In all cases of Debility; whether arising from illness, fatigue, or other causes, they prove eminently serviceable and afford invaluable benefit; and, being devoid of all spirituous and other injurious stimulants, may be given with happiest effects to young children, correcting in them the tendency to the generation of worms, and other Bowel complaints.

FOR FEMALES these Bitters are peculiarly suitable, giving tone and vigor to the system, and imparting new strength to the frame, which protracted nursing or other exhausting causes may have impaired.

They have been extensively and successfully used by the Medical Faculty, many of whose most distinguished members in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, the United States elsewhere, have given ample testimony in their favor.

These Bitters produce a feeling of buoyancy, removing depression or melancholy, and hence are of great value in the treatment of Mental and Nervous affection. They produce a healthy flow of the secretions, and should be used by all who suffer from

DEPRESSION OF SPIRITS, NERVOUSNESS, SLEEPLESSNESS. LOSS OF APPETITE,

And all kindred complaints.

Everybody knows that Sharp's Balsam of Horehound and Aniseseed is the best cough medicine ever offered to the public.

FOREST FIRES IN OREGON

CINDERS AND BURNING BRAND ARE FALLING IN SHOWERS.

The Northwest Country Burning up Some of the Fires Set by Tramps.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

PORTLAND, Ore., August 14.—The atmosphere for miles around is thick with smoke and cinders and burning brands are falling in showers. All the northwest country seems to be burning up in forest fires. It is estimated that the total damage by forest fires in the north west this year will amount to $500,000. Fires are burning all along the railroad lines and rivers, and at night illuminate the hills and mountains.

The flames swooped down yesterday on the settlement of Cedar mills and left the country barren.

An extensive fire is raging in Southern Oregon and a number of houses and barns have been burned. Some of the fires are the work of tramps.

ENGLAND'S FRIENDSHIP.

Bismarck Will Not Hazard Germany's Present Good Relations with England.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

BERLIN, Aug 14.—The North German Gazette (Bismarck's organ,) referring to the impending meeting of the German Colonial Company says that angry protests against the action of the British officials are politically undesirable.

England, the Gazette says, will eventually set matters right. If Germany had been consulted she might have pointed out eighty objections against the German Emin Relief Expedition.

Germany would regret the expedition adopting political aims or encroaching on British spheres or interests. England's friendship is of more value to Germany than all the expedition could obtain on the Upper Nile. If Dr. Peters intends forcibly or jointly with Emin Pasha to seize the province, secured to Turkey and Egypt by treaties the enterprise will fall under the operation of the laws of the countries whose interests are prejudiced.

On tomorrow night which will be the closing night of the season and the benefit of Mr. & Mrs. McDowell, there will be a double bill, the two plays being "Uncle's Will" and "Engaged". The former is a particularly bright funny piece and is played by Mr. and Mrs. McDowell. A feature of Engaged will be the playing of Belvawny by Mr. G M Cleveland. Souvenirs will be given again tonight and tomorrow night as well and the occasion being the farewell performance of the company, apart from the merits of the bill, will undoubtedly secure a bumper house in parting.

After marching past and other movements had been gone through detachments from the several companies were sent to the guns, and the firing and manual exercises were carried out.

JOHN L. AS A DEFENDANT.

THE PRIZE-FIGHTER'S TRIAL BEGINS AT PURVIS, MISS.

Judge Terrell Presides and Makes a Long Argument to the Jury Covering the Points of the Case—Public Opinion Wants to See Sullivan Fined, but not Imprisoned.

PURVIS, Miss., Aug 12.—The court called to try John L Sullivan convened here this morning, with Judge S. H. Terrell presiding and Jas. H. Neville as district attorney. The court charged the grand jury in substance that he entertained the suggestion for this special term with some hesitation and doubt on account of the long circuit before him, but public sentiment in the county seemed to demand and expect it, and he yielded thereto. Since he had given in court here a full charge concerning the various offences indictable under the laws of the state, he would now omit their separate mention, reminding the jury, however, that if any of them had been violated it was their duty to bring the offenders to justice. He said that little need be said of the prize-fight. If such took place the principals and all accessories, before and after the fight, are guilty of a misdemeanor. Such a misdemeanor is not mentioned on the statute laws, but is punishable by common law, which is declared to be the noblest birthright and the best heritage of mankind.

He continued thus: "And I so declare to you that you are bound by your conscience to act upon the law declared to you from this stand. Anger or ill will is not necessary to constitute the crime of assault and battery, nor does the consent of the party take away the guilt of the offence. A battery is any unlawful physical force inflicted, injury or hurt upon another, whether done in malice or wantonness. It need not be in anger." He then gave special incidents as to what constitutes said offence and said: "The infliction of any corporal hurt, unless by accident or misadventure, is an assault and battery. No one is justified in striking another except in self-defence, and it ought to be known that, whenever two persons go out to strike each other and do so is guilty of an assault. Such is the law where no reward or prize is staked. Where a prize was fought for, the crime was more pronounced. That parties fighting with fists at a prize-fight by consent, without ill will, are guilty of assault has been ruled by authority. Thus stood the law in Mississippi previous to 1882, and by that law the violators were liable to be fined $500 and to be imprisoned six months. In 1882, however, after Sullivan and Ryan fought at Mississippi City, the Legislature then in session passed a special statute enlarging the penalties for crime." After calling [illegible] "Gentlemen, a principal [illegible] is, he said: gree is an actor, a principal in the second degree is one who is present and who aids and abets, incites, procures, counsels and encourages the offence. Under our law any person whether present or absent, who aids, assists, incites or encourages a crime, or who afterward comforts or assists, incites the wrongdoer, is guilty of a misdemeanor. The law does not distinguish between degrees of guilt. Gentlemen, looking into this matter, if you find there was a fight at Richburg on the eighth of July last, and that any prize or reward was put up or wagered thereon, or if any gate or seat fees were collected thereat by any one whomsoever; that a prize was offered, or the fees collected, although the fight may have been by agreement and without anger or ill will, you find an indictment against the actors and their aiders and abettors for said crime of prize-fighting. If, however, you find that there was a fight at Richburg between parties to see which was the best man, and that physical pain was inflicted thereby, and if you find no evidence of any stake being put up thereon, or of any gate fees collected for seats, then you find an indictment against them and their aiders and abettors for assault and battery, even though the fight was by agreement and without any anger or ill will, and with no intention of doing any hurt, except what might be incidental to the purpose of seeing who was the best man."

The grand jury then returned with the district attorney as legal adviser. A petit jury was then empanelled, and a recess taken by the court until 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The court and grand jury adjourned at a late hour this afternoon, without results. There is great anxiety and excitement pervading the attending spectators, with almost a universal sympathy for the defendants. The people hope to see Sullivan heavily fined, but object to his imprisonment, and they wish to see the aiders and abettors go free.

MANITOBA'S SCHOOL ROW.

An Alleged Government Discovery—Not Abolition, But Reconstruction.

WINNIPEG, August 11.—According to the Brandon Sun, which is the organ of the local Government, a startling discovery has been made in connection with the finances of the Catholic section of the Board of Education. The Sun says the Government satisfied themselves that the Catholic system had a considerable sum of money that had not been applied to the purposes for which it was voted and intended. The board having manifested a disinclination to disgorge, the government declined to recognize any demand by it until the matter was satisfactorily adjusted. When it became apparent that supplies would be cut off, the Catholic section decided to comply with the demands of the government, and paid over nearly fourteen thousand dollars in cash.

Yesterday's Free Press reported that Premier Greenway had assured two French members of the legislature that all the talk indulged in about the abolition of separate schools was mere bosh, but the Premier denies that any deputation waited upon him for any explanation of the government's policy in the matter, or that he had said even informally things attributed to him. The Free Press repeats its assertion and says it is absolutely true.

From a full report of Hon. Mr. Smart's speech at Somis it appears that no promise was given of the abolition of seperate schools, but merely of reconstruction.

Michel Dumas, jr., has returned from Paris, where he belonged to a wild West show, the climate having affected his health. He says Gabriel Dumont has not yet visited Paris, but is ill in Montana.

Town Tattle.

They tell me that Chevilliard, a famous French artist, is indebted for his fame and a million francs to a single happy thought. He had painted many pictures which the newspapers would not notice and nobody would buy, and he began to think, as he was very poor, that a plunge in the Seine would be his shortest cut to the end of his troubles. Pondering over this last recourse of desperate Parisians he one day walked in the forest of Fontainbleau, where he met a brother artist who by stress of circumstances had been reduced temporarily to the position as an errand boy. He had on his arm a priest's vestments which he was carrying to a modiste to be repaired. An idea struck Chevilliard and after a good deal of persuasion he prevailed upon his friend to loan him the garments for a couple of days, and at once set about painting a picture in which a disreputable gamin in the priest's robe was the central figure. When the picture was exhibited it became the talk of Paris and the painter's fame and fortune were made.

The picture was no better than scores that Chevilliard had painted before, but it won notice. A single thought raised the artist from obscurity to fame, from indigence to wealth.

* * *

Chevilliard deserved his reward, but such reward as often falls to those who are wholly unworthy of it as to those by whom it has been earned.

* * *

One whose genicism is very marked goes further, and says, "it is easy to discover what the gods think of the world's applause and its wealth, by considering the character of the men upon whom they are bestowed."

* * *

And after all, what is the fame which men most strive for? Sir John Lubbock says, "To be nameless in worthy deeds exceeds an infamous history. The Canaanitish woman lives more happily without a name than Herodias with one; and who would not rather have been the good chief than Pilate? We have but meagre biographies of Shakespeare or of Plato; yet how much we know about them."

* * *

And the desire for riches is better than their possession; the fear of poverty is worse than poverty itself. The butterfly crumbles in the hand that grasps it and the giant that bars the way proves a shadow on near approach. "We dread ghosts more than robbers, not only without reason, but against reason; for even if ghosts existed how could they hurt us? and in ghost stories, few, even those who say they have seen a ghost, "ever profess or pretend that they have felt one."

A New Brunswick Industry.

[Bangor Commercial.]

Hon. David McLellan, one of the most prominent gentlemen in New Brunswick, was in the city to-day on a flying visit. He came through to Orono on a business trip of a somewhat peculiar nature. It seems that Mr. McLellan is one of the leading members of a large company which has been formed to take the moss from a great bog near Musquash Station N. B., and ship for commercial purposes. The scheme originated some time ago and the moss has already been used to quite an extent for bedding and other purposes. It is eleven feet deep in the bog and one of its peculiarities are that it will absord 100 per cent of water or far more than a sponge. Of course it has to be thoroughly dried before it can be shipped and one of its peculiar properties is that when it is dry it will not burn. Quite a business has already sprung up bringing the moss litter from Germany into New York and the Province men propose to compete with them. They have a great demand for the product and Mr. McLellan says that if they had 10,000 tons of the moss ready for shipment they could dispose of it at $10 per ton. He came to Orono to look at the sawdust press at F. W. Aver & Co.'s mill and they intend to purchase some of the presses of the Maine Compress company to use in their moss baling business. The recent bonanza found at the bottom of an Eastern Maine pond and this big enterprise show that the seemingly useless parts of this great eastern country can all be utilized.
