"UNDER SOUTHERN SKIES."

"Under Southern Skies," the attraction which will appear at the Opera House tonight is one of the most successful plays now before the public.
Although it has never before been presented in our city, it comes with the endorsement of five phenomenally successful seasons in the East. "Under Southern Skies," written by Lottie Blair Parker, author of "Way Down East," was first presented in New York City at the Theatre Republic (now Belasco's Theatre), in November, 1901, and was immediately accepted by the critics and public of New York.
It has since played to an uninterrupted succession of crowded and fashionable houses. As we may judge from its title, the play deals with life in the sunny south and the stage pictures of that land of beauty are a delight to the eye of the beholder. The cast is a large one, numbering twenty-three people, each one of whom has been specially selected for their ability and fitness for their roles.—Adv.

Village Doomed and Desert It.

GENEVA, Aug. 22.—Over 5,000 peasants fled from Val Vedasca on the Swiss Italian frontier during a great storm on Lake Maggiore today.
The superstitious villagers declare they saw an angel in the sky pointing a finger at the valley. They consequently believed the valley was doomed and in great terror fled from their furnishing orchards, gardens and fields, which are deserted.

ST. JOHN STAR.

ST. JOHN, N. B., AUG. 23, 1906.

THE TELEPHONE MERGER.

There will be a general feeling of relief over the announcement that the telephone war is at an end. It is true that a certain amount of satisfaction was felt in the prospect of a reduction in rates through competition between the two companies, but this was overshadowed by the fear held by merchants and others that it would become necessary to install two instruments. If two companies were in operation in this province, without an inter-working agreement, confusion would be the natural result, and far more inconvenience would be caused than any reduction in rates could pay for. This has been the experience of other cities, where a dual telephone service has proven an unmitigated nuisance. It is however to be hoped that the agreement which is now being drawn up between the two provincial companies will result in a lowering of rates, and not in an advance based on the formation of what now practically amounts to a monopoly.

THINGS HAVE CHANGED.

Only a few years ago there was a cry from all parts of New Brunswick that game was being exterminated.
Today the province holds out an invitation to sportsmen to come here for the finest hunting in Eastern America.
There was, within the past decade, a change of heart, and deer were soon become mere memories, so great was the slaughter and so loosely were the laws enforced. Then there was instituted a proper system of protection, the regulations were made rigid, and it was definitely shown that the instructions issued to wardens were to be observed. The result has been that instead of big game being exterminated there has been such an increase in the numbers of animals that the attraction is becoming a valuable source of revenue to the province. At the present time game is so plentiful that sportsmen from other places instead of being regarded as undesirable visitors are to a certain extent sought for by the province, largely for the public revenue, and there is no fear under improved regulations, of the larger game being killed off. During the present summer there has been judging from reports, a marked increase in the numbers of moose and deer, and in the coming autumn New Brunswick will prove a better hunting ground than has been the case for many years.

THE NEW IRELAND TRAGEDY.

Crimes such as that which came to light in Albert County yesterday, are fortunately rare in New Brunswick.
The criminal statistics published by the government place this province in a very creditable position in the matter of indictable offences. Hence it may be that the rare occurrence of murders make such crimes seem all the more appalling.
The killing of Miss McAulay was a particularly brutal affair. She is described as a lovely woman, one who conscientiously performed her duties in that sphere of life in which she was placed and who made friends on all sides. There could be no personal motives for the crime, and the inference would seem to be that the murder was committed either out of passion or as an adjunct to robbery. The truth will, no doubt, be learned in a very short time. What is required now is that the murderer be brought to trial, that there be no delay consistent with justice, and that proper punishment be inflicted.

ABOUT THE POLICE.

As a result of two cases heard recently in the police court, there has developed among the rougher element of the city an almost total disregard for the authority of the police. In one of the cases referred to, an officer was charged with an assault, the contention being that he was at the time of the affair in the pay of private parties, and that his authority existed only when he was acting as a police officer for the city. In the second case an arrest was made of a man who, in the opinion of the officer, was not capable of taking care of himself, and whose conduct was such that he should be placed in custody. The decisions in both instances were against the officers. Without calling in question the justice displayed, the fact remains that the publicity given to these cases, and the impression which was created, has had rather serious results. Repeatedly during the past week policemen have been openly defied by the more disreputable and insolent characters in the city. Their orders, in public places where crowds are wont to gather, have not been obeyed, and the members of the force have been placed in a rather awkward position. They desire to do their duty, to act with judgment at all times, but the fear that they may make a mistake and overlook the mark is responsible for greater forbearance than any official should be compelled to exercise. To maintain order the police must receive the hearty support of law abiding citizens, and the encouragement of such a feeling of disrespect as now exists will undoubtedly tend to interfere with the maintaining of proper order in the city. The policemen, as guardians of the law, must be respected.

THE LONGING OF THE MASHER.

Since manhood crowned my carot hair with golden, glossy sheen; While travelling down life's rugged road, through the gray fields and the green;
In sunshine or in shadowy days; when telling or at rest, One steady, all-absorbing wish has my poor mind possessed: I never would care to wield the rod of empire or of state, Nor sit in sumptuous council-halls, the world to me a waste; I would not have the nation halt, and listen when I spoke; I simply ask to know how many female hearts I've broke.

I'd like to know what ruby lips have waited for a kiss;
How many gentle, loving hearts have flattered up in bliss; In short, how many girls have been "stuck" on my form and face, As I mingled with the pretty dears, yet didn't feel a trace Of that strange, sweet, soul-stirring stare, humbly calls love; That makes a man grow pale and weak, and gentle as a dove—Ye gods that rule affection's course!
This bit of news impart!
How many lives are blank because of this impervious heart?

It seems to be a noble thing to win where others fail;
To have such storms of goo-goo glances worked without avail; To brave such multitudes of smiles, low words and winning ways, And not drift into sleepless nights, and moody, dismal days;
And then to have the masheers mashed, and groveling at your feet: Can triumph on the field of blood be grander, more complete?
And yet stern, unrelenting fate the conqueror's bliss would foil; Withholding that he longs to know, the number of his spoil.

PRESSING THE QUESTIONS.

Mr. Sambo—See here, Mr. Johnson, might I make so free as to ask you what you have about when I saw you last evening?
Mr. Johnson—Why—er—uh, I was gittin' ready ter feed some of 'em William's chickens.
Mr. Sambo—But reply is good fur as it goes. But would it strike you as a wonder, As there is already a large number of entries, and the entry list does not close until noon today, the race will probably be slated in heats.—Adv.

NO FUN FOR HIM.

The pretty girl with the auburn hair had refused him.
"I never dreamed, Mr. Smykins," she said, "that your attentions to me were anything more than those of a friend."
"Oh, you didn't!" cried the young man. "You thought I had been coming here regularly once a week during the last six months merely for the pleasure of seeing you eat a half-crown box of chocolates, did you?"

WHY HE WAS MARRIED.

Mr. Sambo—Bill Ellis hadn't heard that I was married.
Mr. Henroost—Hah! eh?
Mr. Sambo—No, indeed. He jest met me on de street an' asked me why I wasn't workin'!

HALF CALE.

"I can read you like a book, Lord Debutant," said the haughty father, a wealthy publisher, who had listened to the proposal for the hand of the fair daughter.
"Take a book, sir? Explain yourself."
"You've got an attractive title, but I don't like the way you seem to be bound. Your type is bad and your development is poor. Your principal character is not well defined, and the best place for you would be on a shelf —and a back one at that."—Tit-Bits.

DARWIN REVERSED.

He was a man among men,
But alas!
"It's sad, but none the less true, He met a woman—
And she made a monkey of him.

A CHOICE OF EVILS.

It was during an epidemic of typhoid fever.
"Do you boil your drinking water?" a man was asked.
"No, I freeze it," was the reply.
"Well," said the other, "I'd just as soon have an aquarium inside me as a cemetery."

OPPOSITION.

A gentleman in a stage coach passing through the city of Bath, and observing a handsome edifice, inquired of the driver what building it was. The driver replied, "It is the Unitarian Church." "Unitarian!" said the gentleman, "and what is that?" "I don't know," said the John, "but I believe it is the opposition line."

DOMVILLE PROTESTS.

MONTREAL, Aug. 22.—A cable from London says Senator Domville has been spending a few days in camp with the King's Colonials, at Buckinghamshire, and the impression which was created, has had rather serious results. Repeatedly
been openly defied by the more disre-
their duty, to act with judgment at

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 22.—Excitement like that in the first rush days has occurred in the Klondyke this month, and stampedes to stake claims for dredging take place almost daily and sometimes nightly. The operations of the Guggenheims were chiefly responsible for this. When the millionaires reached Dawson nearly half the town wanted to sell their claims. The Klondyke River is staked from its mouth; Gold Bottom, All Gold, Soap River Front, and others contain a forest of stakes, and one enthusiast has even staked All Shooting Range Mountain top above West Dawson. The Guggenheims say they are greatly pleased with their investments in the Klondyke, and will buy "anything that looks really good." The enthusiast Klondikers, who have been waiting for millions since the boom died, hail this announcement with great joy.
A remarkable tale of an attempt to salt samples of White Channel gravel, which the Yukon government was testing at the government mill, is told by people who came down with the Guggenheims. In the first place the White Channel discovery was much heralded as being made by Cheechaco (tenderfoot). It was said they found gold while digging holes for posts on which will be strung the heavy wires to conduct the power of the Guggenheimer plant from Twelve Mile to the mouths of the Klondyke River and Bonanza Creek. The most alarming surprise to the assayers was experienced when a portion of the gravel which had run low-grade at the first sample jumped to phenomenal values when a second sample was tested. The government tested nineteen samples in all, and much difficulty was experienced in keeping them free from doctored material. The salting was done by putting gold in the acids used in the cyanide process.

At the St. Andrews rink this evening the band will furnish music, and after the last band there will be a one mile race open to any boy in the city now over 15 years of age. There are a number of entries for this race, and as all the boys are fast skaters, a close and exciting race may be looked for. One lad named Gibson from Moncton has entered and is said to be a wonder. As there is already a

DEATHS.

Mr. F. G. Spencer yesterday received a telegram from Trainer Barlow, owner of the famous Hippodrome elephants, chronicling the death of the elephant's mascot, a diminutive pony, very much stunted and undergrown.
Mr. Barlow was anxious to know if this would affect the contract held with the St. John show promoter for the approaching exhibition. A return dispatch said it would not. The little horse that died was hardly more than eighteen inches high. It was the smallest of equines, and children simply went in ecstasies over it. While the pony had no particular part in the elephantine performances it was an important adjunct, as it was the pet and baby of the huge fatty animals.
Unless their tiny friend was snuggled beside them they would not sleep, and wherever they went, on or off the stage, little Mr. Horse had to be nearby. It was a remarkable case of animal affection regardless of species.

The Methodist district meeting was concluded last evening. Among the most important business was the determination to establish a summer camp meeting.

The afternoon session opened at two o'clock by devotional exercises, conducted by the chairman.

The report of the committee re resolutions concerning camp meetings was read and after considerable discussion, was unanimously adopted. The report was as follows:

Your committee having considered the resolution of J. Hunter White re the establishment of a summer camp meeting, and the amendment of W. R. Willett, providing for the establishment of a camp ground on the St. John River, and the amendment to the amendment by Dr. James Crisp, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

I. In the opinion of this meeting immediate steps should be taken to secure a suitable place for holding summer schools and camp meetings and of other church gatherings.

II. That a committee be appointed to look into the question of a suitable site and make other necessary arrangements for the carrying out of the above purpose and report either to a special meeting of this district or to the May district meeting.

III. That a committee be appointed to look into the question of a suitable
