument National last night, when Bloomfield scored a technical knock-out over the French fighter.

Brousseau's second threw the sponge into the ring, conceding victory to the newcomer in the middleweight class. Never has a greater surprise been furnished to the local fight fans than last night when Bloomfield, an unknown to the first two rounds and had him in an almost helpless condition at the expiration of the second three minutes of fighting.

Bloomfield never left any doubt as to the outcome after he landed a right cross in the opening stages of the first session, which staggered Brousseau and put him in a condition from which he never recovered. At the expiration of each round Brousseau went staggering to his corner, but always returned when the gong sounded willing to swap punches, until he was gradually worn down and soundly beaten.

Brousseau lacked the snap and dash shown by him in bouts previous to the meeting with George Chip in a memorable bout in Portland, Me., which marked the decline of his fighting career. Brousseau in that bout was injured and he never recovered from the injury so far as fighting is concerned.

While Bloomfield showed fast footwork and avoided clinches, Brousseau was slow and sought frequent clinches, as if to save himself from punishment. Bloomfield was always the aggressor and easily broke down Brousseau's guard and right crosses that brought about the finish.

MR. GUTHRIE ON WAY TO ENGLAND

As Hiram Sees It

"Hiram" said the Times reported to Mr. Hiram Hornbeam, with the fine judicial air of one balancing in mind a matter of importance, "which, in your opinion, produces the best pork—a hedge-hog or a guinea-pig?"

Hiram eyed his questioner for some moments before venturing a reply. "I guess," he said at last, "you been listenin' to some of them town farmers down to the live stock show at the exhibition—haint you?"

"Oh, no," said the reporter. "I have been thinking about it for some time you know I have a notion of taking up farming myself. I really think I could make a success of it."

"We've had a procession of fellers like you out to the Settlement," said Hiram. "Maybe they didn't expect to get pork out o' hedge-hogs or guinea-pigs but they had some fool notion—like the feller that said we didn't get a big enough crop of potatoes because we didn't plant the seed deep enough. He put his'n in so deep they never come up unless it was in China—on the other side o' the earth."

"Dear me," said the reporter. "Yes, sir," said Hiram. "We're Rubes an' we're haysed an' hicks till the other feller takes our job an' then the show's on the other foot. I wouldn't order no pork bars for them hedge-hogs yit a while if I was you. Ain't ever tried to raise none—hey you?"

"No," admitted the reporter, "but it ought to be easy. They live on roots, don't they?"

Hiram again eyed the reporter as if he sensed a joke. "No sir," he said at length, "the hog that roots for a livin' is the major cross in the opening stages of the first session, which staggered Brousseau and put him in a condition from which he never recovered. At the expiration of each round Brousseau went staggering to his corner, but always returned when the gong sounded willing to swap punches, until he was gradually worn down and soundly beaten."
