

ADVERTISER PUZZLE CONTEST CORNER

Important Questions Answered by Contest Manager and Matters of General Interest Discussed—Contestants Should Watch This Corner

Contestants who have not sent in any new solutions, or the full number of new solutions, are allowed to register with their solutions, should take advantage of the opportunity that they still have of obtaining them. Contestants should bear in mind that there are many of their friends who are contemplating submitting solutions, and that they will be glad to see their names in the list of winners. Contestants should send in their new solutions as fast as they get them, for something might prevent them from sending them in later, thereby causing them to lose this extra prize money. Be sure to send the money to cover the subscription of your new subscribers, also be sure that your new subscribers are new subscribers who have not been renewed, for no credit is given for securing renewals. Each of the new subscribers must pay not less than $2.75, and he has the privilege of entering the contest if he wishes to do so upon the same terms as any other contestant. The $2.75 or more up to $10 paid by him entitling him to submit a solution to the puzzle. Whether these new subscribers submit solutions to the contest or not, each must sign a separate blank, so that the records may be kept in such a way as to show by whom they were interested. If no solution is sent by subscriber you interest, merely write across the face of the chart "No solution submitted" and send it in attached to the blank. Start today to get your new subscribers. If you have no blanks for sending in their subscriptions write for them immediately. For the information of present subscribers it is stated that no change whatsoever will be made in the channel through which you now receive your paper. Entry into the contest means that you will merely advance your subscription in whatever amount you pay, and that you will be glad to see your name in the list of winners. In knowing that your paper is paid for up to a certain date.

DEVELOPMENT OF OBSERVATION IS BASIS OF SUCCESS

T. F. L. Henderson Tells Chamber of Commerce About "Salesmanship That Wins."

"Salesmanship That Wins Today" was the subject of an address given Thursday evening by Thomas F. L. Henderson, business counselor, La Salle Extension University, before the members' council of the local Chamber of Commerce and Association of Business Men. Henderson had an inspiring message for everyone, which he delivered in a highly entertaining manner. "In all my travels," he said, "I have never yet met a man who did not expect that some day he would be successful. He has been born with a silver spoon in his mouth, and he expects to come in some unusual manner, is that they are all wise men where they should be back home. "Success can only come," he continued, "through sacrifice and personal denial. It is a mistake to believe that it is due to a combination of circumstances. In all my researches I have never yet met a really successful businessman who was born with a silver spoon in his mouth. They had reached their pinnacle through endless hard work."

Birthday of Success. In life, the speaker claimed, was that nearly every man had a birthday, the qualifications of which success was modeled. It was every man's duty to increase his talents, he said. Mr. Henderson asserted that the chief drawback to the average man was that he had no observation, the power of observation. It was possible for a man to look at a thing of times without seeing it. He told many stories illustrating that this was so. He also claimed that a man did not do enough serious thinking. It would be well for the world, he said, if every man was forced to do some constructive thinking each day. Coming to the question of the ship the speaker said that there were several things the salesman of fifteen years ago did not do and he said that a good salesman must be a good drinker and a good poker player. The trade has become a genuine profession, and all the old-time ideas have passed to the scrap-heap. A clean life, he claimed, was absolutely essential to successful business.

Four Factors in Selling. There were, he said, only four factors to be considered in making a sale, namely, the customer, the salesman, the product and the sale. The chief thing about salesmanship was the three middle letters, "man." Make the man right, and the other things would care for themselves. One of the greatest essentials in the making of a successful salesman was an extreme interest in what he was doing, he claimed. Each day must be looked upon as one more opportunity of accomplishing something. In addition to knowing himself a man must have the ability of analyzing the other fellow. It was extremely important that the salesman should recognize the type of man he was dealing with. "One of the most disgusting things," Mr. Henderson said, "is to find a client in a retail store who does not know anything about the things he is attempting to sell. Everywhere one finds much indifference among this class of salesman."

Every Man a Salesman. In concluding, the speaker claimed that everyone, even down to a child, was a salesman of some kind. Prof. G. M. Brock of Western University was the guest of honor. He was introduced by Ald. F. E. Harley, who claimed that to Prof. Brock goes all the credit for keeping London on the sport map. He claimed that the exploits of the team which ran in Baltimore had brought the name of London before the whole world. After lauding the work of the team, Professor Brock called upon all present to give the big athletic meet which is to be held in the lower armory on Saturday night their undivided support. He said that it was not the intention of the committee to ask for personal contributions toward the expense of bringing the Baltimore team here, but he did ask everyone to back the boys by their presence. Mr. Brock asserted that as London was setting itself up as the hub of Western Ontario, the businessmen of the city must become leaders.

Boost Athletic Meets. "If we are to become leaders," he continued, "we must have followers. You men can help us in a way which you never dreamed of. I am sure that each one of you have a wide circle of acquaintances throughout Western Ontario. All I ask is that every time you meet one of these men you should boost our athletic meets. I want every man of you to back us up. If you do we will have the finest and

NEAR EAST HOLDS KEY TO DIFFICULTIES, SAY ENGLISH WOMAN

Miss Magda Coe Addresses Women's Canadian Club.

INTERVIEW WITH KRASSIN

Urges Women to Study International Policies and So Avert War.

"You will find that the key to all our difficulties lies in the Near East, when you understand the international policy, and I want to urge the women of Canada to study international policy," declared Miss Magda Coe, before the Women's Canadian Club meeting yesterday afternoon in the Central School. Miss Coe comes to Canada representing the Lord Mayor's fund for Armenian relief, but her words are not merely a plea for money on behalf of this stricken country. They rather clothe the ideas of a brilliant diplomat who has long made a study of foreign policy, and who contemplates the people of Canada to think in international terms, and so avoid such conditions as prevail in Armenia. "The solving of the problems of the Near East, which are intimately connected with the problems of Great Britain, France, Canada and many other countries of the world, depends upon your thoughts, for thoughts are followed by action," she said. "Do you realize that because your heritage is divine, the healing of the world can be accomplished through your thoughts? You must study international problems, for if you do not understand what is happening to other nations you will be dragged into war. Every other nation reacts on your nation, Gravity of Situation. "No words of mine can emphasize the gravity of the situation in Armenia. You say we have come through the world war, my friends, and there are certain things happening in the Near East which will result in something far worse than we deem possible. It is our bounden duty to study the problems of the Near East in order that we may understand what is going on, if we would prevent catastrophe. If women had taken their proper place in the world 50 years ago, I do not think that the conditions in Armenia would have been as they are today. "The people of Armenia are huddled together in squalid shanties, naked, starving, and they are crying to Great Britain, France, Canada, and the United States for help. They are in the hands of the British people. They were one of the first peoples who came to the help of the Allies at the outbreak of the war, and they are in danger of massacre by the Turks. I am ashamed when I hear some of our people advise that we should not settle their own difficulties. "Before leaving England Miss Coe had the opportunity of having a private interview with Krassin, the great genius of the group of Russian trade representatives who came to London recently. "I said that the Russian faction whom they represented were the victims of a most frightful anarchy," she said. "They loathed the sort of thing that had been going on in Russia, but that they knew the soul of Russia could not be killed, because in the soul of Russia—'Christ' abide. I asked him about their negotiations with Turkey, and they meant to do about Armenia. And his reply was that they were negotiating with Turkey because they were to rule Turkey and to compel the Turks to preserve the Armenian race. "Before closing, the speaker urged the Canadian delegates for their unexpected but same independence at this conference. "What at heart of pride ran through London England last week when it was known that of Geneva Canada had shown her independence as a nation," she said. "Mrs. Thomas Baker presided at the meeting in the absence of the president."

Birthright of Success. In life, the speaker claimed, was that nearly every man had a birthday, the qualifications of which success was modeled. It was every man's duty to increase his talents, he said. Mr. Henderson asserted that the chief drawback to the average man was that he had no observation, the power of observation. It was possible for a man to look at a thing of times without seeing it. He told many stories illustrating that this was so. He also claimed that a man did not do enough serious thinking. It would be well for the world, he said, if every man was forced to do some constructive thinking each day. Coming to the question of the ship the speaker said that there were several things the salesman of fifteen years ago did not do and he said that a good salesman must be a good drinker and a good poker player. The trade has become a genuine profession, and all the old-time ideas have passed to the scrap-heap. A clean life, he claimed, was absolutely essential to successful business.

COMMISSION FORM OF CITY GOVERNMENT NOT DISCUSSED

Replies to Mayor Little's Statement at Last Council Meeting. Ald. W. A. Wilson has sent the following letter to The Advertiser in explanation of his stand in regard to commission government. To the Editor of The Advertiser: Pardon me if I correct you on the subject of the first vote on commission government in the council, which you say was lost. The vote was not on the question, which was not necessary, and was carried by 8 to 2. The second vote was for or against any form of commission government, which the issue with the mayor was not lost, but won by 6 to 4 in our favor. The mayor further stated that we had full knowledge of it being in the London bill. I publicly stated that commission form of government was never before the council this year, or read to the council, or known to be in the London bill until we read it in the papers.

THE FIRST INVESTMENT OF PARTNERSHIP OF INTEREST TO YOUNG MEN.

Young men, the engagement ring is the first investment of partnership, and too much care cannot be taken in its selection. If the engagement diamond comes from John A. Nash, My Jeweler, he will know it is perfect, and has that winning smile. His new store is 132 Dundas street, "where you will eventually buy."

MUCH "Y" WORK AMONGST TROOPS DISCONTINUED

Available Funds Nearly All Used—National Council Now in Charge.

The military work of the Y. M. C. A. at the local barracks and among the regular troops will cease next week, it was stated yesterday. Since the armistice was signed, extensive work has been conducted among the soldiers by this department, and troops in training at the barracks express their regret at the recent order. A. B. Dewberry, who has been the secretary of the department, told The Advertiser that military work would be continued by the volunteer hospitals where the men were unable to provide entertainments and conduct social evening. Lack of funds is given as the reason for closing this work among the regular troops. When the war closed all "Y" supplies and equipment used in France were sold, and the money so obtained was used for financing the military work at home. So extensively was this carried out that the money has been almost entirely expended. In some districts of Canada there still remains considerable military "Y" work to be done, and in these cases the secretary will be kept on the regular staff. This will not be necessary here, as the national council of the Y. M. C. A. has taken on the shoulders the work of providing entertainments and recreation among the soldiers in the Westminster Hospital and the Byron Sanatorium.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY MEETS AT STRATHROY

That the Strathroy Agricultural Society is in a flourishing condition was manifested at its meeting on Wednesday, when the president, Donald Graham, occupied the chair.

The prize list for the ensuing year was discussed, and R. A. Penn, agricultural representative for the county of Middlesex, was present in connection with the juvenile competitors. The various public schools are being encouraged to enter these contests, in which school products are shown and liberal prizes awarded. Substantial awards are also being offered in a competition for children who have gardens at their homes and are able to make an individual display. It was also agreed to arrange for a children's exhibit in canned products from their gardens, and it is hoped to have a canning competition at the time in which the participants will bring their own canning outfit and demonstrate what they can do. Plans are likewise being made to add some prizes for girls exhibiting work in the women's department, such as plain and fancy sewing, darning, etc. Prospects for a good show next fall are excellent, and the society is in the happy position of having a surplus to their credit. Some improvements in the grounds and other details were also arranged for.

A PRESENTATION OF NEW SPRING MODES

The Saturday fashion displays will be of special interest to every woman. The Millinery Department is showing many introductory specials in Smart New Hats with which to begin the season; many off-the-face models, others with tiny brims, rolled sailors and pokes. Flowers in many colors announce the season. Feathers, too, are a popular fancy.

The New Easter Suits are most attractive and smart. New straight-line models in one or two of a kind with touches of embroidery or bridging; others plain and simple; and the new lower prices are receiving much comment.
