"Household Effects $500.00"

A True Story
By R. L. Wood

Before his death he frequently deplored the fact that his grown-up children had left home and gone to the city. His disappointment was not that he had lost money by their desertion, which had compelled him to leave part of his farm unworked for want of help. He was an affectionate father, who liked to have his children near him. He could not understand why they should want to drift away one by one.

Strangers may have wondered also until they read that item in the inventory of the estate—"Household effects, $500."

Waiting for Better Days
For a generation that family had lived in a house with an irreducible minimum of furniture. When a young fellow of the farmer had taken his blushing bride home, he did not have a great deal of home, he did not have a great deal of home, he did not have a great deal of home, he did not have a great deal of home. But content to wait for better days. But when better days came, and there was a modest sum available, it was spent on better accommodations and furnishings for the live stock. That was fine. That was humane. It was also good business.

One of the Best in Several Counties
In time the farm came to be one of the best equipped in several counties. The machinery was of the very latest and best description. The live stock were glad and content to stay on the farm. But the young folks were not content to stay.

There were four sons and two daughters. A piece of furniture had been added to the house from time to time, generally the second-hand furniture store supplied the need. For years the family managed with just as little and as cheap furniture as could be made serve their purpose. The stable and barn were comfortable, but inside the old farmhouse there was neither comfort nor beauty.

$6,000 at 6 Per Cent
An item in the inventory showed $6,000 invested in securities paying 6 per cent. Part of that money invested in comfortable, artistic furniture would have transformed the farmhouse into a real home and would have paid the farmer indefinitely better, both in cash and moral dividends.

The house furnished with suitable and moderately priced furniture, instead of its scattering of cheap odds and ends, would have attracted the children. Children naturally love its presence, and their nature craved for its presence. Some of the boys might have been inclined to remain on the farm and the mother might not have been left alone to carry on the dairying and other duties.

A Hard Chest Against the Wall
Bare walls and scantily covered floors, a hard chest against the wall in lieu of a couch, offer feeble counter-attractions to the lure of the luxurious city.

The children who deserted the farm probably did not blame the lack of home comforts for their desertion. They were not jealous of the cows and horses because of their more comfortable quarters. They carried away with them many happy memories of the old homestead.

But they went, and can you wonder when you read that illuminating item?—"Household effects, $500."

"Better Furnished Homes Mean Greater Happiness"

Beautiful furniture transforms an ordinary, uninteresting house into a real home, in which it is a pleasure to live.

It brings an atmosphere of cheerfulness and brightness into every room. It delights the eye. It gives rest and comfort to the body. It brings contentment to the mind. It gladdens the heart. It makes home life more attractive. It makes people take more pride in their homes.

Nothing that you can buy will give your family more years of happiness and solid satisfaction than modern furniture.

And beautiful, well-made, Canadian furniture is obtainable in moderately-priced sets and individual pieces, as well as in the more elaborate and expensive suites.
