New York. April 19—I from the Shipping List)—Business has been dult in all the leading departments, and the rates more or less weak and irregular. The resumption of canal navigation and an easier money market, however, are pretty certain to simulate trade and thus create a reaction f om the recent decrine in certain departments. Even now, Grain and Petroleum tonnage is in demand for late May. June and July loading at much better rates than could be realized for current business. The West India trade has disappointed the expectations of all concerned, for instead of an active demand at high rates, business has been moderate and rates relatively lower than those in other branches of the carrying trade, though somewhat higher than last year.
