THE LOST OCCASION

Farwell, fair day and fading light! The day-burn, here, with westward sight Marks the huge sun now downward seat, Farwell we twin shall meet no more.

Farwell, I watch with bursting sigh, My late contented occasion die, I linger useless in my tent, Farwell, fair day, so foully spent!

Farwell, fair day, if any God At all consider this poor clod, He who the fair occasion sent Prepared and placed the impediment.

Let him divine vengeance take; Give me to sleep, give me to wake; Girded and shod, and bid me play The hero of the coming day!

—Robert Louis Stevenson.

IN LIGHTER VEIN

STRANGE. Strange is our speech Beyond shadow of doubt, We say man's all in all When his money gives out. —Detroit Free Press.

PICTURES NOT NEEDED.

The Bible and a bank book are the only volumes that don't need illustrations to add to their value.

IN HIS CASE, TOO.

She—So you're a married man, baron—and how long since? He—Oh, if a man's married at all, it's always been a long time!—Flegende Blätter.

TAKING CARE OF IT.

"Now remember, Lady, that was a great glass eye you've got. Always take it out and put it in your pocket when you ain't looking at nothings."—The Tatler.

THE PRESENT STYLE.

Mary had a little skirt Tied tight to her body, And everywhere that Mary went She simply couldn't go. —Harper's Bazaar.

AN INSULTED ALDERMAN.

Contractor—Did you offer that alderman $500 as a bribe to get the job? Secretary—Yes, sir. "How did he act?" "He was disgusted." "What did he say?" "He said I ought to be in the penitentiary." "What did he do?" "He took the money."—Tit-Bits.

SEPTEMBER MOON.

September's moon is looking down On all the lovely sights in town, On all the merry-makers and the gay, Beneath her silken in the sky.

September's moon on silver feet Is dancing with the dreams that meet On ripples of the tides that rise, So bosomful unto the skies.

September's moon—ah, lady mine, A veil of mystic dream is thine, And fairy weavers of the loom Have spun a sapphire web for you! —Baltimore Sun.

HE WAS LIKEWISE EXCUSED.

In a southern county of Missouri years ago, when the form of questioning was different from now, much trouble was experienced in getting a jury in a trial for killing.

Finally an old fellow answered every question satisfactorily; he had no prejudices, was not opposed to capital punishment, and was generally considered a valuable find. Then the prosecutor said solemnly:

"Judge, look upon the prisoner, prisoner, look upon the juror."

The old man adjusted his spectacles and peered at the prisoner for a full half minute. Then turning to the court he said:

"Judge, damned if I don't believe he's guilty!"—Kansas City Star.

REPORTED SIGNS OF DISCONTENT IN UNIONIST PARTY

New York, Sept. 27.—The Tribune's London correspondent reports that discontent is numerous on the Unionist side. A. J. Balfour is sharply criticised for disaffection regarding the tariff question and for aloofness and lack of sympathetic leadership.

There is a revival of croaking over the control of the fortunes of the great party by the Liberals and a few other families. Sir Alexander Hood is discredited when as a whip he apparently has the signal for a fight.

Austen Chamberlain is reproached by the organ of progressive Toryism for supporting judgment against the political levies of trade unions without advocating an alternative policy of payment of the members of parliament by the Treasury.

The ardent tariff reformers complain that the vital party issue has been allowed to drop out of sight and that there is no exciting spirit among the leaders.

While the veto conference has not been officially declared moribund, its final collapse is expected by members of parliament in both parties. Liberals like Mr. MacNair expect a general election in the middle of January, and are confident that a coalition will carry the country.

While the Unionists are complacently assuming that time is on their side, and that the elections will be deferred until the coronation brings in a carnival of good feeling in the country, the Liberals are clamoring for an early contest, in which the number of Labor candidates will be restricted by lack of money and Mr. O'Brien's Nationalists will be overwhelmed in Ireland by John Redmond's new campaign fund.

Mr. Long's decision to bring the bulk of his Whiltshire estates into the market in consequence of the treasury levies does not disconcert them. They accept it as voluntary evidence from a political adversary that Mr. Lloyd George is succeeding already in breaking up the large estates and providing land for tenants and small farmers. If the Tory landholders follow Mr. Long's example, there will be a revolution in the conditions of land tenure in Great Britain as well as in Ireland.

On account of the difference in the force of gravity on the different planets a man weighing 140 pounds on the earth would weigh but 83 pounds on Mars, 114 pounds on Venus, 119 pounds on Mercury, 123 pounds on Neptune, 127 pounds on Uranus, while on Saturn the same man would weigh 165 pounds, on Jupiter 371 pounds and on the sun nearly two tons, or 3871 pounds. On the moon he would weigh but 23 pounds.
